Unsnarling the World-Knot David Ray Griffin,2008-03-25 The mind body problem which Schopenhauer called the world knot has been a central problem for philosophy since the time of Descartes Among realists those who accept the reality of the physical world the two dominant approaches have been dualism and materialism but there is a growing consensus that if we are ever to understand how mind and body are related a radically new approach is required David Ray

Griffin develops a third form of realism one that resolves the basic problem common to dualism and materialism of the continued acceptance of the Cartesian view of matter In dialogue with various philosophers including Dennett Kim McGinn Nagel Seager Searle and Strawson Griffin shows that materialist physicalism is even more problematic than dualism He proposes instead a panexperientialist physicalism grounded in the process philosophy of Alfred North Whitehead Answering those who have rejected panpsychism as obviously absurd Griffin argues compellingly that panexperientialism by taking experience and spontaneity as fully natural can finally provide a naturalistic account of the emergence of consciousness an account that also does justice to the freedom we all suppose in practice
