The flowchart illustrates the Engineering Change Process. It begins with two inputs: CAD - Development Drawings and Mfg - Production Drawings, both of which feed into an Engineering Review & Approval step. This step involves Engineering, Manufacturing, and other functions as dictated by company policy. The process then moves to Revised Drawing & Specifications, followed by Final Approval & Release. The next step is Approved Change Description, which leads to Storage & Retrieval on Disk. A One - Level Electronic Change Processing System is also shown, which interacts with the Approved Change Description step.
