Chartier, G.L. Ferrero, U.M. Henius, S. Hultberg, J. Sachau, M. Wiinblad, 2012-12-02 Biomass is set to play an increasing role in the supply of energy both in the industrialised world and in developing countries as concern for the state of the global environment grows The possibility for the acceleration of commercial production has received support from the increasing involvement of the large power producers and the growing political commitments of several European countries The 9th European Bioenergy Conference was held in Copenhagen 24-27 June 1996 Interest in this conference series continues to grow and the event attracted around 700 delegates from 45 countries In contrast to previous events more emphasis was placed on demonstrating bioenergy technology in the marketplace Overviews on recent achievements in commercial or near commercial activities formed the main focus of the event but highlights of advances in science and technological development were also presented in addition to papers covering environmental aspects of bioenergy The proceedings contain 350 state of the art papers addressing the following areas primary production of biomass provision and production of solid biomass fuels processes for large power plants processes for decentralised heat and power production processes for production of transportation fuels market economic and environmental aspects of bioenergy and policy measures to overcome non technical barriers      Energy Henry Robert Bungay, 1982      Integrating Ecology and Poverty Reduction Jane Carter Ingram, Fabrice DeClerck, Cristina Rumbaitis del Rio, 2012-02-15 In the past the science of ecology has frequently been excluded from the development agenda for various reasons Increasingly however there has been a renewed interest in finding more ecologically sustainable means of development that have required a strong foundation in ecological knowledge for example EcoAgriculture Partnerships EcoHealth presented at ESA and EcoNutrition proposed by Deckelbaum et al Each of these examples has already taken the critical first step at integrating ecological knowledge with agriculture health and nutrition respectively However this is only the first step more attention needs to be placed not only on the role that two fields can play towards poverty alleviation but on the role of a truly integrated interdisciplinary approach towards development goals that is firmly grounded in ecological understanding We feel that a critical look at what ecology can and cannot provide to the development agenda in light of the Millennium Development goals is timely and crucial The introduction and the final section of the book will then integrate the lessons and principles outlined in each of the chapters All chapter authors will be heavily encouraged to focus on how their sub discipline in ecology impacts overall human well being and environmental sustainability Fourth International Conference on Energy Options Institution of Electrical Engineers.
