In a land of wind and willows two canoeists encounter some other worldly wind turbines From The Sentinels Dunn He said that he was taking the way of the wind and the sky and that he was going in to Them by which I presume he meant going into the tower and scaling the ladder And he said other things That our thoughts made patterns in their world left prints as it were as did theirs in ours and that that was how they d found us by listening to our thoughts zeroing in on our patterns And he said that Bobby was merely a bundle of sensory organs wrapped in a skin of decaying matter and so wasn t important wasn t needed That only they mattered they the beings attached to and inhabiting the turbines And that that Detective Shaw What Mrs Dunn Say it Dunn But don t you see It doesn t matter what he said because it wasn t him speaking not really Bobby would never have described a human being as just a bundle of sensory organs he truly believed with every fiber of his being that we were more than that more than just the sum of our parts it was what inspired him to become a doctor in the first place And knowing what I knew knowing what kind of man he was I pressed him telling him that Bobby did matter that he mattered to his patients and that he mattered to me more than I would ever be able to describe And then I approached him and embraced him and told him I loved him feeling for the briefest of moments the spirals beginning to close on his back and he smiled his eyes returning to normal after which he said or started to say I love room tone Detective Shaw inaudible He he told you he loved you Dunn No He his eyes rolled back and then his face it simply imploded In a spiral Like someone had flushed a toilet full of blood and brains Man In Suit Wayne Kyle Spitzer,2025-02-19

Love Japanese giant monster movies Ever wonder what it would be like to destroy Tokyo yourself Or how dangerous it would be to be zipped into a 250 pound rubber suit and put into a massive tank while pyrotechnics go off and powerful lights hang above the water Man in Suit reminds us that the people behind the monsters are all too human There were two things that Sakura insisted on from the start the first was that every shooting day be concluded by crossing an enormous red number off his enormous mobile whiteboard which he had rolled out onto the soundstage and the second was that the Kaijira Military March which had originally been composed for the Japanese Imperial Army during WWII be looped and played from huge loudspeakers every time we were on set to the point that I could hear it in my head virtually everywhere I went in the commissary using the restroom on the train going home while I was sleeping Especially while I was sleeping It was in a sense as if we'd gone off to war as if the blue screen material undulating before the turbines when we shot in the outdoor tank were in fact our banner and Sakura's barking of Hajime our battle cry Indeed it was as if the sounds of our efforts the clack clack of the slate and the coordinated shouting of the crew the grunting of the actors the crackle of the pyrotechnics had merged to become a rhythm and a cadence of their own a mantra as guttural and precise as any karate match a meditation Nor was the war comparison purely hyperbolic it's often been said that war is not just a new experience but a new world and this with its bloodbath of sweat and rubber and black powder smoke its hot lights and shockingly physical fights was nothing if not that at least to a kid from West Lafayette Indiana a kid whose previous experience with kaiju consisted mostly of watching them battle it out on a 16 inch Zenith color television whilst eating Frosted Flakes and collecting shag carpet rug burns And yet as the days passed and the numbers were crossed off I came to understand not just the outlandishness of what they the suit actors were doing but the familiarity of it for what it ultimately boiled down to especially with regards to what was required of them physically was American pro wrestling a realization that made me not just fall in love with them all over again but to really study them to try to get inside their suits to imagine what it was like to actually be them How hot it must have been for one how difficult to breathe How burdensome the suit must have become after having been essentially locked inside it for several hours the sheer weight on one's bones and musculature the stench of latex and one's own body odor the impaired hearing and vision the claustrophobia I couldn't help but wonder how Sakura had managed to play the monster so late into his career well into his 50s nor what the old man was presently thinking now that he'd traded his fur lined flight helmet for a bullhorn and steered toy airplanes instead of real ones But mostly I focused on Kikuta who soldiered on valiantly despite the burden of two equally great weights the Kaijira costume itself which was the most cumbersome of them all and Daigo's attempt to turn a carpool with Izumi into a stealth courtship a ploy so obvious that she herself was blind to it Nor had a modest raise in his pay changed anything he was still riding the same crusty moped while Daigo drove his Z and talked about upgrading which by the second to last day of the shoot he had to a brand new Mazda Miata and a rear plate that read MECHA 1 And it might even have remained that way at least long enough to finish the shoot if Kikuta hadn't opened his pay envelope as the pair drove away and realized he'd been given the wrong check
