

When I get old, they're never going to say, "What a sweet old lady".
They are going to say, "What on earth is that crazy old woman up to now!".

I Forgot To Get Old:

I Forgot to Get Old Helen Lewison, 2002-12-10 I have always prided myself on having a good memory but suddenly I looked in the mirror and saw a woman with white hair Who was she She looked familiar but was she someone I knew Internally I am still this nubile creature anxiously awaiting another day another adventure and every person a puzzle Did I have all the adventures Did I solve all the puzzles Did I have a memory lapse Did I move to another dimension When did I get older When did I grow up Am I really wiser and mellower I don't think so All the people I have known and met have seen my face and that is where I've been The reflection of how others perceived me is the image I have of myself There have been a variety of faces over the years but I seem to remember only the smiling happy ones I must have an erase mode that wipes out all the negative images I received I feel the same as I did ten twenty thirty years ago or I think I do There is always not necessarily a fire in my belly but certainly there are an abundant number of embers that with a little fanning begins to glow There is still the mischievous five year old the sober twelve year old and the earnest twenty one and on it goes but who is that woman I now see in the mirror I guess I will just have to get in touch with my inner child and tell it You don't have to act your age but try to be considerate of that woman in the mirror It could turn out to be you The Independent, 1914
