I Survived Academia Bill Warkentin, 1986      Surviving the Academy Danusia Malina, Sian Maslin-Prothero, 2003-09-02

This text brings together writing and research on feminist experience in academia. It covers issues such as provision of care, maternalism in the academy and dynamics of interaction between women in higher education. There are challenging and provocative analyses of many questions: how large is the gap between rhetoric and reality in HE institutions; how do institutions behave towards disabled staff; how far is stereotyping still affecting the roles which women play in academia; what do women face when they combine motherhood with teaching or studying; coping mechanisms and survival tactics are brought under scrutiny and the effect these have on the behaviour of female academics and their interactions with the institution of each other. This text should provide insight and evidence for researchers to further develop their own theories and also many starting points for those wishing to undertake their own research. Written in collaboration with the Women in Higher Education Network      Decolonising the University Gurminder K. Bhambra, Dalia Gebrial, Kerem Nişancıoğlu, 2018-08-20 In 2015 students at the University of Cape Town demanded the removal of a statue of Cecil Rhodes, the imperialist racist business magnate from their campus. The battle cry Rhodes Must Fall sparked an international movement calling for the decolonisation of the world's universities. Today as this movement grows, how will it radically transform the terms upon which universities exist? In this book students, activists and scholars discuss the possibilities and the pitfalls of doing decolonial work in the home of the coloniser, in the heart of the establishment. Subverting curricula, enforcing diversity and destroying old boundaries: this is a radical call for a new era of education. Offering resources for students and academics to challenge and resist coloniality inside and outside the classroom, Decolonising the University provides the tools for radical pedagogical, disciplinary and institutional change.

Academia's Golden Age Richard M. Freeland, 1992 This book examines the evolution of American universities during the years following World War II. Emphasizing the importance of change at the campus level, the book combines a general consideration of national trends with a close study of eight diverse universities in Massachusetts. The eight are Harvard, MIT, Tufts, Brandeis, Boston University, Boston College, Northeastern and the University of Massachusetts. Broad analytic chapters examine major developments like expansion, the rise of graduate education and research, the professionalization of the faculty and the decline of general education. These chapters also review criticisms of academia that arose in the late 1960s and the fate of various reform proposals during the 1970s. Additional chapters focus on the eight campuses to illustrate the forces that drove different kinds of institutions: research universities, college-centered universities, urban private universities and public universities in responding to the circumstances of the postwar years.      Survive and Thrive Wendy Crone, 2022-05-31 The experience of an untenured faculty member is highly dependent on the quality of the mentoring they receive. This mentoring may come from a number of different sources and the concept of developing a constellation of mentors is highly recommended, but a mentoring relationship that is guided by the mentee's needs will be the most productive. Often however the mentee does not know their own needs, what questions to ask and what topics they should discuss with a mentor. This book provides a guide to the mentoring process for untenured faculty. Perspectives are provided and questions posed on topics ranging from establishing scholarly expertise and developing professional networks to personal health and balancing responsibilities. The questions posed are not intended for the mentee to answer in isolation; rather a junior faculty member should approach these questions throughout their untenured years with the help of their mentors. Survive and Thrive: A Guide for Untenured Faculty will help to facilitate the mentoring process and lead junior faculty to a path where they can move beyond just surviving and truly thrive in their position.

Reclaiming Nostalgia Jennifer K. Ladino, 2012. Often thought of as the quintessential home or the Eden from which humanity has fallen, the natural world has long been a popular object of nostalgic narratives. In Reclaiming Nostalgia, Jennifer Ladino assesses the ideological effects of this phenomenon by tracing its dominant forms in American literature and culture since the closing of the frontier in 1890. While referencing nostalgia for pastoral communities and for untamed and often violent frontiers, she also highlights the ways in which nostalgia for nature has served as a mechanism for social change, a model for ethical relationships, and a motivating force for social and environmental justice.
