The Cambridge Introduction to Modern British Fiction, 1950-2000 Dominic Head, 2002-03-07 In this introduction to post war fiction in Britain Dominic Head shows how the novel yields a special insight into the important areas of social and cultural history in the second half of the twentieth century Head's study is the most exhaustive survey of post war British fiction available. It includes chapters on the state and the novel, class and social change, gender and sexual identity, national identity and multiculturalism. Throughout Head places novels in their social and historical context. He highlights the emergence and prominence of particular genres and links these developments to the wider cultural context. He also provides provocative readings of important individual novelists, particularly those who remain staple reference points in the study of the subject. Accessible, wide ranging and designed specifically for use on courses, this is the most current introduction to the subject available. An invaluable resource for students and teachers alike.

Making Waves, Revised and Expanded Geoffrey Nowell-Smith, 2013-06-20. The 1960s was famously the decade of sex, drugs and rock n roll. It was also a decade of revolution and counter revolution, of the Cuban missile crisis, of the American intervention in Vietnam, of economic booms and the beginning of consumerism and the rebellion against it. In Hollywood the genres which had held audiences captive in the 1940s and 50s, musicals, Westerns, melodramas, were losing their appeal and their great practitioners were approaching retirement. The scene was therefore set for new cinemas to emerge to attract the young, the discriminating, the politically conscious and the sexually emancipated. Making Waves, Revised and Expanded is a sharp focused and brilliant survey of the innovative filmmaking of the 1960s, placing it in its political, economic, cultural and aesthetic context, capturing the distinctiveness of a decade which was great for the cinema and for the world at large. Geoffrey Nowell-Smith pays particular attention to a handful of the most remarkable talents: Godard, Antonioni, Oshima, that emerged during the period and helped to make it so special. Nowell-Smith updates his classic text with a focus on 1960s Japan and the burgeoning New York scene.

Home in British Working-Class Fiction Nicola Wilson, 2016-03-09. Home in British Working Class Fiction offers a fresh take on British working class writing that turns away from a masculinist work based understanding of class in favour of home, gender, domestic labour and the family kitchen. As Nicola Wilson shows, the history of the British working classes has often been written from the outside, with observers looking into the world of the inhabitants. Here Wilson engages with the long cultural history of this gaze and asks how home is represented in the writing of authors who come from a working class background. Her book explores the depiction of home as a key emotional and material site in working class writing from the Edwardian period through to the early 1990s. Wilson presents new readings of classic texts including The Ragged Trousered Philanthropists, Love on the Dole and Saturday Night and Sunday Morning, analyzing them alongside works by authors including James Hanley, Walter Brierley, Lewis Grassie Gibbon, Buchi Emecheta, Pat Barker, James Kelman and the rediscovered ex mill girl novelist Ethel Carnie Holdsworth. Wilson's broad understanding of working class writing allows her to incorporate figures typically ignored in this context as she demonstrates the importance of home's role in the making and expression of class feeling and identity.
