Linguistic Criticism:

Linguistic Criticism Roger Fowler, 1986 A particularly fruitful development in literary studies has been the application of ideas drawn from linguistics. Precise analytical methods help the practical criticism of texts while at the same time the theory of language has illuminated literary theory. Linguistic Criticism is an accessible introduction to this often confusing subject. Fowler sets out clearly and simply a variety of analytical techniques whose application he demonstrates in discussions of a wide range of texts drawn from fiction, poetry and drama. He concentrates on structures that relate literature to ordinary language, stressing the importance of the reader's everyday language skills. This second edition has clarified and expanded sections on the role of the reader in literary criticism and includes more twentieth-century texts and examples.

Corpus Linguistics and Textual History Percy van Keulen, Willem Th. van Peursen, 2018-07-17 Over the years the use of computers for research has become increasingly important in Biblical Studies However a combination of computational linguistics with diachronic text critical and text historical approaches has hardly ever taken place Quite often there is mutual misunderstanding between computational linguistics and more traditional approaches in the field of linguistics and textual analysis For example in computer assisted research of modern text corpora it is common to treat the text as an unequivocal and unidimensional sequence of characters In Biblical Studies however either text is considered an abstraction the result of a scholarly reconstruction based on the extant textual witnesses Here a fundamental difference in approach reveals itself The present volume tries to overcome the misunderstanding between the various disciplines and to establish how a fruitful interaction of information technology linguistics and textual criticism can contribute to the analysis of ancient texts It addresses questions concerning the confrontation between synchronic and diachronic approaches the role of linguistic analysis in the interpretation of texts and the interaction of linguistic theory and the analysis of linguistic data The first section of this volume contains the papers presented at the CALAP seminar 2003 In the second section different aspects of the interdisciplinary analysis are applied to a selected passage from the Peshitta of Kings

Text Linguistics and Classical Studies Mauro Giuffrè, 2016-11-17 The work represents a significant scientific advancement on text linguistics from three different viewpoints The first chapter provides an overview of the history of text linguistics from a broader perspective than usual offering a complete reference framework The second chapter presents the procedural approach to the study of text linguistics in a concise way including a critical comparison with other perspectives The third chapter constructs a very unusual bridge between theoretical linguistics and classical studies in that it takes a literary text in Latin from the early imperial period as its case study This combination is rare as theoretical linguists are usually oriented to modern languages and classicists are not generally inclined to the study of formal linguistics It also offers an interesting perspective that intersects the studies of general linguistics and glottology which makes this volume of interest to general linguists classicists philologists and literary critics alike
