Linnaeus Nature Nation:

Linnaeus Lisbet Koerner, 2001-04-16 Drawing on letters poems notebooks and secret diaries Lisbet Koerner tells the moving story of one of the most famous naturalists who ever lived the Swedish born botanist and systematizer Carl Linnaeus The first scholarly biography of this great Enlightenment scientist in almost one hundred years Linnaeus also recounts for the first time Linnaeus grand and bizarre economic projects to teach tea saffron and rice to grow on the Arctic tundra and to domesticate buffaloes guinea pigs and elks as Swedish farm animals Linnaeus hoped to reproduce the economy of empire and colony within the borders of his family home by growing cash crops in Northern Europe Koerner shows us the often surprising ways he embarked on this project Her narrative goes against the grain of Linnaean scholarship old and new by analyzing not how modern Linnaeus was but how he understood science in his time At the same time his attempts to organize a state economy according to principles of science prefigured an idea that has become one of the defining features of modernity Meticulously researched and based on archival data Linnaeus will be of compelling interest to historians of the Enlightenment historians of economics and historians of science But this engaging often funny and sometimes tragic portrait of a great man will be valued by general readers as well The Nation's Nature James D. Drake, 2011-08-05 In one of Common Sense s most ringing phrases Thomas Paine declared it absurd for a continent to be perpetually governed by an island Such powerful words coupled with powerful ideas helped spur the United States to independence In The Nation s Nature James D Drake examines how a relatively small number of inhabitants of the Americas huddled along North America s east coast came to mentally appropriate the entire continent and to think of their nation as America Drake demonstrates how British North American colonists participation in scientific debates and imperial contests shaped their notions of global geography These ideas in turn solidified American nationalism spurred a revolution and shaped the ratification of the Constitution Winner of the Walker Cowen Memorial Prize for an outstanding work of scholarship in eighteenth century studies Nature and Nation Jeyamalar Kathirithamby-Wells, 2005-10-31 Nature and Nation explores the relations between people and forests in Peninsular Malaysia where the planet s richest terrestrial eco system met head on with the fastest pace of economic transformation experienced in the tropical world It engages the interplay of history culture science economics and politics to provide a holistic interpretation of the continuing relevance of forests to state and society in the moist tropics Malaysia has long been singled out for emulation by developing nations an accolade contradicted in recent years by concerns over its capital rather than poverty driven forest depletion The Malaysian case supports the call for re appraisal of entrenched prescriptions for development that go beyond material needs Book cover Placing the Enlightenment Charles W. J. Withers, 2008-09-15 The Enlightenment was the age in which the world became modern challenging tradition in favor of reason freedom and critical inquiry While many aspects of the Enlightenment have been rigorously scrutinized its origins and motivations its principal characters and defining features its legacy and modern relevance the geographical dimensions of the era have until now largely been ignored Placing the Enlightenment contends that the Age of Reason was not only a period of pioneering geographical investigation but also an age with spatial dimensions to its content and concerns Investigating the role space and location played in the creation and reception of Enlightenment ideas Charles W J Withers draws from the fields of art science history geography politics and religion to explore the legacies of Enlightenment national identity navigation discovery and knowledge Ultimately geography is revealed to be the source of much of the raw material from which philosophers fashioned theories of the human condition Lavishly illustrated and engagingly written Placing the Enlightenment will interest Enlightenment specialists from across the disciplines as well as any scholar curious about the role geography has played in the making of the modern world

Imperial Nature Jim Endersby, 2020-05-21 Joseph Dalton Hooker 1817-1911 was an internationally renowned botanist a close friend and early supporter of Charles Darwin and one of the first and most successful British men of science to become a full time professional He was also Jim Endersby argues the perfect embodiment of Victorian science A vivid picture of the complex interrelationships of scientific work and scientific ideas Imperial Nature gracefully uses one individual's career to illustrate the changing world of science in the Victorian era By analyzing Hooker's career Endersby offers vivid insights into the everyday activities of nineteenth century naturalists considering matters as diverse as botanical illustration and microscopy classification and specimen transportation and storage to reveal what they actually did how they earned a living and what drove their scientific theories What emerges is a rare glimpse of Victorian scientific practices in action By focusing on science's material practices and one of its foremost practitioners Endersby ably links concerns about empire professionalism and philosophical practices to the forging of a nineteenth century scientific identity

Nature's Fabric David Lee, 2017-09-28 Leaves are all around us in backyards cascading from window boxes even emerging from small cracks in city sidewalks given the slightest glint of sunlight Perhaps because they are everywhere it's easy to overlook the humble leaf but a close look at them provides one of the most enjoyable ways to connect with the natural world A lush incredibly informative tribute to the leaf Nature's Fabric offers an introduction to the science of leaves weaving biology and chemistry with the history of the deep connection we feel with all things growing and green Leaves come in a staggering variety of textures and shapes they can be smooth or rough their edges smooth lobed or with tiny teeth They have adapted to their environments in remarkable often stunningly beautiful ways from the leaves of carnivorous plants which have tiny trigger hairs that signal the trap to close to the impressive defense strategies some leaves have evolved to reduce their consumption Recent studies suggest for example that some plants can detect chewing vibrations and mobilize potent chemical defenses In many cases we've learned from the extraordinary adaptations of leaves such as the invention of new self-cleaning surfaces inspired by the slippery coating found on leaves But we owe much more to leaves and Lee also calls our attention back to the fact that that our very lives and the lives of all on the planet depend on them Not only is foliage the ultimate source of food for every living thing on land its capacity to cycle carbon dioxide and oxygen can be considered among evolution's most important achievements and one that is critical in mitigating global climate change. Taking readers through major topics like these while not losing sight of the small wonders of nature we see every day if you'd like to identify a favorite leaf Lee's glossary of leaf characteristics means you won't be left out on a limb. Nature's Fabric is eminently readable and full of intriguing research sure to enhance your appreciation for these extraordinary green machines.

The Unreliable Nation Edward Jones-Imhotep, 2025-03-18 An examination of how technological failures defined nature and national identity in Cold War Canada. Throughout the modern period nations defined themselves through the relationship between nature and machines. Many cast themselves as a triumph of technology over the forces of climate, geography, and environment. Some, however, crafted a powerful alternative identity: they defined themselves not through the triumph of machines over nature but through technological failures and the distinctive natural orders that caused them. In The Unreliable Nation Edward Jones-Imhotep examines one instance in this larger history: the Cold War era project to extend reliable radio communications to the remote and strategically sensitive Canadian North. He argues that particularly at moments when countries viewed themselves as marginal or threatened, the identity of the modern nation emerged as a scientifically articulated relationship between distinctive natural phenomena and the problematic behaviors of complex groups of machines. Drawing on previously unpublished archival documents and recently declassified materials, Jones-Imhotep shows how Canadian defense scientists elaborated a distinctive Northern natural order of violent ionospheric storms and auroral displays and linked it to a machinic order of severe and widespread radio disruptions throughout the country. Tracking their efforts through scientific images, experimental satellites, clandestine maps, and machine architectures, he argues that these scientists naturalized Canada's technological vulnerabilities as part of a program to reimagine the postwar nation. The real and potential failures of machines came to define Canada: its hostile Northern nature, its cultural anxieties, and its geopolitical vulnerabilities during the early Cold War. Jones-Imhotep's study illustrates the surprising role of technological failures in shaping contemporary understandings of both nature and nation.

A Hideous Monster of the Mind Bruce Dain, 2009-07-01 The intellectual history of race, one of the most pernicious and enduring ideas in American history, has remained segregated into studies of black or white traditions. Bruce Dain breaks this separatist pattern with an integrated account of the emergence of modern racial consciousness in the United States from the Revolution to the Civil War. A Hideous Monster of the Mind reveals that ideas on race crossed racial boundaries in a process that produced not only well-known theories of biological racism but also countertheories that were early expressions of cultural relativism, cultural pluralism, and latter-day Afrocentrism. From 1800 to 1830, in particular, race took on a new reality as Americans, black and white, reacted to postrevolutionary disillusionment: the events of the Haitian Revolution, the rise of cotton culture, and the entrenchment of slavery. Dain examines not only major white figures like Thomas Jefferson and Samuel Stanhope Smith but also the first self-consciously black African American writers. These various thinkers transformed late eighteenth-century

European environmentalist natural history into race theories that combined culture and biology and set the terms for later controversies over slavery and abolition In those debates the ethnology of Samuel George Morton and Josiah Nott intertwined conceptually with important writing by black authors who have been largely forgotten like Hosea Easton and James McCune Smith Scientific racism and the idea of races as cultural constructions were thus interrelated aspects of the same effort to explain human differences In retrieving neglected African American thinkers reestablishing the European intellectual background to American racial theory and demonstrating the deep confusion race caused for thinkers black and white A Hideous Monster of the Mind offers an engaging and enlightening new perspective on modern American racial thought

Draughtsmen, Botanists and Nature: Kärin Nickelsen, 2006-09-21 This book is based on a doctoral thesis submitted to the University of Bern in the summer of 2002 Research on the thesis was made possible through a grant provided by the Swiss National Science Foundation SNF from 2000 to 2002 for a project on the history and epistemology of scientific illustrations Project No 1152 059499 Gerd Grahn headed this programme at the University of Bern and made my reworking of the thesis into a book in English possible He also provided the funding for the services of a professional copy editor Margareta Simons Bern The findings presented in this book are closely related to the general results of the SNF project which are published elsewhere the source material can be consulted in an earlier monograph and in an electronic edition on the internet the theoretical approach will be more thoroughly investigated in a textbook on the analysis of scientific illustrations In addition this study has made use of theoretical concepts developed by Gerd Grahn which in their latest form have yet to be published these concern primarily the model concept discussed in Chapter 3 The criteria put forward for optimizing scientific illustrations which are dealt with in Chapter 7 were also originally proposed by Gerd Grahn they were refined and elaborated in the SNF project Some of the material on the copying links presented in this book was first published in 2 an article in Studies in History and Philosophy of Science Part C while some of the material in Chapter 5 on the hand colouring of illustration was 3 published prior to this book in the Annals of Science

I was able to access source material for this study from several archives and 4 institutions Most of the images that I examined originated from copies held in the University Library Göttingen while the remaining illustrations came 1 See Nickelsen 2000 Nickelsen Grahn 2001 and Grahn et al 2001

The Science of Useful Nature in Central America Sophie Brockmann, 2020-09-17 In this ambitious new study Sophie Brockmann argues that interactions with landscape and environment were central to the construction of Central American identities in the Age of Enlightenment She argues that new intellectual connections and novel ways of understanding landscapes had a transformative impact on political culture as patriotic reformers sought to improve the region's fortunes by applying scientific and useful knowledge gathered from local and global networks to the land These reformers established networks that extended into the countryside and far beyond Central America's borders Tracing these networks and following the bureaucrats priests labourers merchants and scholars

within them Brockmann shows how they made a lasting impact by defining a new place for the natural world in narratives of nation and progress

Nature, Human Nature, & Human Difference Justin E. H. Smith, 2015-06-30 People have always been xenophobic but an explicit philosophical and scientific view of human racial difference only began to emerge during the modern period Why and how did this happen Surveying a range of philosophical and natural scientific texts dating from the Spanish Renaissance to the German Enlightenment Nature Human Nature and Human Difference charts the evolution of the modern concept of race and shows that natural philosophy particularly efforts to taxonomize and to order nature played a crucial role Smith demonstrates how the denial of moral equality between Europeans and non Europeans resulted from converging philosophical and scientific developments including a declining belief in human nature's universality and the rise of biological classification The racial typing of human beings grew from the need to understand humanity within an all encompassing system of nature alongside plants minerals primates and other animals While racial difference as seen through science did not arise in order to justify the enslavement of people it became a rationalization and buttress for the practices of trans Atlantic slavery From the work of Fran ois Bernier to G W Leibniz Immanuel Kant and others Smith delves into philosophy's part in the legacy and damages of modern racism With a broad narrative stretching over two centuries Nature Human Nature and Human Difference takes a critical historical look at how the racial categories that we divide ourselves into came into being Infrastructures of Race Daniel Nemser, 2017-05-23 With case studies that link practices of concentration to the emergence of new racial categories this groundbreaking book convincingly argues that race was a product of rather than a starting point for the spatial politics of colonial rule in Latin Ame
