Sir Thomas Johnstone Lipton

Liptons Autobiography:

Lipton's Autobiography Thomas Lipton, 2013-10 This is a new release of the original 1932 edition Lipton's Autobiography Sir Thomas Johnstone Lipton, 1932 Lipton's Autobiography Thomas Lipton (Sir), 1932 Sir Thomas Lipton James Mackay, 2012-12-21 Thomas Lipton burst onto the national scene in 1897 the year of Queen Victoria's Diamond Jubilee The Princess of Wales had launched a 30 000 fund to provide a Jubilee dinner for the poor but with only weeks to go no more than 5 000 had been subscribed Lipton saved the day by writing a cheque for 25 000 The anonymous gift created massive press speculation and even greater publicity when the identity of the donor leaked out two days later Lipton's generosity earned him a knighthood and propelled him into society at the highest level a personal friend of the future King and Queen Many of the myths that surrounded Lipton in the latter part of his life were created at this time and would be fixed for ever in his autobiography published shortly after his death in 1931 Until now what we know of Sir Thomas Lipton grocery millionaire and yachtsman is what he chose to tell the world about himself Now literally detective James Mackay has uncovered the true story of one of the turn of the century's most extraordinary larger than life characters a story which is indefinitely more dramatic than the accepted version Virtually everything Lipton tells us about himself is now shown to be untrue even the origins of his family his name his date of birth and the place where he was born The man who was hailed as the world's most eligible bachelor his name was linked romantically with Rose Fitzgerald the future mother of John F Kennedy had at least two skeletons in the closet a youthful indiscretion which led to a forced marriage and a homosexual affair which lasted for thirty years As a self publicist he was a genius and this was the key to his remarkable success Beginning with a small shop in Glasgoe in 1871 he created a nationwide grocery chain second to none In the process he revolutionised the grocery retail trade dealing direct with producers and eventually controlling production himself with tea estates in Ceylon and meat packing plants in Chicago He combined a flair for organisation with superb showmanship with stunts such as five ton cheeses stuffed with gold sovereigns In 1898 his company went public in one of the most successful share issues in stockmarket history Lipton developed an interest in yachting which he pursued with the same single mindedness as his business ventures Between 1898 and 1930 he challenged for the America's Cup with a succession of yachts called Shamrock but the rules of the race were heavily weighted in favour of the American defenders The saga of his challenges his near triumphs and the disappointments that would have destroyed a less heroic figure has become the most stirring in the annals of sport and provides a fitting conclusion to the life of a maverick and outsider who was also one of the most colourful and flamboyant tycoons of all time The Lipton Story Alec Waugh, 2013-04-22 In this rich and engrossing biography of Thomas Lipton Alec Waugh has recreated the fascinating and complex figure of a man who became a legend in his own lifetime a millionaire before he was forty an unofficial ambassador at large and an unforgettable sportsman to millions of people The son of a struggling grocer Lipton while still a boy showed the business acumen that was later to make him millions by expanding his father's small store into a vast network of shops. A love of the sea had been with him from childhood and yacht racing became the guiding passion of his later years. In 1898 he issued his first Cup challenge and brought Shamrock J to America. By this time Lipton's business enterprises had made him into an international figure. Then a curious thing happened. He bought five successive Shamrocks to America and saw every one of them go down in defeat. Yet each defeat seemed only to brighten Sir Thomas's popularity and prestige. He became without ever winning a symbol of the American ideal of sportsmanship. Never better than in this biography Alec Waugh has caught the excitement, colour and romance of a busy and successful life.

A Thirst for Empire Erika Rappaport, 2019-03-05

Tea has been one of the most popular commodities in the world. Over centuries profits from its growth and sales funded wars and fueled colonization and its cultivation brought about massive changes in land use, labor systems, market practices and social hierarchies, the effects of which are with us even today. A Thirst for Empire takes a vast and in-depth historical look at how men and women through the tea industry in Europe, Asia, North America and Africa transformed global tastes and habits and in the process created our modern consumer society. As Erika Rappaport shows between the seventeenth and twentieth centuries the boundaries of the tea industry and the British Empire overlapped but were never identical and she highlights the economic, political and cultural forces that enabled the British Empire to dominate but never entirely control the worldwide production, trade and consumption of tea. Rappaport delves into how Europeans adopted, appropriated and altered Chinese tea culture to build a widespread demand for tea in Britain and other global markets and a plantation-based economy in South Asia and Africa. Tea was among the earliest colonial industries in which merchants, planters, promoters and retailers used imperial resources to pay for global advertising and political lobbying. The commercial model that tea inspired still exists and is vital for understanding how politics and publicity influence the international economy.

Jacket A Full Cup Michael D'Antonio, 2010-07-08

An in-depth biography of Sir Thomas Lipton, the founder of Lipton Tea, a portrait of a remarkable self-made man and intrepid sailor. Today Lipton means tea. However in his time Sir Thomas Lipton was known for much more. Raised in desperate poverty, he became rich beyond his wildest dreams. He built a global empire of markets, factories, plantations and stockyards. And his colorful pursuit of the America's Cup trophy made him a beloved figure on both sides of the Atlantic. In A Full Cup Michael D'Antonio tells the tale of this larger-than-life figure. Beginning with a journey across the United States just after the Civil War, Thomas J. Lipton developed the ambition and learned the business techniques that helped him create the first chain of grocery stores. Wealthy before the age of thirty, he set his sights on the tea trade and soon his name became synonymous with his product. Lipton's great business success makes for a compelling story of innovation and achievement. Moreover, though Lipton's most intriguing creation was a public persona, one of the first formed with the help of a modern mass media that appealed to millions of ordinary people as well as the elites in America and Europe. Concocting simple stunts like elephant parades, Lipton mastered the new art of obtaining free publicity. With shameless self promotion he became one of the world's most eligible bachelors a patron of the poor and ultimately reached legendary heights when he revived the competition for the America's Cup With one losing attempt after another the gallant Lipton who didn't even know how to sail his own yacht became ever more popular D Antonio's biography brings to vivid life this remarkable figure
