Mellor,2013-08-06 Taking twenty women writers of the Romantic period Romanticism and Gender explores a neglected period of the female literary tradition and for the first time gives a broad overview of Romantic literature from a feminist perspective The Southern Review ,1867 Jeanne Hyvrard, Wounded Witness Helen Vassallo,2007 Critical responses to Jeanne Hyvrard have generally categorised her as a writer of critique of feminine and/or autobiography due to salient features of her oeuvre such as the use of first person narrative a cyclic writing style and the quest for a female language Within these broader considerations however a recurrent motif throughout Hyvrard's writing is that of the body specifically the female body represented as suffering from different forms of physical mental illness and emotional social malaise It is this primordial aspect of Hyvrard's work on which surprisingly little critical analysis has been written that this monograph explores It has been demonstrated that Hyvrard's works can be studied as a unity as well as individually given that all of her texts form part of her wider theory While this theory is often referred to in abstract terms as pensée globale or pensée femme this study shows that it can be more specifically highlighted as a theory of disease i.e the intertwining of physical malady and social malaise medical terms and metaphor and particularly as a social theory of the diseased female body Journal Methodist Episcopal Church, South.
