Emile Verhaeren Stefan Zweig, 2017-10-25 This is a book that conveys the messages of Emile Verhaeren works that contain his great philosophies and perspective to the world Verhaeren's pieces appeared mostly in German and in French hence the translator wanted to retransmit to the public's consciousness the words of futurism of the poet Verhaeren in a unique way THE NEW AGES Tout bouge et l'on dirait les horizons en marche V La Foule The feeling of this age of ours of this our moment in eternity is different in its conception of life from that of our ancestors Only eternal earth has changed not nor grown older that field gloomed by the Unknown on which the monotonous light of the seasons divides in a rhythmic round the time of blossoms and of their withering changeless only are the action of the elements and the restless alternation of night and day But the aspect of earth's spirit has changed all that is subjected to the toil of man Has changed to change again The evolution of the phenomena of culture seems to proceed with ever greater rapidity never was the span of a hundred years as rich as replete as that which stretches to the threshold of our own days Cities have shot up which are as huge and bewildering as impenetrable and as endless as nothing else has been save those virgin forests now fast receding before the onward march of the tilled land More and more the work of man achieves the grandiose and elementary character that was once Nature's secret The lightning is in his hands and protection from the weather's sudden onslaughts lands that once yawned far apart are now forged together by the iron hoop with which of old only the narrow strait was arched oceans are united that have sought each other for thousands of years and now in the very air man is building a new road from country to country All has changed Emile Verhaeren Percy Mansell Jones, 1926 Émile Verhaeren Stefan

Verhaeren, 1916 Poems of Emile Verhaeren Emile Verhaeren, 2016-07-01 Poems of Emile Verhaeren Emile Verhaeren remarkable among of the brilliant group of writers representing Young Belgium and one who has been recognized by the literary world of France as holding a foremost place among the lyric poets of the day was born at St Amand near Antwerp in 1855 His childhood was passed on the banks of the Scheldt in the midst of the wide spreading Flemish plains a country of mist and flood of dykes and marshes and the impressions he received from the mysterious melancholy character of these surroundings have produced a marked and lasting influence upon his work Yet the other characteristics with which it is stamped the wealth of imagination the gloomy force the wonderful descriptive power and sense of colour which set the landscape before one as a picture suggest rather the possibility of Spanish blood in the poet s veins and again his somewhat morbid subjectivity and tendency to self analysis mark him as the child of the latter end of our nineteenth century INDEX
