Empowered School David H. Hargreaves, David Hopkins, 2004-12-23 The Education Reform Act 1988 and recent legislation aim to raise levels of pupil achievement in particular through the introduction of the National Curriculum and improved self management by schools For governors heads and teachers bringing together these changes will require as part of the new partnership strategies for managing development and change to make the school more effective School development plans are a means of realizing this goal The distinctive feature of a development plan is that it brings together in an overall plan national and LEA policies and initiatives the school s aims and values its existing achievements and its needs for development By co ordinating aspects of planning which are otherwise separate the school acquires a shared sense of direction and is able to control and manage the tasks of development and change This book based on the DES project draws on the experience of LEAs and schools which have pioneered school development plans Besides giving advice on constructing and implementing a school development plan the authors provide a full and practical account of how planning and development need to be managed and what this implies for the way the school is organized at present They also describe how schools can be supported in this process and how development planning fits into current movements for school improvement and effectiveness

The Alignment Premium Brian J Caldwell, 2018-11-01 It is time for a new narrative on schools in Australia The Alignment Premium proposes its major features Analysis of approaches in 13 countries including most of the world's top performers provides 15 benchmarks against which Australia's performance is assessed Findings include Alignment among different levels of government may be commendable in some respects but there is much that is coercive contrived dysfunctional or illusory While achieving a top ten ranking will depend on what occurs in schools attention should shift to how systems are adapting to support all schools to become as good as Australia's best Lack of trust and inertia are serious constraints on efforts to transform Australia's schools Programs for professional learning of teachers and school leaders are impressive when assessed against international benchmarks These should be the top priority Building on findings in The Autonomy Premium the focus should be on professional autonomy The challenge is to design a system in which all those who work in or for schools are fully professional This challenge extends to early childhood and innovative approaches to polytechnic education The Alignment Premium is essential reading for policymakers school leaders and researchers who wish to write the new narrative

Restructuring Schools, Reconstructing Teachers Peter Woods,Bob Jeffrey,Geoff Troman,Mari Boyle,2019-07-01 Drawing on wide ranging research this book originally published in 1997 explores how the policy changes of previous years were affecting primary teachers and their work at the time Within the context of worldwide restructuring the thoughts feelings and activities of teachers in their daily work are examined The core argument is that what used to be a complex but fulfilling job distinguished by professional dilemmas which are amenable to professional skill had become increasingly marked by tension and constraint which frustrates teacher creativity While some teachers found new opportunities in the new primary school many used strategical and micro political activity in order to cope while others fell victim to stress and burnout The authors argue that teachers own active involvement in policy change is required if their creative potential is to be realized The book will still be of interest to teachers in primary schools researchers and policy makers
