Epithelial-Mesenchymal Plasticity in Cancer Metastasis Mohit Kumar Jolly ,Toni Celia-Terrassa,2020-12-29 Recent studies have highlighted that epithelial mesenchymal transition EMT is not only about cell migration and invasion but it can also govern many other important elements such as immunosuppression metabolic reprogramming senescence associated secretory phenotype SASP stem cell properties therapy resistance and tumor microenvironment interactions With the on going debate about the requirement of EMT for cancer metastasis an emerging focus on intermediate states of EMT and its reverse process mesenchymal epithelial transition MET offer new ideas for metastatic requirements and the dynamics of EMT MET during the entire metastatic cascade Therefore we would like to initiate discussions on viewing EMT and its downstream signaling networks as a fulcrum of cellular plasticity and a facilitator of the adaptive responses of cancer cells to distant organ microenvironments and various therapeutic assaults We hereby invite scientists who have prominently contributed to this field and whose valuable insights have led to the appreciation of epithelial mesenchymal plasticity as a more comprehensive mediator of the adaptive response of cancer cells with huge implications in metastasis drug resistance tumor relapse and patient survival

EGFR Signaling Networks in Cancer Therapy John D. Haley, William John

Gullick,2009-03-01 The epidermal growth factor EGF receptor and its downstream signal transduction networks have been implicated in the ontology and maintenance of tumor tissues which has motivated the discovery and development of molecularly targeted anti EGF receptor therapies Over decades of study the EGF receptor structure its ligand binding domains the physical biochemistry underlying its intrinsic tyrosine kinase catalytic function and the modular interactions with SH2 PTB and SH3 domain containing signaling adaptor proteins required for signal transduction have been extensively dissected Not only is the EGF receptor the nexus of many streams of information but it also forms one part of a calculating device by forming dimers and oligomers with the other three receptors in its family in response to at least eleven ligands some of which are expressed in multiple forms with overlapping or quite distinct functions This phenomenon while recruiting to the inner surface of the cell membrane and activating multiple second messenger proteins also allows the possibility of cross talk between these systems permitting a further layer of information to be exchanged Less well described are the cross regulation of the EGF receptor and other anti apoptotic mitogenic and metabolic signaling systems The study of these systems has yielded new surprises One hurdle in these efforts has been that signal transduction pathways have frequently been defined in the generic absence of their tissue specific or cell interaction specific context U.S. Army Medical
