Thunder in Europe John Creasey, 2023-04-28 An international criminal spells trouble for the agents of Britain's Department Z in this suspenseful mystery from an Edgar Award winning author. Marius Krotz is notorious for his ability to cause a stir. A former revolutionary turned right hand man to the king of a small European country, he is feared as much for his unscrupulous manner as for his dangerous past. He's planning something big and intelligence agencies across Europe have him in their sights. Department Z is on the case led by the infamous Arran twins and new recruit Jim Burke and this time they're pushed to their limits. Department Z must be prepared for unknown dangers beyond anything they have encountered before and it's a race to take down Krotz before he can cause irreversible international damage. Thunder has been rolling in Europe but can Department Z avoid the lightning?

Thunder in the Morning Homer H. Grantham, 2003-01-01 Thunder in the Morning is Homer H. Grantham's account of a Marine Corps six man naval gunfire spotting team in a joint assault signal company participating in two of the four battles fought by the First Division of the U.S. Marine Corps during World War II in the Pacific. The gunfire spotting team had two radio men, two telephone men, a scout and one officer as the spotter. The team landed in the third wave of the Peleliu assault and called in covering fire using ship to shore radio communications with destroyers, cruisers and battleships during eight days of heavy fighting. Thunder in the Argonne Douglas V.

Mastriano, 2018-06-15 In July 1918, sensing that the German Army had lost crucial momentum, Supreme Allied Commander Ferdinand Foch saw an opportunity to end the First World War. In drafting his plans for a final grand offensive, he assigned the most difficult sector, the dense Argonne forest and the vast Meuse River valley, to the American Expeditionary Forces under General John J. Pershing. There the Doughboys faced thickly defended German lines with terrain deemed impossible to fight through. From September 26 through the November 11 armistice, US forces suffered more than 20,000 casualties a week but the Allies ultimately prevailed in a decisive victory that helped to end the Great War. In Thunder in the Argonne, Douglas V. Mastriano offers the most comprehensive account of this legendary campaign to date. Not only does he provide American, French and British perspectives on the offensive but he also offers for the first time in English the German view. Mastriano presents a balanced analysis of successes and failures at all levels of command, examining the leadership of the principals while also illuminating acts of heroism by individual soldiers. The Meuse-Argonne Offensive is widely regarded as one of America's finest hours and the amazing feats of Sergeant Alvin York, Major Charles Whittlesey of the Lost Battalion and Lieutenant Sam Woodfill all accomplished in the midst of this maelstrom, echo across the ages. Published to coincide with the centennial of the campaign this engaging book offers a fresh look at the battle that forged the modern US Army
