Children's Dreams Claudio Colace, 2018-04-17 This book aims to present a study on the actuality and empirical value of Freud's dream theory even if through the analysis of a specific part of it the hypotheses about children's dreams. It provides a systematic description of Freud's observations on child dreaming and presents the results obtained from four empirical studies on children's dreams that the author conducted during the span of a decade. These studies, two conducted in school settings, one in a home setting and one based on a questionnaire completed by parents, allow an empirical judgment on Freud's main hypotheses on child dreaming: the hypotheses on the formal aspect of children's dreams, the relationship between dream bizarreness and development of the superego functions, and the issue of wish fulfillment dreams. The author concludes that it is possible to test empirically Freud's hypothesis on the early forms of dreaming and that this test is not irrelevant for an empirical judgment of certain more general statements of Freud's dream theory, e.g. the dream censorship hypothesis.

Dreams and Lives in Ottoman Istanbul Asli Niyazioglu, 2016-10-04 Dreams and Lives in Ottoman Istanbul explores biography writing and dream narratives in seventeenth-century Istanbul. It focuses on the prominent biographer Ad 1637 and with his help shows how learned circles narrated dreams to assess their position in the Ottoman enterprise. This book demonstrates that dreams provided biographers not only with a means to form learned communities in a politically fragile landscape but also with a medium to debate the correct career paths and social networks in late sixteenth and early seventeenth-century Istanbul. By adopting a comparative approach, this book engages with current scholarly dialogues about life writing, dreams, and practices of remembrance in Habsburg Spain, Safavid Iran, Mughal India, and Ming China. Recent studies have shown the shared rhythms between these contemporaneous dynasties and the Ottomans, and there is now a strong interest in comparative approaches to examining cultural life. This first English language monograph on Ottoman dreamscapes addresses this interest and introduces a world where dreams changed lives: the dead appeared in broad daylight and biographers invited their readers to the gardens of remembrance. Modern Man

The Theatre of the Dream Salomon Resnik, 2005-11-08 The Theatre of the Dream is a profound study of our dream world and its place in everyday life The author grounds his ideas in Freud and psychoanalysis authors such as Klein Bion Rosenfeld and Matte Blanco but also draws on the approach to dream phenomena in the work of philosophers artists and poets He argues that dreams are indeed as the ancients held messages The dream is a theatrical re recreation of certain unconscious experiences which are both subjective and objective at the same time It expresses not only desire but a complex working over of a problematic situation that is not quite resolved In waking the dream is a new elaboration of everyday experience and one which creates the seeds of oracular awareness Resnik develops his thesis with ample and enlightening examples of dreams and their significance from his own patients The author's achievement is a new psychoanalytic reading of dreams one which does justice to Freud's momentous discovery but which broadens it and places it within the wider context of subsequent developments in psychoanalysis semiotics and social and cultural anthropology The book will be of great value to the professional psychotherapist or psychoanalyst as well as to students of literature the arts and linguistics and the wider public interested in the ongoing
