Indonesia Environment And Development:

Indonesia ,1994-01-01 Indonesia has been remarkably successful in achieving its development objectives over the past 25 years Although it is still a low income country its tradition of sound economic management has laid the foundations for continued progress in the decades ahead As the Indonesian government formulates its second long term development plan issues of environmental quality and sustainability raise new concerns This report examines environmental issues assesses their implications for the achievement of development goals and suggests an action plan that would help to ensure that those goals will be met The analysis of current environmental conditions and trends and of the likely impact of future growth leads to three main conclusions Future growth will depend increasingly on Indonesia s stock of key natural resources and the sustainability of critical ecosystems The industrial sector will continue to expand in urban areas where growing congestion and industrial pollution pose an immediate threat to health and human welfare This will eventually lead to negative effects on the economy As a result of rapid growth environment related issues of equity among the population will become increasingly important Indonesia, Environment and Development Richard Calkins,World Bank. East Asia and Pacific Regional Office. Country Department III. Environment Unit,1994 The Politics of Environment in Southeast Asia Philip Hirsch,Carol Warren,2002-01-31 The environment in Southeast Asia is now a major issue of topical concern First book to give analysis in depth of the political processes involved in environmental disputes Provides a good selection of case studies in the region Questions the assumption that the middle classes are in the vanguard of the environmental movement Environmental and Natural Disaster Resilience of Indonesia Yuzuru Miyata,Hiroyuki Shibusawa,Indrawan Permana,Any Wahyuni,2018-03-01 This study aims at analyzing the resilience of Indonesia from two aspects one is was natural disaster and the other is environmental protection Therefore the study comprises two parts The first aims at analyzing Palangkaraya City in Central Kalimantan Province by constructing a partial and a general equilibrium models hence the existence of illegal settlements can be explained systematically The models demonstrates a new attempt in city analysis by introducing the expected flood damage rate on households assets Furthermore a numerical simulation shows a new finding namely that the bid rent by representative low income households in flood prone areas can receive higher than the bid rent by the representative high income households The second part examines 1 the provision of public goods such as road construction on the Maros Watampone Road and 2 the urban economics of Makassar City In this second part the analytic hierarchy process is applied to design efficiency with respect to selecting the best type of road construction in a conservation area As a result the elevated bridge is determined to be the most suitable type of construction followed by cut and fill and the tunnel system The second research approach uses a computable general equilibrium CGE model that adds environmental objectives to urban economic objectives in Makassar City The model examines the impact of the carbon tax based on the 2006 input output table for Makassar City The results of all simulations of the CGE model indicates that a carbon tax can reduce the volume of CO₂ emissions by 8 % Environmental Education and Ngos in Indonesia Ko Nomura, Latipah Hendarti (ed.); foreword, Emil Salim, 2005-08-01 Environmental education including awareness raising and training is critical for achieving sustainable development and therefore it should be provided for all ages at all levels UNESCO 1977 In this context environmental education should not be confined within the narrow scope of school education but include educational activities in informal settings to reach a wider public which is necessary to address environmental issues¹ Non governmental organisations NGOs who are the major providers of non formal education are therefore by their very nature an important actor in the field of environmental education² In fact they have been a major provider and advocator of environmental education in Indonesia since the beginning They have not only been active in the field of non formal education but in cooperating in an inter sectoral manner with parties in formal education e g schools governmental education authorities and informal learning e g mass media making the most of their unique position one that is not affiliated with particular governments or businesses³ They can flexibly work with various actors in various sectors at various levels ranging from local to international Nowadays hundreds of NGOs are engaging in environmental education activities in Indonesia of various sorts Community, Environment and Local Governance in Indonesia Carol Warren, John F. McCarthy, 2012-09-10 This book explores the forces reconfiguring local resource governance in Indonesia since 1998 drawing together original field research undertaken in a decade of dramatic political change Case studies from across Indonesia s diverse cultural and ecological landscapes focus on the most significant resource sectors agriculture fisheries forestry mining and tourism providing a rare in depth view of the dynamics shaping social and environmental outcomes in these varied contexts Debates surrounding the tragedy of the commons and environmental governance have focused on institutional considerations of how to craft resource management arrangements in order to further the policy objectives of economic efficiency social equity and environmental sustainability The studies in this volume reveal the complexity of resource security issues affecting local communities and user groups in Indonesia as they engage with wider institutional frameworks in a context driven simultaneously by decentralizing and globalizing forces Through ground up investigations of how local groups with different cultural backgrounds and resource bases are responding to the greater autonomy afforded by Indonesia s new political constellation the authors appraise the prospects for rearticulating governance regimes toward a more equitable and sustainable commonweal This volume offers valuable insights into questions of import to scholars as well as policy makers concerned with decentralized governance and sustainable resource management Indonesia, 1994 The Politics and Economics of Indonesia's Natural Resources Budy P Resosudarmo, 2005 The challenges in using and managing natural resources in Indonesia are immense They include ensuring that resource utilisation benefits most Indonesians optimising the rate of exploitation of mineral reserves bearing in mind the interests of future generations and achieving sustainable forest and maritime exploitation Recent rapid political change under reformasi and decentralisation may seem to have provided opportunities for a long term development path that embraces both resource sustainability and equity issues However they have also generated an environment of political uncertainty weak law enforcement increased insecurity of property rights and local conflicts This situation together with the post crisis imperative of restoring socio economic progress has created a pressing need to address the challenges of proper utilisation and management of natural resources This book examines these and related issues from a political socio economic and environmental standpoint 1st Reprint 2006

Indonesia International Monetary, 2025-02-12 Indonesia s key climate change policy related data needs stem from well defined domestic policy priorities and international commitments The domestic policy priorities are set in the long term strategy for low carbon and climate resilience as well as in the medium term national plan that among others seeks to strengthen the environment condition and improving resilience against natural disasters and climate change Indonesia has been producing a wide range of environmental and climate change related statistics since early 1980 s but further enhancements are needed The authorities are publishing several reports related to environmental statistics and environmental accounts physical air emission accounts physical energy flow accounts physical and monetary assets account for land timber minerals and energy resources albeit with some discrepancies between reports In this context a mission took place from July 10 13 2023 funded by the Swiss State Secretariat for Economic Affairs and hosted by Badan Pusat Statistik Indonesia During this mission discussions with authorities focused on key priorities and identifying the needed methodological improvement to physical energy flows and air emission accounts

Focus on Indonesia, 1981 The State of the Environment in Asia The Japan Environmental Council, 2012-12-06 In December 1977 we published the first in this series of NGO oriented reports on Asia's environment Ajia Kankyo Hakusho 1997-98 This was published in English by Springer Verlag as The State of the Environment in Asia 1999 2000 Although only a few years have passed since then Asia has seen tumultuous changes in the political economic social environmental and other domains as well as a number of prominent trends that could be regarded as harbingers of the new century China for instance could henceforth decisively affect the evolution of environmental problems not only in Asia but across the entire globe Yet Chinese concern for and initiatives on pollution and environmental damage have increased more quickly than could have been anticipated just a few years ago And on Taiwan where a Democratic Progressive Party president was elected over the long ruling Nationalist Party an attorney who has cooperated with our pollution surveys for a decade Hsieh Chang-ting became mayor of Taiwan's largest heavy and chemical industry city of Kaohsiung where he has begun a Green Revolution On the Korean Peninsula which has for many years endured the division of its people as well as political and military tensions there are the beginnings of a new North-South dialog These changes are all welcome to those of us who wish to see new advances in environmental cooperation throughout Asia

Environmental Studies for Development in Indonesia, 1989 Indonesia Banco Mundial, 1994 Climate Smart Development in Asia Ancha Srinivasan, Frank Hiroshi Ling, Hideyuki Mori, 2013-07-03 The future of China India and Asia's other emerging economies and their ability to take a low carbon and climate resilient development path determine the future of global carbon emissions and climate change Indeed the battle to confront global climate change will be won or lost in Asia The transition to a low carbon climate resilient economy LCE which involves many steps towards improved energy efficiency alternative energy sources and transport systems sustainable land use eco friendly consumption and proactive adaptation may be regarded as the world's fourth revolution after the industrial revolution agricultural revolution and the information revolution Asia is highly vulnerable to impacts of climate change Yet because of its dynamic economies and massive populations Asia offers the greatest opportunity for overcoming the trade offs and pursuing low carbon development pathways With a growing consensus that there is limited time to avoid the worst impacts of climate change scientists engineers policymakers and economists across Asia have recently begun discussions on how Asia can make a transition to LCE Most discussions however focused on transfer of technologies from developed to developing countries and overlooked other equally important challenges such as financing governance and information dissemination This book is the first to look at these neglected aspects of LCE and attempt to integrate both market based and technology based solutions into a comprehensive strategy to creating a roadmap for LCE in Asia This book is an essential reading for economists policy makers practitioners engineers and researchers concerned with climate change energy production and development in Asia and the impacts and potential for the world Working with Nature against Poverty Budy P Resosudarmo, 2003-08-01 With its low incomes lagging social indicators and widespread poverty eastern Indonesia epitomizes the problems of development in Indonesia The challenge is to advance the economy But this means more intensive use of natural resources placing pressure on the region's unique ecosystems This book explores the trade offs and synergies between development social concerns and the environment in Papua Maluku and East Nusa Tenggara It is written by leading scholars and experts on the region They investigate the dilemmas of fishing in eastern Indonesia's seas the strategies and challenges for mining and forestry and the efforts to tackle biodiversity conservation and climate change The book lays out the challenges for development public administration and public health in Papua It maps Maluku's road to recovery from conflict And it examines ways to alleviate poverty in the desperately poor province of East Nusa Tenggara The book provides an overview of the economy of each of these provinces making it an essential resource for anyone interested in the challenges of development and environment in eastern Indonesia

Environment, Development and Change in Rural Asia-Pacific John Connell, Eric Waddell, 2006-12-05 This volume examines the economic political social and environmental challenges facing rural communities in the Asia Pacific region as global issues intersect with local contexts Such challenges from climatic change and volcanic eruption to population growth and violent civil unrest have stimulated local resilience amongst communities and led to evolving regional institutions and environment management practices changing social relationships and producing new forms of stratification Bringing together case studies from across mainland Southeast Asia and the Island Pacific an expert team of international contributors reveal how communities at the periphery take charge of their lives champion the virtues of their own local systems of production and consumption and engage in the complexities of new structures of development that demand a response to the vacillations of global politics economy and society Inherent in this is the recognition that development as we have come to know it is far from over Each chapter emphasizes the growing recognition that ecological and environmental issues are key to any understanding and analysis of structures of sustainable development Providing diverse multidisciplinary theoretical and empirical perspectives Environment Development and Change in Rural Asia Pacific makes an important contribution to the revitalization of development studies and as such will be essential reading for scholars in the field as well as those with an interest in Asia Pacific studies economic geography and political economy Environment and Development in
