Integrating Service-Learning Into the University Classroom Alison Bryant, Nicole Schonemann, Doug Karpa, 2011-08-24 Service learning is on the rise across campuses as more and more students and professors are engaging with the communities around them While this is a rewarding experience for students and the communities served a tremendous amount of effort is needed to incorporate service learning into the curriculum It takes trial and error to find the right pedagogical tools and the perfect balance of in field and in class learning as well as considerable time spent fostering relationships with community partners For many this can be too daunting Integrating Service Learning into the University Classroom helps simplify the process by providing educators with a series of course portfolios to follow Written by instructors who have taught service learning courses across a variety of disciplines these portfolios model how to effectively design teach and evaluate a course As service learning courses range in topic format learning goals and community commitment the book highlights both the variety and best practices of service learning courses in higher education Each chapter provides a detailed course description including the goals of the course and the materials and assignments a narrative of what has worked and what has not worked in the course a section citing student feedback and finally an instructor reflection on the overall value of the course to the students department community partner and themselves

Strategic Integrated Program Delivery Mark Betts, Peter E.D. Love, Derek H.T. Walker, 2024-12-04 This book outlines a cutting edge form of program delivery which the authors term SIP Form or Strategic Integrated Program delivery Using the Melbourne Level Crossing Removal Program LXRP consisting of the removal of 85 dangerous level crossings throughout metropolitan Melbourne including rail station upgrades signalling and track work and other associated capital works as an exemplar the book sets out four features that the authors argue define the SIP form concept as follows The organisation delivers a program of projects many using an IPD contract variant form such as a Project Alliance Agreement PAA in Australia and numerous other countries or the Integrated Form of Agreement IFoA in North America The contract form adopted is used and has been strategically designed to accommodate the project s risk and uncertainty profile as is the case with the LXRP Projects within the program are integrated with some being concurrently delivered with coordination across the projects in a coherent and highly purposeful manner Projects are not included that do not strategically fit the overall program delivery strategy There is a strategy for learning and innovation diffusion across projects concurrently and sequentially Lessons to be learned are learned through designed in governance mechanisms The LXRP is a potentially unique program of projects and the book takes the reader on a journey through this complex program and after giving the background and relevant context covers topics such as strategy governance procurement collaboration program alliance HRM leadership digital innovation continuous improvement community engagement and performance measurement This detailed analysis of such a complex program of projects makes this book essential reading for project managers engineers and advanced students of project delivery and management
