The Television Studies Reader Robert Clyde Allen, Annette Hill, 2004 The Television Studies Reader brings together key writings in the expanding field of television studies providing an overview of the discipline and addressing issues of industry genre audiences production and ownership and representation The Reader charts the ways in which television and television studies are being redefined by new and alternative ways of producing broadcasting and watching TV such as cable satellite and digital broadcasting home video internet broadcasting and interactive TV as well as exploring the recent boom in genres such as reality TV and docusoaps It brings together articles from leading international scholars to provide perspectives on television programmes and practices from around the world acknowledging both television's status as a global medium and the many and varied local contexts of its production and reception Articles are grouped in seven themed sections each with an introduction by the editors Institutions of Television Spaces of Television Modes of Television Making Television Social Representation on Television Watching Television Transforming Television Televisuality John T Caldwell, 2020-08-14 Although the decline of network television in the face of cable programming was an institutional crisis of television history John Caldwell's classic volume Televisuality reveals that this decline spawned a flurry of new production initiatives to reassert network authority Television in the 1980s hyped an extensive array of exhibitionist practices to raise the prime time marquee above the multi channel flow Televisuality demonstrates the cultural logic of stylistic exhibitionism in everything from prestige series Northern Exposure and loss leader event status programming War and Remembrance to lower trash and tabloid forms Pee Wee's Playhouse and reality TV Caldwell shows how import auteurs like Oliver Stone and David Lynch were stylized for prime time as videographics packaged and tamed crisis news coverage By drawing on production experience and critical and cultural analysis and by tying technologies to aesthetics and ideology Televisuality is a powerful call for desegregation of theory and practice in media scholarship and an end to the willful blindness of high theory

Multiskilling for Television Production Peter Ward, Alan Bermingham, Chris Wherry, 2000-05-22 Written by television trainers who run their own courses on Multiskilling this book offers a comprehensive introduction to the broad range of skills and technical knowledge required in this industry It details all the essential information you need to know acting as an on the job reference source for everyday use For many broadcasting technicians one of the biggest challenges in recent years has been the transition from a career working in a solo core skill such as camerawork or audio to acquiring the experience and expertise of a range of production jobs Many people are expected to work in a number of crafts and to equip themselves with a much wider range of television techniques than had been customary in the past Multiskilling has become an integral part of television culture requiring that new entrants are competent in several specialist production skills Multiskilling for Television Production concentrates on the techniques associated with news and magazine programme production where most technical operators are usually employed but most techniques are shared across the whole spectrum of television and film making Anyone baffled by the range and scope of skills to be mastered will find this book invaluable The Visual Storytelling Arun K A, 2025-05-24

Towards a Philosophy of Cinematography Alexander Nevill, 2021-06-01 This book presents three interrelated essays about cinematography which offer a theoretical understanding of the ways that film practitioners orchestrate light in today's post digital context Cinematography is a practice at the heart of film production which traditionally involves the control of light and camera technologies to creatively capture moving imagery During recent years the widespread adoption of digital processes in cinematography has received a good deal of critical attention from practitioners and scholars alike however little specific consideration about evolving lighting practices can be found amongst this discourse Drawing on new materialist ideas actor network theory and the concept of co creativity these essays examine the impact of changing production processes for the role and responsibilities of a cinematographer with a specific focus on lighting Each essay advances a new perspective on the discipline moving from the notion of light as vision to light as material from technology as a tool to technology as a network and from cinematography as an industry to cinematography as a collaborative art

High Definition and 24P Cinematography Paul Wheeler, 2012-10-12 This authoritative new reference demystifies the technologies of high definition and 24P cinematography It is written for the director of photography camera crew and producer or director and deals with the subject from their point of view It provides a thorough and logical description of the five scanning formats 24P 25P 30P 50i and 60i as well as recording formats editing options delivery potential and discussions on the financial implications these decisions might have It looks at comparative costs between different decisions surrounding camera formats such as 16mm to 35mm shooting for different examples such as a 100 minute low budget movie or 30 second commercial There is also considerable discussion on the advantages and disadvantages of using HD versus film seen from a producer's perspective and what the impact is on all those involved in making a movie Different delivery systems and camera equipment are discussed as well as editing Filled with practical advice for tackling everyday decisions and choices this is a must have guide for anyone using or considering using high definition technology

Cinematic Appeals Ariel Rogers, 2013-10-22 Cinematic Appeals follows the effect of technological innovation on the cinema experience specifically the introduction of widescreen and stereoscopic 3D systems in the 1950s the rise of digital cinema in the 1990s and the transition to digital 3D since 2005 Widescreen films drew the spectator into the world of the screen enabling larger than life close ups of already larger than life actors The technology fostered the illusion of physically entering a film enhancing the semblance of realism Alternatively the digital era was less concerned with manipulating the viewer's physical response and more with generating information flow awe disorientation and the disintegration of spatial boundaries This study ultimately shows how cinematic technology and the human experience shape and respond to each other over time Films discussed include Elia Kazan's East of Eden 1955 Star Wars The Phantom

Menace 1999 The Matrix 1999 and Thomas Vinterberg's Dogme film The Celebration 1998
