Limping but Blessed Ton van Prooijen, 2004-01-01 For Jürgen Moltmann theological anthropology must be liberating. It should take a stand against dehumanizing images and concepts of human life and point out ways to true humanity. In his view, a theologian can develop such a liberating anthropology only if he speaks explicitly from the perspective of God's kingdom as conceived in the Bible and the Christian tradition and if he speaks to and in his context as one who experiences contemporary sufferings and hopes. But how? This book analyzes the development of Moltmann's theology in the light of this quest for a liberating view on human life. It examines the anthropological concerns in the different stages of his theological enterprise: his post-war Trümmertheologie, the loose theological threads of the 1950s, his theology of hope and promise in the 1960s, his theology of the cross, human rights and play in the 1970s, and his ecological and charismatic theology of the 1980s and 1990s. Moltmann's theological thinking has taken place consciously at the intersection of personal experiences, historical challenges, biblical testimony, and the fundamentals of the Christian tradition. Analyzing his quest for a liberating anthropology in a chronological way, this study therefore gives an impression of the frictions and fault lines of Christian anthropology in the context of the societal changes during the second half of the twentieth century. A concluding chapter discusses some of the problems accentuated in the course of this analysis and evaluates some valuable leads for a Christian anthropology today.

Jürgen Moltmann and Evangelical Theology Sung Wook Chung, 2012-04-23 Jürgen Moltmann is now regarded as one of the most influential theologians since Karl Barth. However, evangelical engagement with Moltmann has been hesitant and deficient. This book fills the gap. Ten respected evangelical theologians engage with Moltmann's theology in a mature, dynamic, and critical manner, seeking to appropriate from it in a discerning manner. The contributors include Sung Wook Chung, Kurt Anders Richardson, Veli Matti Karkainen, Stephen N. Williams, and Timothy Bradshaw. This book is an excellent demonstration of intellectual confidence and respectability of robust evangelical theology.

Jürgen Moltmann's Ethics of Hope Timothy Harvie, 2016-05-06 This book develops a thorough account of the sphere of human moral action in sustained dialogue with Jürgen Moltmann. By examining God's role as promise-giver, particularly in the Christian understanding of resurrection, this work describes the occupancy of both history and space in moral terms. This leads to an understanding of Jesus' description of the kingdom of God, to feature prominently in describing both the possibility and content of human moral action. By offering an account of each of the main doctrines found in Moltmann's corpus—the role of the future, the Trinity, the Holy Spirit, and anthropology—this book locates how each contributes to the understanding of ethics from a Christian perspective and subsequently applies these findings to the contemporary issue of poverty and global economics.

The Transformative Church Patrick Oden, 2015-02-01 Throughout the course of his theological career, Jürgen Moltmann has been interested in the ecclesial and societal consequences of systematic theology and what each doctrine means for our life in this world. The Transformative Church explores these concerns in Moltmann's major texts and highlighting themes relevant for a

Hope and Otherness: Christian Eschatology and Interreligious Hospitality Jakob W. Wirén, 2017-11-01 In Hope and Otherness Jakob Wirén analyses the place and role of the religious Other in contemporary eschatology In connection with this theme he examines and compares different levels of inclusion and exclusion in Christian Muslim and Jewish eschatologies He argues that a distinction should be made in approaches to this issue between soteriological openness and eschatological openness By going beyond Christian theology and also looking to Muslim and Jewish sources and by combining the question of the religious Other with eschatology Wirén explores ways of articulating Christian eschatology in light of religious otherness and provides a new and vital slant to the threefold paradigm of exclusivism inclusivism and pluralism that has been prevalent in the theology of religions Jakob Wirén's study pushes forward the frontiers of three disciplines all at the same time theology of religions comparative religions and eschatology This is a challenging and important book Gavin D Costa University of Bristol Professor of Catholic Theology 2017 This book explores the status of religious others in Christian eschatology and of eschatology itself as a privileged place for reflecting on religious otherness Wirén mines not only Christian but also Jewish and Muslim sources to develop an inclusive eschatology Hope and Otherness thus represents an important contribution to both theology of religions and comparative theology Catherine Cornille Boston College Professor of Comparative Theology 2017

The Way of the Kenotic Christ Samuel J. Youngs, 2019-10-25 Despite his vast importance to twentieth century theology Jürgen Moltmann's Christology has yet to receive the same level of in depth exploration as other topics in his thought Samuel Youngs addresses this lacuna providing the first exhaustive analysis of Moltmann's doctrine of Christ including its key developments and controversial elements Youngs argues that Moltmann's doctrine of Christ is best understood as a unique variation of kenotic Christology This vision of Christ encapsulates not only a series of vibrant ethical and eschatological points but also serves Moltmann's overarching theological goal of empowering a church that lives and ministers under the cross Part I highlights key facets of Moltmann's theological method before unfolding the range of diverse themes that characterize his Christology Part II explores Moltmann's use of the kenosis hymn of Philippians 2 before interrogating Moltmann's relationship to christological tradition Part III engages in an original systematization of Moltmann's Christology centered on the theme of manifold relational kenosis

Religion without Ulterior Motive Borght, 2007-03-31 The awareness of the potential for abuse of religion has risen dramatically in the West since 9/11 We all seem to agree that the abuse of religion should be averted and condemnation of the abuse of religion is almost universal Bram van de Beek systematic theologian at Vrije Universiteit Amsterdam has radicalised this discourse by claiming that religion should not be allied to any cause not even to a good cause He illustrates this by the way theology has been instrumentalized within the Reformed tradition in e.g. apologetic theology liberation theology theocracy and pietism His thesis provokes fervent discussions Twelve prominent theologians react on issues such as public theology evangelical activism Christian life the relevance of reasons for faith the unity of the church and contextualization of religion in various parts of the world At stake is the assertion that precisely religion without ulterior motive is the best guarantee for relevant religion

Bingaman, 2015-04-30 For both Maximus the Confessor c 580 662 and Jurgen Moltmann b 1926 understanding what it means to be human springs from a contemplative vision of God This comparative study explores surprising parallels between the theological anthropology of the seventh century Byzantine monk and the contemporary German Protestant Bingaman shows that Maximus and Moltmann root their understanding of the human calling in their Trinitarian and christological reflection in contrast to many modern theologies that tend to devise an account of human being first and then try to find ways in which Christ and the Trinity are somehow relevant to this human being In this constructive work Bingaman demonstrates the intrinsic connection between Maximus and Moltmann's views of human being Christ and the Trinity the church and the human calling in creation Illustrating the richness of these ancient and postmodern theologies in conversation All Things New lays out future trajectories in theological anthropology patristic ressourcement ecologically attuned theology and spirituality and Orthodox Protestant dialogue Marxism, Christianity, and Islam Julian Roche, 2024-02-20 Roger Garaudy was for many years at the centre of the French Communist Party but was eventually expelled for his liberal views In the Seventies he strove to bring Marxism and Christianity together to include all humanity in a project to set all people free What emerges from Garaudy's project is a very modern Marxism with its emphasis on the individual its ecological politics and in its insistence on religion as central to human emancipation Although Garaudy himself became frustrated by the failure of Marxism and converted to Islam eventually resulting in his work being discredited in the West it is certainly possible that Garaudy's project represents a good perhaps even the best starting point for Marxism in today's world Religions View

Religions Jerald D. Gort, Henry Jansen, H. M. Vroom, 2006 Because religion is so central to the lives and experience of the vast majority of people throughout the world it figures very prominently in a variety of ways in interhuman relations Unfortunately religion often appears to be one of the potent sources of mistrust discord and strife between and among individuals groups and cultures What frequently lies at the root of such suspicion and dissension is general ignorance concerning the religious other a lack of knowledge about his or her beliefs aspirations and views of the good and morally honorable life And even if people have some factual knowledge about other religions they regularly display little understanding of them and their adherents Learning both to know and understand people of other faiths and their religions is absolutely requisite to the realization of paradigms of coherent and intelligent convivance that is living together in sensible peaceable and cooperative harmony An effective agency for fostering such knowledge and understanding is the discipline of theology of religions which examines how religions have and ought to view other religions And it is particularly the practice of comparative theology of religions which bears the most promise in this regard The present symposium consists of precisely this kind of comparative exercise and may be viewed as an important contribution to the development of a new project which endeavors to enlarge the horizon and broaden the focus and reflection of theology of religions as that has been gradually developed during the last few decades a new enterprise in other words which seeks to universalize and mutualize theology of religions discourse One of the important things this volume shows is that the views religions have of other religions differ from one another in very substantial ways which is explained by the fact that they derive from diverging paradigms of faith belief and ritual and specific cultural and social contexts This textbook demonstrates how strongly different Hindu Buddhist Shinto and Confucian views are from those of Islam Judaism and Christianity which latter in turn also exhibit considerable differences among themselves These differences are greater than people immersed in their own cultures often realize or expect It is becoming ever more clear that ignorance of or disinclination to acknowledge or refusal to accept these real differences constitute major root causes of serious conflicts in the world The essays in this book written by representatives of the major world religions offer descriptive and or prescriptive appraisals of other religions in general or one other religion in particular from the perspective of the religion of the author concerned It is hoped that this unique exercise in intercultural theology of religions will generate insights and new forms of understanding which can be used by religious leaders and other educators to help correct the disposition toward religious haughtiness insularity and communalism and the dangerous leanings toward interreligious suspicion antipathy and animosity which are all too often evident in our contemporary societies

Charting Churches in a Changing Europe Tim Noble, Ivana Noble, M. E. Brinkman, Bernd Jochen Hilberath, 2006 The countries of Europe are seeking to redefine themselves both individually and in relation to each other This volume examines the role of the Christian churches at various levels of that process The Charta Oecumenica a ground breaking document from the Conference of Churches in Europe and the Council of European Bishops Conferences aimed to set forth the ecumenical response of the European Christian Churches to the living out of faith in today's world. Four theologians Protestant, Roman Catholic, Orthodox and Lutheran respond to this document assessing its strengths and the areas where further development is required. At least implicitly this discussion raises questions about the nature of catholicity and communion, a topic the following four essays address. What is catholicity? what happens when there is too strong an emphasis on the national church and are there models of gradual church communion to which the churches could assent? Gradual communion sets out to attain full including sacramental unity and the final two essays explore how sacramental theology might assist in this process.

Crossroad Discourses between Christianity and Culture, 2010-01-01 Christianity exists in relation to and interacts with its cultural environment in a number of ways. In this volume authors from a wide variety of backgrounds explore various facets of the relationship and interaction of Christianity with its cultural environment: politics, society, esthetics, religion and spirituality and with itself. Divided into three main sections, Crossroad Discourses between Christianity and Culture looks at the interaction of Christianity with culture in the first section, with other religions and spiritualities in the second and finally with itself in the third. The contributions engage in a critical examination of not only the culture in which Christianity finds itself but also in a critical examination of Christianity itself and its interaction with that culture. The editors hope that teachers, students and readers in general will profit greatly from the critical articles contained in this book.

Making Christ Real Samuel J. Youngs, 2022-10-27 Kenosis or self emptying poses a fundamental question to any theological discussion about Jesus Christ. In becoming human, did God empty himself of any divine qualities? Many variations on kenotic Christology have emerged over the past 200 years, most of them claiming to both preserve and highlight the true humanity and ecclesial significance of Jesus Christ. While there is much to commend in these efforts, Samuel Youngs contends that nearly all such kenotic attempts have, against their best intentions, fallen into an echo chamber of abstraction and metaphor, rendering their talk about Jesus Christ and analysis of the Gospels fundamentally unreal and lacking in material significance for today's living church. Most fundamentally, many kenotic accounts pay inadequate attention to Christ's lived accomplishment, his current presence and the modes of praxis that he makes real in the world. In dialogue with the important movement known as Transformation Theology, Youngs unfolds a detailed critique of method and discourse in kenotic christologies. Turning then to the vibrant christological thought of Jürgen Moltmann, a different outlook on kenosis is articulated and defended, one that is relational, concrete and praxiological.

In the End -- The Beginning Jürgen Moltmann, Margaret Kohl, 2004-05-05 Jürgen Moltmann's new book is a powerful testament to personal hope in chaotic even catastrophic times and one of his most personal and compelling works to date. Debunking the classic images of Christian apocalyptic scenarios Moltmann instead shows that Christian expectation of the future has nothing to do with a final struggle between God and Satan but everything to do with new beginnings and a horizon of hope in our birth in our many rebirths and in our resurrection. Book jacket Jürgen Moltmann James L. Wakefield, 2002-09-26 true theologians are more than good religious managers for their hearts must be in what they are doing. Without personal authenticity no one will believe in the truth of their message. Jürgen Moltmann from his lecture 'What is a Theologian' at the Pontifical University Maynooth Ireland 1998. Jürgen Moltmann was born into a secular family of teachers in Hamburg in 1926. His plans to study mathematics and physics were interrupted by the destruction of Hamburg in July of 1943. He was one of only a few students serving in the anti aircraft battery in the central city that survived the Royal Air Force fire storm that killed over 40 000. He spent the next three years as a prisoner of war in labor camps in Belgium and Scotland and finally at Camp Norton near Nottingham in England. After devouring every book that crossed his path during captivity he eventually turned to reading the psalms and New Testament. These writings soothed his experiences with death, his depression and his guilt and ushered along his theology, his belief in God and the power of hope. Jürgen Moltmann's work sprung from the social and political turmoil in post World War II German culture. In this Bibliography the author lists more than twelve hundred sources from Jürgen Moltmann and more than eight hundred significant reviews, articles and books on his work. He has also included most of the theologian's early writings in either German or English through the year 2001. Besides a foreword and essay by Moltmann, this volume includes a bibliographic biography of his life. Most of his works are listed by title and first place of publication. Also listed are later versions and many of the translations. Translations of Moltmann's major books in as many European languages as possible as well as a list of known dissertations and monographs presented in reverse chronological order for the reader's convenience make for a well rounded work. A research index helps the reader find the major pieces for some of Moltmann.
