generation Pierre Bourdieu having recently passed the agr gation in philosophy found himself immersed in the Algerian war Motivated by an impulse that as he himself says was civic rather than political nothing seemed more important to him than to understand the Algerian situation and provide the elements that would enable others to come to an informed judgement about it In extremely tough conditions and along with a small group of students Bourdieu undertook a series of studies across an Algeria that was tightly patrolled by the army leading him to discover the shocking reality of the resettlement camps and to analyse the mechanisms of destruction of Algerian society of which they were emblematic To achieve the objectives he had set himself Bourdieu had to carry out a genuine intellectual conversion acquiring an ethnographic understanding of Algerian society learning sociological analysis at a breakneck pace and inventing new instruments both theoretical and empirical that would enable him to understand the relations of domination specific to colonialism These new tools also enabled him to analyse the nature of the crisis that the war had both produced and manifested This unique volume brings together the first texts written by Bourdieu in the midst of the Algerian conflict as well as later writings and interviews in which he returns to the topic of Algeria and the decisive role it played in the development of his work Routledge Encyclopedia of

Senapati, 2016-09-09 The early years of 1990s economic reform and change has neglected social sectors both in India and Central Asia As a result poverty has also increased in India and Central Asian countries The economic political and social situation has worsened in all Central Asian states due to transition from command economy to market economy The early 1990s political decision has been dominated by a narrowly conceived version of economic policy for both India and Central Asia As a result the quality and the structure of social protection changed in a negative way Indeed in some cases the pursuit of a strict economic orthodoxy has left various sections of the community marginalized and alienated Both the societies confront a number of challenges that is as profound as the economic changes of the past The process of globalization and technical change has influenced economy and society in complex ways including raising expectations of consumption and remuneration for skilled knowledge workers creating greater demand for some information skills and services causing unemployment amongst those with few qualifications and destabilizing some traditional ways of life and increasing social exclusion It detaches groups and individuals from social relations and institutions and prevents them from full participation in the normal activities of the society In India and Central Asia communities face social exclusion on the basis of their identity as ethnic groups socio economic groups religious community and gender Inclusive development therefore is essential and it should be the top priority in development programs of India and Central Asia Research in this area has not been touched upon so far Since Central Asian countries are relatively new and trying to establish their democratic institutions this piece of work will be helpful for their nation building processes So far as the mutual benefit for both the regions is concerned India is an old democracy and its inclusive policy can be lessons for Central Asian countries On the other hand the experience of Central Asias policy implementation can be a lesson for India This piece of work has potential impulses to policy makers academicians and researchers of these five Central Asian countries and India This work can make a distinction than the conventional researcher in India by focusing on development studies social exclusion inclusive policies and comparative studies in international developments Key words social exclusion poverty deprivation development diversity India Central Asia Kazakhstan Kyrgyzstan Tajikistan Turkmenistan and Uzbekistan
