Facing West:

Facing West Richard Drinnon, 1997 American expansion says Richard Drinnon is characterized by repression and racism In his reinterpretation of winning the West Drinnon links racism with colonialism and traces this interrelationship from the Pequot War in New England through American expansion westward to the Pacific and beyond to the Philippines and Vietnam He cites parallels between the slaughter of bison on the Great Plains and the defoliation of Vietnam and notes similarities in the language of aggression used in the American West the Philippines and Southeast Asia Gunfighter Nation Richard

Slotkin, 1998 Examines the ways in which the frontier myth influences American culture and politics drawing on fiction western films and political writing Excavating Catalhöyük Ian Hodder, 2017-10-01 Ian Hodder's campaigns of excavation at the world famous Neolithic settlement of Catalhöyük are one of the largest most complex and most exciting archaeological field projects in the world and recognized as agenda setting not only in terms of our understanding of early farming communities in the Near East particularly the central role religion played in their daily lives but also in terms of the interaction between theory and practice in the trenches and on site laboratories This volume presents the results of excavation in three areas of the site known as South North and KOPAL excavated between 1995 and 1999 The book describes aspects of the excavation recording and sampling methodologies that are necessary for an understanding of the results presented plus it incorporates interpretive discussion It brings in data from the study of animal bones lithics ceramics micromorphology and the full suite of analyses conducted on the material These accounts are interspersed with individual specialists commentaries and conclusions that mimic the process of collaborative interpretation that takes place during excavation and post excavation The objective descriptions of the archaeology are thus exposed as interpretations involving a balancing of a variety of different types of data and scholarly input Another thought provoking volume in the Catalhöyük excavation series which will be read with profit by any archaeologist engaged in working at theory in practice in the field

Tell El Hesi Lawrence Toombs, 1985-10-31 The Tell el Hesi site comprises a 25 acre walled city from the Early Bronze III period It is located on the southeastern edge of the Mediterranean coastal plain 26 km northeast of Gaza in Israel Tell el Hesi was the first Palestinian site at which the principles of ceramic chronology and of stratigraphic excavation were applied and at which the relationship between pottery and stratigraphy was shown to be significant In 1890 W M Flinders Petrie excavated at Hesi and produced a general picture of its occupational history In 1891 92 F J Bliss excavated stratigraphically through each successive level of the mound and identified eleven occupational levels which he grouped into eight strata or cities In 1970 The Joint Archaeological Expedition to Tell el Hesi sponsored by the American Schools of Oriental Research and a consortium of educational institutions entered the site with the objectives of investigating in greater detail and with more refined methods the stratigraphic divisions identified by Petrie and Bliss This book appears as the second volume in the Joint Expedition's series of final publications regarding their field experience and findings The presence of Strata I and II the modern military trenching and the Muslim cemetery combined to force the Joint Expedition to an important archaeological decision Both strata belong to the modern period and fall into the vaguely defined category of historical archaeology Strata of this kind are frequently disregarded in the excavation and reporting of Near Eastern sites However the decision was made to excavate these strata with the same detail as the more ancient levels of the mound This decision launched a pioneering effort in the archaeology of the Palestine area and necessitated the development of new excavation and recording techniques The aim of this report is to present in an organized form all the data on Strata I and II gathered by the expedition to analyze this data to offer cultural conclusions and to compare the results in a preliminary way with the data from other sites and with the published work of other anthropologists
