people in a Cape Verdean immigrant community that shares not only the kriolu language but its culture and history Drawing on fieldwork and archival research in Portugal and Cape Verde Derek Pardue introduces Lisbon s kriolu rap scene and its role in challenging metropolitan Portuguese identities Pardue demonstrates that Cape Verde while relatively small within the Portuguese diaspora offers valuable lessons about the politics of experience and social agency within a postcolonial context that remains poorly understood As he argues knowing more about both Cape Verdeans and the Portuguese invites clearer assessments of the relationship between the experience and policies of migration That in turn allows us to better gauge citizenship as a balance of individual achievement and cultural ascription Deftly shifting from domestic to public spaces and from social media to ethnographic theory Pardue describes an overlooked phenomenon transforming Portugal one sure to have parallels in former colonial powers across twenty first century Europe

Literacy, Play and Globalization Carmen L. Medina, Karen E. Wohlwend, 2014-06-05 This book takes on current perspectives on children s relationships to literacy media childhood markets and transtionalism in converging global worlds It introduces the idea of multi sited imaginaries to explain how children s media and literacy performances shape and are shaped by shared visions of communities that we collectively imagine including play media gender family school or cultural worlds It draws upon elements of ethnographies of globalization nexus analysis and performance theories to examine the convergences of such imaginaries across multiple sites early childhood and elementary classrooms and communities in Puerto Rico and the Midwest United States In this work we attempt to understand that the local moment of engagement within play dramatic experiences and literacies is not a given but is always emerging from and within the multiple localities children navigate and the histories possibilities and challenges they bring to the creative moment
