Abstract

Background Oral submucous fibrosis is a chronic, progressive, scarring, precancerous condition of oral mucosa which on progression causes severe trismus.

Aim and Objectives To compare and evaluate the efficiency of buccal fat pad, platysmal mucocutaneous flap, nasolabial flap, collagen membrane graft, split thickness skin graft and temporoparietal fascia in reconstruction of surgical defect created by excision of fibrous bands in oral submucous fibrosis.

Results After 6 months of follow-up, the interincisal mouth opening was 40.0 mm in case of buccal fat pad, 24.5 mm in temporoparietal fascia flap group, 33.8 in collagen membrane graft group, 34.5 mm in platysma flap group, 34.7 mm in nasolabial flap group, 29.3 mm in split thickness skin graft. ANOVA statistical analysis for postoperative interincisal distance at various time intervals and between pre-, intra- and postoperative interincisal distances were carried out which showed the results were significant at p value < 0.05 in all groups. No postoperative complications were noted in buccal fat pad group, split thickness skin graft group and collagen membrane group. However, platysmal group had flap necrosis and temporoparietal flap group patients had to undergo a second debulking procedure after one month.

Conclusion From our study, we concluded buccal fat pad yields superior results with respect to postoperative mouth opening and related complications.

Keywords Oral submucous fibrosis · Platysma flap · Temporoparietal flap · Buccal fat pad graft · Collagen membrane graft · Split thickness skin graft

Introduction

Oral submucous fibrosis (OSMF), first described in the early 1950s, is a potentially malignant disease predominantly seen in people of Asian descent.

It is an insidious, chronic disease affecting any part of the oral cavity and sometimes the pharynx [1]. Occasionally preceded by and/or associated with vesicle formation [2], it is always associated with a juxta-epithelial inflammatory reaction, followed by progressive hyalinization of the lamina propria [3]. The later subepithelial and submucosal myofibrosis leads to stiffness of the oral mucosa and deeper tissues with progressive limitation in opening of the mouth and protrusion of the tongue, thus causing difficulty in eating, swallowing and phonation [4].

The disease is predominantly seen in countries like India, Bangladesh, Sri Lanka, Pakistan, Taiwan, Southern China, Polynesia and Micronesia. An update was conducted on previous published studies conducted in different parts India till 2017, by Bari et al. [4]. After observing the results of those studies, the authors stated that the prevalence of OSMF has increased over the last four decades from 0.03 to 6.42%. [4].

Treatment of OSMF is a challenge, especially as the disease progresses. Two main modalities of treatment were described depending on grading of OSMF by Khanna et al. [5]: Medical treatment and Surgical treatment.

In Grades I and II of Khanna's classification system, medical line of treatment is the treatment of choice, whereas in Grades III and IV, surgery is the treatment of

Atlas of Keystone Reconstructive Technique in Melanoma Management Felix Behan,2023-12-30 Worldwide it is quoted that 85% of Melanoma cases are treated surgically The reliability of the Keystone Perforator Island Flap KPIF as a reconstructive technique has wide applications Its low complication rate is the key to its surgical success The technique is clearly explained in this Atlas by the author a renowned plastic and reconstructive surgeon who established this reconstructive principle over 20 years The illustrations range from simple to complex cases in an easy to follow format Audio files as a supplementary tool amplify the technique to enhance the reader s experience and foster clear understanding Chapters focussing on anatomical regions contain carefully selected cases accompanied by images to demonstrate a step by step surgical technique The basic design format for all Keystones are highlighted all sitting within the dermatomal precincts The KPIF must contain a fascial base for lining and the island outline is an essential pre requisite It is hypothesized that this islanding creates a sympathectomy effect resulting in hyperaemic blood flow which optimises healing Undermining up to 2/3 is permissible as long as there is a deep attachment of 1/3 at the base of the flap to contain the random perforator vascular support This design allows the rotation advancement and transposition ART of the flap to facilitate the reconstructive closures Presumably there are somatic and autonomic neural support lines accompanying the vascular pathways of these random perforator flaps The vascular perforator tree must not be skeletonised as in propellor flaps to allow preservation of such anatomical elements somatic autonomic and lymphatic pathways all of which are an essential component in any surgical repair This KPIF provides an alternative to microvascular procedures where the biggest drawback is tissue match The KPIF addresses this problem admirably with a low pain component an excellent aesthetic match with a low vascular complication rate and a performed in an expeditious manner these all characterise the KPIF Simple solutions solve problems and this KPIF Atlas for Melanoma becomes a welcome companion to any surgical speciality including plastic and reconstructive surgeons surgical oncologists general surgeons and dermatologists

Religion and Social Reconstruction in Africa Elias Kifon Bongmba,2018-06-13 Religion has played a major role in both the division and unification of peoples and countries within Africa Its capacity to cause and to heal societal rifts has been well documented This book addresses this powerful societal force and explores the implications of a theology of reconstruction most notably articulated by Jesse Mugambi This way of thinking seeks to build on liberation theology aiming to encourage the rebuilding of African society on its own terms An international panel of contributors bring an interdisciplinary perspective to the issues around reconstructing the religious elements of African society Looking at issues of reconciliation postcolonialism and indigenous spirituality among others they show that Mugambi s cultural and theological insight has the potential to revolutionise the way people in Africa address this issue This is a fascinating exploration of the religious facets of African life As such it will be of great interest to scholars of religious studies theology and African studies Beyond Belief Robert P. Vande Kappelle,2012-09-17 The current age marks the transition from modernity to postmodernity a period as impactful to the Western sensibility as any previous era The role of religion and the future of Christianity are at stake At this time of transition many thoughtful individuals find themselves at a quandary having reached a critical stage in their spiritual journey Prompted by academia science reason culture and their own experience they feel compelled to choose between the beliefs they inherited as children and the claims of science reason pluralism and secularism Beyond Belief suggests that one need not take an either or approach on these issues there is a better way one that embraces adventure and ambiguity science and religion reason and faith evolution and creation and finds ways to live creatively with realities for which there are no easy explanations Building on a paradigmatic journey of faith that involves three stages precritical critical and postcritical understanding Beyond Belief describes the quest for God and for authentic faith in the twenty first century The key point for this understanding is to replace belief with faith acknowledging that belief in doctrines is not central since they are themselves unprovable This new theological perspective requires rethinking many of our cherished doctrines including our understanding of God Jesus Scripture prayer miracles and revelation Faith Negotiating Loyalties Stephen W. Martin,2008 Faith Negotiating Loyalties draws readers into the world of Christian faith in South Africa and the question of loyalties in the new post apartheid state It carries out its investigation in two parts Part one examines Christian faith and loyalty during the first nation building exercise following the South African War positioning the creation and contestation of three Christianities corresponding to three nationalisms each of which imagined South Africa in a particular way shaping faith accordingly The idea of an undifferentiated South African Christianity gives way to contesting and contested Christianities nationalism gives way to nationalisms and faith emerges in tension with and in criticism of these loyalties Part two discusses the American theologian H Richard Niebuhr in South Africa Three kinds of faith in his writings are set forth social faith racial faith and reconstructing faith Contextualized within the South African story Niebuhr s ideas suggest self and society as constituted by hybridities and suspended in a web of loyalties Faith Negotiating Loyalties suggests the message for faith in a post apartheid South Africa is the importance of negotiating covenants which allow for crossings hybridities and contestations
