The Early History of the Mediterranean Populations, ... in Their Migrations and Settlements Hyde Clarke, 1882 The Natural History of Pliny Pliny (the Elder.), 1893 The Cambridge Ancient History Alan K. Bowman, Edward Champlin, Andrew Lintott, 1996-02-08

The period described in Volume X of the second edition of The Cambridge Ancient History begins in the year after the death of Julius Caesar and ends in the year after the fall of Nero the last of the Julio-Claudian emperors Its main theme is the transformation of the political configuration of the state and the establishment of the Roman Empire Chapters 16 supply a political narrative history of the period In chapters 7-12 the institutions of government are described and analysed Chapters 13-14 offer a survey of the Roman world in this period region by region and chapters 15-21 deal with the most important social and cultural developments of the era the city of Rome the structure of society art literature and law Central to the period is the achievement of the first emperor Augustus A Guide to the Geography of Pliny the Elder Duane W. Roller, 2022-07-28 This is the first thorough English commentary on the geographical books of Pliny the Elder written in the AD 70s Pliny's account is the longest in Latin and represents the geographical knowledge of that era when the Roman Empire was the dominant force in the Mediterranean world The work serves both cultural and ideological functions much of it is topographical but it also demonstrates the political need to express a geographical basis for the importance of the

Roman state In five books Pliny covers the entire world as it was known in his era and includes some of the first information on the extremities of the inhabited region including Scandinavia and the Baltic eastern Asia and sub Saharan Africa The commentary provides a detailed analysis of all the points Pliny raises his sources toponyms and understanding of the place of the earth in the cosmos Narbonne and its Territory in Late Antiquity Frank Riess,2016-04-22 This work centres on the post Roman period of Narbonne and its territory up to its capture by the Arabs in 720 encompassing not only recent archaeological findings but also perspectives of French Spanish and Catalan historiography that have fashioned distinct national narratives Seeking to remove Narbonne from any subsequent birth of France Catalonia and Spain the book presents a geopolitical region that took shape from the late fifth century evolving towards the end of the eighth century into an autonomous province of the nascent Carolingian Empire Capturing this change throughout a 300 year period somewhat lacking in written sources the book takes us beyond an exclusive depiction of the classical city to an examination of settlement in various forms Discourses of literary criticism also lie behind aspects of this study mapped around textual commentaries which highlight a more imaginative biography of a city Narbonne s role as a point of departure and travel across the Mediterranean is examined through a reading of the correspondence of Paulinus of Nola and the writings of Sulpicius Severus enabling the reader to gain a fuller picture of the city and its port The topography of Narbonne in the fifth century is surveyed together with Bishop Rusticus s church building programme Later chapters emphasise the difficulties in presenting a detached image of Narbonne as sources become mainly Visigothic defining the city and its region as part of a centralised kingdom Particular attention is given to the election of Liuva I as king in Narbonne in 568 and to the later division into upper and lower sub kingdoms shared by Liuva and his brother Leovigild a duality that persisted throughout the sixth and seventh centuries The study therefore casts new light on Narbonne and its place within the Visigothic Kingdom of Toledo suggesting that it was the capital of a territory with roots in the post Roman settlement of barbarian successor states
