I Am A Czech:

I Am a Czech Karel Kornell, 1986 Czechs, Germans, Jews? Kateřina Čapková, 2012 The phenomenon of national identities always a key issue in the modern history of Bohemian Jewry was particularly complex because of the marginal differences that existed between the available choices Considerable overlap was evident in the programs of the various national movements and it was possible to change one's national identity or even to opt for more than one such identity without necessarily experiencing any far reaching consequences in everyday life Based on many hitherto unknown archival sources from the Czech Republic Israel and Austria the author's research reveals the inner dynamic of each of the national movements and maps out the three most important constructions of national identity within Bohemian Jewry the German Jewish the Czech Jewish and the Zionist This book provides a needed framework for understanding the rich history of German and Czech Jewish politics and culture in Bohemia and is a notable contribution to the historiography of Bohemian Czechoslovak and central European Jewry Namibian Czechs LIT Verlag, 2020-01-01 The book focuses on the history and identity of Namibian Czechs originally a group of prominent child war refugees admitted by the Czechoslovak government in 1985 for education as an expression of international solidarity assistance to SWAPO liberation movement The educational project with elements of social engineering was interrupted in 1991 due to political changes in both countries The relocation of the children to Namibia had a dramatic impact on their future lives Namibian Czechs never fully integrated into Namibian society moreover they proudly proclaim their belonging to Czechness Czech language guide for travelers , Not To Hate But To Love That Is What I Am Here For Heinrich F. New Perspectives on Mutual Dependency in Care-Giving Adéla Souralová, 2016-03-09 Many scholars see caregiving relationships as being based on mutual dependency or interdependency Extensively cited notions of the global care chain or international division of reproductive labour have prepared the ground for analysis of global interdependencies in several domains This book goes further by taking mutual dependency as a starting point for analysing all relationships Using the example of Vietnamese families in the Czech Republic and the Czech native nannies it shows how paid caregiving is contextualized in terms of various relationships between three types of actors employer employee caring for the child and mother child All of these ties are based on ontologically different principles and each of them operates as a piece of a puzzle which is meaningful only in relation to each other Souralov considers caregiving to be a formative activity that establishes ties between the concerned actors whose subjectivities are mutually shaped in the daily practice of caregiving With its stress on mutuality in care work this ground breaking book illuminates the new forms of interpersonal interethnic and intergenerational relationships and highlights the mechanisms and processes in which kinship ties are negotiated and reproduced

Women of Prague Wilma Iggers, 1995 For many centuries Prague has exerted a particular fascination because of its beauty and therichness of its culture and history Its famous group of German and Czech writers of mostly Jewish extraction in the earlier part of this century has deeply influenced Western culture However little attention has so far been paid to the roles of women in the history of this ethnically diverse area in around Prague Based on largely autobiographical writings and letters by women and enhanced by extensive historical introduction this book redresses a serious imbalance The vivid and often moving portraits which emerge from the varied material used by the author offer fascinating and new insights into the social and cultural history of this region

Ship Fever: Stories Andrea Barrett, 1996-11-17 1996 National Book Award Winner for Fiction The elegant short fictions gathered here about the love of science and the science of love are often set against the backdrop of the nineteenth century Interweaving historical and fictional characters they encompass both past and present as they negotiate the complex territory of ambition failure achievement and shattered dreams In Ship Fever the title novella a young Canadian doctor finds himself at the center of one of history's most tragic epidemics In The English Pupil Linnaeus in old age watches as the world he organized within his head slowly drifts beyond his reach And in The Littoral Zone two marine biologists wonder whether their life altering affair finally was worth it In the tradition of Alice Munro and William Trevor these exquisitely rendered fictions encompass whole lives in a brief space As they move between interior and exterior journeys science is transformed from hard and known fact into malleable strange and thrilling fictional material Boston Globe
