I Asked Cathleen to Dance Gerard Windsor,1999 This intimate memoir traces Gerard Windsor's heady affair with the bewitching Cathleen ni Houlihan with Ireland and the women of Ireland After the seclusion and discipline of the Jesuit life evoked in Heaven Where the Bachelors Sit Windsor breaks out into a story of freewheeling serendipitous encounters The Yoke Sarah Hale,2018-10-08 Lachlan Kennedy removed his coat and settled into his seat The train west would soon be leaving He closed his eyes in silent prayer dwelling on his favorite verse Take my yoke upon you and learn of me for I am meek and lowly in heart and you shall find rest unto your soul For my yoke is easy and my burden is light He found the words to be true The best decision of his life was to slip under the yoke of salvation His burdens had been many but God always provided rest Life had dealt him yet another blow He had plowed through weathering the storm and now he was seeking that promised rest in the home of his longtime friend in the Dakota Territory Sitting just five seats away was Lachlan's next battle The three unsuspecting Westgate girls were headed to the same place They too were seeking rest and a new beginning Jamie Westgate was finally able to break away from a past dominated by men The teaching job out west was her ticket to freedom and she was dragging her late husband's cousin Cathleen and her daughter Amelia with her When a sudden confrontation on the train takes Lachlan by surprise his response leaves the trio in a whirlwind of emotion One detested him one admired him and one loved him with all her heart Can the four reside in the same place and find the rest they need Encyclopedia of Post-Colonial Literatures in English Eugene Benson,L.W. Conolly,2004-11-30 Documents the history and development of Post colonial literatures in English together with English and American literature and includes original research relating to the literatures of some 50 countries and territories In more than 1 600 entries written by more than 600 internationally recognized scholars it explores the effect of the colonial and post colonial experience on literatures in English worldwide

The Representation of Dance in Australian Novels Melinda Jewell,2011 This book is an analysis of the textual representation of dance in the Australian novel since the late 1890s It examines how the act of dance is variously portrayed how the word dance is used metaphorically to convey actual or imagined movement and how dance is written in a novelistic form The author employs a wide range of theoretical approaches including postcolonial studies theories concerned with class gender metaphor and dance and in particular Jung's concept of the shadow and theories concerned with vision Through these variegated approaches the study critiques the common view that dance is an expression of joie de vivre liberation transcendence order and beauty This text also probes issues concerned with the enactment of dance in Australia and abroad and contributes to an understanding of how dance is translated into literature It makes an important contribution because the study of dance in Australian literature has been minimal and this despite the reality that dance is prolific in Australian novels A History of Irish Autobiography Liam Harte,2018-03-01 A History of Irish Autobiography is the first ever critical survey of autobiographical self representation in Ireland from its recoverable beginnings to the twenty first century

The book draws on a wealth of original scholarship by leading experts to provide an authoritative examination of autobiographical writing in the English and Irish languages Beginning with a comprehensive overview of autobiography theory and criticism in Ireland the History guides the reader through seventeen centuries of Irish achievement in autobiography a category that incorporates diverse literary forms from religious tracts and travelogues to letters diaries and online journals This ambitious book is rich in insight Chapters are structured around key subgenres themes texts and practitioners each featuring a guide to recommended further reading The volume s extensive coverage is complemented by a detailed chronology of Irish autobiography from the fifth century to the contemporary era the first of its kind to be published

'Til Faith Do Us Part Naomi Schaefer Riley, 2013-03-04 In the last decade 45% of all marriages in the U S were between people of different faiths The rapidly growing number of mixed faith families has become a source of hope encouraging openness and tolerance among religious communities that historically have been insular and suspicious of other faiths Yet as Naomi Schaefer Riley demonstrates in Til Faith Do Us Part what is good for society as a whole often proves difficult for individual families interfaith couples Riley shows are less happy than others and certain combinations of religions are more likely to lead to divorce Drawing on in depth interviews with married and once married couples clergy counselors sociologists and others Riley shows that many people enter into interfaith marriages without much consideration of the fundamental spiritual doctrinal and practical issues that divide them Couples tend to marry in their twenties and thirties a time when religion diminishes in importance only to return to faith as they grow older and raise children suffer the loss of a parent or experience other major life challenges Riley suggests that a devotion to diversity as well as to a romantic ideal blinds many interfaith couples to potential future problems Even when they recognize deeply held differences couples believe that love conquers all As a result they fail to ask the necessary questions about how they will reconcile their divergent worldviews about raising children celebrating holidays interacting with extended families and more An obsession with tolerance at all costs Riley argues has made discussing the problems of interfaith marriage taboo Til Faith Do Us Part is a fascinating exploration of the promise and peril of interfaith marriage today It will be required reading not only for interfaith couples or anyone considering interfaith marriage but for all those interested in learning more about this significant yet understudied phenomenon and the impact it is having on America

The Devil Picked the Girls but They Watched the Angel Baby Cakes Bloomer, 2017-02-20 This is a heartbreaking yet triumphant story about two girls growing up in the 60s and 70s in the households with street gangster fathers who present them with twisted dark and challenging scenarios to overcome However it would be one girl through her courage and unyielding faith as instilled in her from the words of her dying great grandmother who decided she would resist all the negative forces coming up against her by attaining education and standing firmly on her spiritual legacy as a means to fight the negative effects of male dominance coupled with mental illness drugs and sex all the while resisting but still curious about the street life This personal journey evokes a rollercoaster of emotions from sadness to happiness and demonstrates elements of suffering and struggle along with love friendships resistance patience and perseverance Courageously sacrificing her own safety Kathleen returns to her dangerous and wicked environment to help her mother and good friend escape the obstacles hindering them from living decent and happy lives It gives a riveting account of survival when you find yourself in circumstances beyond your control Kathleen beginning at the young age of 10 years old decided to fight not die and live realizing then there was nothing else to depend on except God
