Hari Saravanan, 2014-01-01 We can hear Urumula Naganna's drum roll during the rendition of the Sri Akammagaru Kaviya An oral tradition which is as old as the hills is captured in the book Gods Heroes and their Storytellers Do you know the story of how the Madiga community came to inherit the right to skin cattle carcass and produce leather articles How are contemporary Folk Oral Literatures connected to the Ramayana and the Mahabharata There are many such stories and tradition bearers who doggedly go on in spite of the onslaught of the digital media The author here has tried his best in keeping these traditions alive by not only telling the stories but also by living with the story tellers themselves The rich details give us a window to a world which is not only very far away for our everyday mundane existence but also makes us retrospect on what we are missing out Each of the tradition bearers are different and so are their stories and the region to which they belong These are not merely stories but a way of life for these oral narrators who are fast disappearing in today's consumerist landscape The need of the hour is to keep alive

these traditions and the tradition bearers      Home, Again! Dr. Ulhas R. Gunjal, 2014-04-28 Home Again narrates the story of a European mother and her Indo European son who are struggling to understand who they are against the backdrop of events in Europe and India. Angela Guttenberg, a twenty-two year old Austrian woman, graduates in anthropology from the University of Vienna in 1933. Disenchanted with Europe because of Hitler's rise as well as her lover's conversion to Nazism, she sails to India for her postgraduate research. And she goes to Jejuri, a temple town in the Deccan famous for the folk culture of the sun god Khandoba as well as for the concentration of the Dhangar Samaj, a nomadic community of shepherds who are his worshippers. While researching the Dhangar culture, she falls in love with a Dhangar with whom she has a son. When her son, Haldiram Johann Holkar, a self-described mongrel child with a hybrid name, grows up, he goes to England for higher education. There, in the early 1960s, he sees the ugliness of British racism as well as the glory of British liberalism. Upon his return to India, he begins to see the inadequacies of his people. And driven by his own modern vision for India, he confronts religious extremists on a day of communal tension in the Bombay of 1966, only to be killed by them. At the end, Angela Guttenberg Holkar, now middle-aged at fifty-five, returns to Vienna as she had gone to India, disenchanted with political life, struggling with her identity. The story progresses primarily through narratives and dialogues and occasionally through exchanges of letters moving from one landscape to the other, from Vienna to Jejuri then back to Europe, finally back to India, as the mother and the son strive to define who they are in a world in which diverse cultures meet to produce complicated identities.      Arun

Kolatkarr and Literary Modernism in India Laetitia Zecchini, 2014-07-31 In this first scholarly work on India's great modern poet, Laetitia Zecchini outlines a story of literary modernism in India and discusses the traditions, figures, and events that inspired and defined Arun Kolatkar. Based on an impressive range of archival and unpublished material, this book also aims at moving lines of accepted genealogies of modernism and postcolonial literature. Zecchini uncovers how poets of Kolatkar's generation became modern Indian writers while tracing a lineage to medieval oral traditions. She considers how literary bilingualism allowed Kolatkar to blur the boundaries between Marathi and English, Indian and Western sources, how he used his outsider position to privilege the quotidian and minor, and how he revived the spirit of popular devotion. Graphic artist, poet, and songwriter, storyteller of Bombay and world history, poet in Marathi, in English, and in Americanese, noncommittal and deeply political, Kolatkar made lines wobble and treasured impermanence. Steeped in world literature, in European avant-garde poetry, American pop, and folk culture, in a little magazine, Bombay bohemia, and a specific Marathi ethos, Kolatkar makes for a fascinating subject to explore and explain the story of modernism in India. J. Roy Burman, 2002 Study with reference to Marathwada India     Gender Relations in Forest Societies in Asia Govind Kelkar, Dev Nathan, Pierre Walter, 2003-12-06 Extrait de la couverture Of the numerous available studies on forest management in Asia only a few mention the role of women or pay attention to gender relations Even projects are largely designed in terms of households or communities where men are the decision makers and the owners or managers of forests This important volume views gender relations as a crucial factor in the management of land and forests and maintains that the continuing invisibility of women in these areas only compounds poverty shortages and the increased workloads of forest based women Based on fieldwork conducted in several forest societies in China Thailand India and Malaysia the contributors explore the changes in gender relations within indigenous communities from matrilineal and or gender egalitarian systems to ones where male domination is the norm      Religion and Violence in South Asia John Hinnells, Richard King, 2007-01-24 Do religions justify and cause violence or are they more appropriately seen as forces for peace and tolerance Featuring contributions from international experts in the field this book explores the debate that has emerged in the context of secular modernity about whether religion is a primary cause of social division conflict and war or whether this is simply a distortion of the true significance of religion and that if properly followed it promotes peace harmony goodwill and social cohesion Focusing on how this debate is played out in the South Asian context the book engages with issues relating to religion and violence in both its classical and contemporary formations The collection is designed to look beyond the stereotypical images and idealized portrayals of the peaceful South Asian religious traditions especially Hindu Buddhist Jain and Sufi which can occlude their own violent histories and to analyze the diverse attitudes towards and manifestations of violence within the major religious traditions of South Asia Divided into three sections the book also discusses globalization and the theoretical issues that inform contemporary discussions of the relationship between religion and violence      Baily's Magazine of Sports and Pastimes ,1878      Baily's Magazine of Sports & Pastimes ,1878
