Renewing Urban Communities Mark Scott, 2017-07-05. Ireland is now an urban society and both parts of the island have experienced rapid urban generated growth and new patterns of development in recent years. This interdisciplinary book adopts an all-Ireland perspective to investigate the tension that exists between sustainable urban development values and rhetoric such as increased densities, brown field development, the compact city and social inclusion and the emerging geography of urban Ireland influenced by consumer and lifestyle choices. The introduction provides an overview of the dynamics of urban change particularly during the 1990s and the experience of rapid economic growth. The following chapters are divided into two parts considering sustainable urban environments and sustainable communities. This book will appeal to students, academics, policy and decision makers given that it adopts both a qualitative and quantitative approach and introduces a range of new empirical studies covering both physical and social sustainable development.

Islam and Secular Citizenship in the Netherlands, United Kingdom, and France Carolina Ivanescu, 2016-04-08. The past several years have seen many examples of friction between secular European societies and religious migrant communities within them. This study combines ethnographic work in three countries: The Netherlands, the United Kingdom and France with a new theoretical frame, regimes of secularity. Its mission is to contribute to an understanding of minority identity construction in secular societies. In addition to engaging with academic literature and ethnographic research, the book takes a critical look at three cities, three nation contexts and three grassroots forms of Muslim religious collective organization, comparing and contrasting them from a historical perspective. Carolina Ivanescu offers a thorough theoretical grounding and tests existing theories empirically. Beginning from the idea that religion and citizenship are both crucial aspects of the state's understanding of Muslim identities, she demonstrates the relevance of collective identification processes that are articulated through belonging to geographical and ideological entities. These forms of collective identification and minority management, Ivanescu asserts, are configuring novel possibilities for the place of religion in the modern social world.
