How To Make Saints Make Sense For Families:

Rewriting Saints and Ancestors Constance Brittain Bouchard, 2014-10-13 Thinkers in medieval France constantly reconceptualized what had come before interpreting past events to give validity to the present and help control the future. The long dead saints who presided over churches and the ancestors of established dynasties were an especially crucial part of creative memory. Constance Brittain Bouchard contends in Rewriting Saints and Ancestors she examines how such ex post facto accounts are less an impediment to the writing of accurate history than a crucial tool for understanding the Middle Ages. Working backward through time, Bouchard discusses twelfth century scribes contemplating the ninth century documents they copied into cartularies or reworked into narratives of disaster and triumph, ninth century churchmen deliberately forging supposedly late antique documents as weapons against both kings and other churchmen, and sixth and seventh century Gallic writers coming to terms with an early Christianity that had neither the saints nor the monasteries that would become fundamental to religious practice. As they met with political change and social upheaval, each generation decided which events of the past were worth remembering and which were to be reinterpreted or quietly forgotten. By considering memory as an analytic tool, Bouchard not only reveals the ways early medieval writers constructed a useful past but also provides new insights into the nature of record keeping, the changing ways dynasties were conceptualized, the relationships of the Merovingian and Carolingian kings to the church, and the discovery or invention of Gaul's earliest martyrs.

Making Sense as a Cultural Practice Jörg Rogge, 2014-04-15 In the cultural and social formations of the past, practices exist for the generation and integration of moments, having and giving sense with the objective of strengthening the cultural and social cohesion. Such practices and processes have a constructive character even if this is not always the intention of the actors themselves. As the production of sense is one of the central fields of action of cultural and political practice, the articles examine with an interdisciplinary perspective how in different contexts the construction of sense was organized and implemented as a cultural practice.

The Leaven of the Saints Dawn Marie Beutner, 2023-03-20 The kingdom of heaven is like leaven which a woman took and hid in three measures of meal till it was all leavened Matthew 13:33 How can we be part of the kingdom of heaven here and now and spread it to others like leaven causing a lump of dough to rise and expand Just look at the lives of the saints Over the past two millennia the Church has recognized thousands of men and women who have loved and imitated Christ so wholeheartedly that they transformed the world around them as they were transformed themselves The saints have come from every background people and era They have been rich and poor healthy and sick single and married members of the clergy and of the laity The Leaven of the Saints groups them according to the kind of Christian witness they have given the world as martyrs Fathers and Doctors of the Church priests and religious popes and bishops national heroes founders of religious orders married persons and more The vastness of this work reveals an important truth that each saint is a unique individual with a unique mission to grow in the knowledge and love of Christ and to make him better known and loved in the world

Brooker, 2002-04-16 This is a unique portrait of a group of working class families whose 4 year old children start school on the cusp of the millenium in urban Britain It is a brilliant analysis of ways in which parents children and teachers strive to cross cultural and linguistic boundaries to come to a common understanding of school Beautifully written it is essential reading for all involved in the education of young children Eve Gregory Professor of Language and Culture in Education Goldsmiths University of London This book will challenge and support practitioners in their quest to improve early childhood practice The use of theory is friendly and the real life examples of the experiences of young children and their parents really bring home to the reader the experience of inequality Readers will rarely find a book which expresses the complexity of educational experience in such an accessible form This is a valuable book for every level of early years training Iram Siraj Blatchford Professor of Early Childhood Education Institute of Education University of London How does the home experience of children from poor and ethnic minority communities influence their adaptation to school How does the traditional child centred and progressive pedagogy of early years classrooms meet the needs of children from culturally diverse backgrounds Starting School seeks to address these key questions by tracing the learning experiences of individual children from a poor inner urban neighbourhood half of them from Bangladeshi families as they acquire the knowledge appropriate to their home culture and then take this knowledge to their reception class The book highlights the small differences in family life in parenting practices in perspectives on childhood and in beliefs about work and play which make a big difference to children s adaptations to school In other words it shows how children succeed and fail from their early days at school It shows too how the good intentions of good teachers can sometimes allow children from certain backgrounds to become disaffected and learn to fail and it suggests ways of working with children from working class and multicultural families which may help both children and parents to gain a better understanding of school learning in the UK Empires, Nations, and Families Anne F.
