I Am An African:

Who is an African? Jideofor Adibe, 2009-05-30 Who is an African At face value the answer seems obvious Surely everyone knows who the African is it would seem But the answer becomes less obvious once other probing qualifiers are added to the question How is the African identity constructed in the face of the mosaic of identities that people of African ancestry living within and beyond the continent bear Do all categorised as Africans or as having an African pedigree perceive themselves as Africans Are all who perceive themselves as Africans accepted as such Are there levels of e Africanness and are some more African than others How does African identity interface with other levels of identity and citizenship in Africa And what are the implications of the contentious nature of African identity and citizenship for the projects of pan Africanism the making of the Africa nation and Africa s development trajectories Contributors to the volume including Ali Mazrui Kwesi Prah Gamal Nkrumah Helmi Sharawy and Marcel Kitissou address these questions and more They examine the issues of African identity and citizenship the politics spurned by the co existence of peoples of different Africanities in the same country and the prospects of constructing an Africa Nation in which Africans of all hues are as sentimentally attached to as say the Europeans are attached to Europe Though the projects of pan Africanism and the making of the Africa nation have not achieved the desired levels of success some of the contributors found sufficient grounds for optimism These grounds include the deepening democratic ethos in the continent which is believed will unleash a love of freedom that will supersede the fissiparous tendencies that underlie the various notions of Africanity and the rise of new economic powers such as India and China which are increasingly looking towards Africa as the next big destination The emergence of Barrack Obama whose father is Kenyan as the President of the United States of America also appears to be unleashing a new wave of can do attitude It is argued that for many Africans Obama is both an African name they can relate to and a metaphor expressing that anything is possible if you strive hard for it with the right attitude This right attitude is an attitude that is post chauvinism for it is only by being post racial and a reconciler that a Blackman with an African Muslim father who was not born into privilege could emerge president of the most powerful country in the world This lesson is not lost on Africans and it is a powerful boost to the African unity project

A Black African Widow Precious Assah Sibitane, 2021-01-29 In this collection of poetry Assah is deeply concern about the way women and children are treated by the society especially when a man passes on The inequality between man and women which perpetrate women and children abuse She has looked at the history of all women and discovered that about 90% of women are suffering under the hands of abusive men In the poem titled A black bleeding beauty she condemns the deeds of men and give hope to women and children liberation She further urged all women to take a trip to themselves find strength in themselves depend in themselves and learn to develop themselves to cab the issue of depending on men which gives rise to women and children abuse She portraits a very loving space but full of disappointment when a woman asks his man to be her valentine which is in vain She painted a picture on how great God is when she talks about the beauty of nature in He is great She condemned Xynophobic acts in The ugly monster saying in God s eyes we are one Voyage of Nostalgia Victor Okorie,2014-10-06 Victor Okorie was born into an Ibo family in Mbano southeastern Nigeria a scientist and esteemed development passionate gifted in the literary and performing arts Among his many skills he indulges a devotion to poetry which obliges him a quiet amusement Voyage of Nostalgia is his first published book of literature My Journey to Me Ayanda Mantanga,2011-01-12 My journey to me is a translation of the journey that I have gone through to get to where I am at the present moment It is an emotional transcript of all the trials and triumphs that I have been through as a person from losing family members being unemployed and climbing the success ladder This book contains all the emotions that I have gone through as a person This is just a step that brings the reader closer to me as an emotional being and it is dedicated to all my friends and family The Routledge Reader of African American Rhetoric Vershawn Ashanti Young,Michelle Bachelor Robinson,2024-11-01 The Routledge Reader of African American Rhetoric is a comprehensive compendium of primary texts that is designed for use by students teachers and scholars of rhetoric and for the general public interested in the history of African American communication The volume and its companion website include dialogues creative works essays folklore music interviews news stories raps videos and speeches that are performed or written by African Americans Both the book as a whole and the various selections in it speak directly to the artistic cultural economic gendered social and political condition of African Americans from the enslavement period in America to the present as well as to the Black Diaspora The Construction, Negotiation, and Representation of Immigrant Student Identities in South African schools Saloshna Vandeyar,Thirusellvan Vandeyar,2015-02-01 This is a ground breaking research study on Black immigrant identities in South African schools It is the first major book on racial integration and immigrant children in South African schools The overall aim of this study is to investigate how immigrant students negotiate and mediate their identity within the South African schooling context This study set out to explain this complex phenomenon guided by the following research objectives One to describe how immigrant student identities are framed challenged asserted and negotiated within the institutional cultures of schools Two to evaluate the extent to which the ethos of these schools has been transformed towards integration in the truest sense and to determine how immigrant students perceive this in practice Three to explore the transnational social fields in terms of social networks and cross border linkages of immigrant students and how this impacts on their identity formation Four to determine if there are any new forms of immigrant student self identities that are beginning to emerge Five to determine the extent to which racial desegregation has been accompanied by social integration between immigrant and local students Six to determine the impact of the South African social schooling context on immigrant student identity formation And seven to identify critical lessons and good practice that could be learnt and used to accelerate the racial desegregation and social integration of immigrant students in South African schools Toward an African Theology of Fraternal Solidarity Ikenna Ugochukwu Okafor,2014-09-29 In this book Ikenna Okafor tackles an interesting and timely topic and demonstrates competence and maturity in developing his insight into Igbo humanism to make liberation theology from an African perspective into a theology of solidarity and fraternity With a good narrative style Okafor critiques the Latin American liberation theological project And inspired by the hermeneutical implications of UBE NAWANNE the evangelical positioning of material poverty and pathos for the poor as defining Christian discipleship is persuasively presented The potent nwanne idiom guides his critical evaluation of the social teachings and praxis of the Catholic Church In fact it is clear that Okafor embarked on a subject matter that is of theological moment and has creative pastoral implications for the Church of Nigeria the Churches of Africa and the World Church

Facts, Fiction, and African Creative Imaginations Toyin Falola, Fallou Ngom, 2009-09-11 This volume brings together insights from distinguished scholars from around the world to address the facts fiction and creative imaginations in the pervasive portrayals of Africa its people societies and cultures in the literature and the media The fictionalization of Africa and African issues in the media and the popular literature that blends facts and fiction has rendered perceptions of Africa its cultures societies customs and conflicts often superficial and deficient in the popular Western consciousness The book brings eminent scholars from a variety of disciplines to sort out the persistent fictionalization of Africa from facts pertaining to the genesis of powerful cultural political or religious icons the historical and cultural significance of intriguing customs such as tribal marks gender relations causes of conflicts and African responses and creative imaginations in contemporary African films fiction and literature among others

Benita, an African romance H. Rider Haggard, 2023-09-03 Reproduction of the original The publishing house Megali specialises in reproducing historical works in large print to make reading easier for people with impaired vision

Benita, an African Romance Sir H Rider Haggard, 2006-12-20 Beautiful beautiful was that night No air that stirred the black smoke from the funnels of the mail steamer Zanzibar lay low over the surface of the sea like vast floating ostrich plumes that vanished one by one in the starlight Benita Beatrix Clifford for that was her full name who had been christened Benita after her mother and Beatrix after her father's only sister leaning idly over the bulwark rail thought to herself that a child might have sailed that sea in a boat of bark and come safely into port Then a tall man of about thirty years of age who was smoking a cigar strolled up to her At his coming she moved a little as though to make room for him beside her and there was something in the motion which had anyone been there to observe it might have suggested that these two were upon terms of friendship or still greater intimacy For a moment he hesitated and while he did so an expression of doubt of distress even gathered on his face It was as though he understood that a great deal depended on whether he accepted or declined that gentle invitation and knew not which to do

An African Abroad Olabisi Ajala, 2024-12-02 After early education in Africa and working his way through various colleges in America Olabisi Ajala a young Nigerian determined to see the world in his own particular way He bought a motor scooter and armed with a camera journeyed across Europe and Asia and finally arrived in Australia where he is now living

During his travels he made up his mind that he would see as many of the political leaders as he could and he gate crashed everywhere sometimes literally as through the Jordan Israeli frontier and his persistence was well rewarded He tells us of his meeting with Krushchev with the Shah of Iran with Mrs Meir with Nasser with Nehru and others and about all these people he has something acute and perceptive to tell though the book is much more than an account of successful tuft hunting Ajala looks at the world with unprejudiced gaze He tells us why he liked or disliked such and such a people or country and though much of what he says is of course controversial it is never dull or commonplace An African Abroad is a unique book unique for its deep sincerity its fresh viewpoints and its lack of prejudice Possibly only an African could have written so illuminatingly about the countries and peoples he has visited Media Across the African Diaspora Omotayo O.

One thing the old and new South Africa have in common is a passion for inventing history History is not seen as a dispassionate inquiry into what happened but rather as part of political mobilisation promoting some form of collective self interest Not for one second do I pretend to know the whole or real story of what happened in the old South Africa or what is happening in the new I know that significant parts of what has been or is being invented are not the way I experienced them This is a personal reflection on a fascinating period in my life which coincided with fundamental shifts in the political life of South Africa I was fortunate to be in a position where I knew and had access to persons of influence across the political spectrum This is my account of their interaction with each other and mine with them Frederick van Zyl Slabbert

Burdened by Race Mohamed Adhikari,2009 Understanding the process and culture of self identification An African Affair Nina Darnton,2012-05-29 A vivid portrait of a troubled country The New York Times Corruption drug smuggling rampant human rights abuses New York journalist Lindsay Cameron finds plenty to report covering the regime of Nigeria s President Michael Olumide But in the aftermath of two probable assassinations her inquiries attract unwanted government attention As rebel factions call for free elections Lindsay races to penetrate the intricate network of corrupt government officials oil interests and CIA agents who really run the Nigerian show Meanwhile her entanglement with a rare art dealer leads her still deeper into terrain that s confounding in every respect from matters of the heart to those of politics and trade

Drawing from Nina Darnton's own experiences living in Africa during the mid 1970s including imprisonment in Nigeria with her two small children An African Affair is an edge of your seat debut thriller in the bestselling tradition of The Constant Gardener and The Last King of Scotland Know Thyself: An African American Poetic Journey Dessie Bey, 2016-01-17 An illuminatingly beautiful and timely oral history chronicling of the spiritual intellectual and artistic wisdom and expressions of African Americans Creatively and purposely written for spiritual leaders activists students and academicians as well as creative and performing artists readers will find this book an invaluable resource for examining and interpreting the rich storytelling traditions of Africa Nationalism and tribalism among African students Otto Klineberg, 2019-01-29 No detailed description available for Nationalism and tribalism among African students African-American Philosophers George Yancy, 2016-05-06 African American Philosophers brings into conversation seventeen of the foremost thinkers of color to discuss issues such as Black existentialism racism Black women philosophers within the academy affirmative action and the conceptual parameters of African American philosophy Benita: An African Romance Sir Henry Rider Haggard, Beautiful beautiful was that night No air that stirred the black smoke from the funnels of the mail steamer Zanzibar lay low over the surface of the sea like vast floating ostrich plumes that vanished one by one in the starlight Benita Beatrix Clifford for that was her full name who had been christened Benita after her mother and Beatrix after her father's only sister leaning idly over the bulwark rail thought to herself that a child might have sailed that sea in a boat of bark and come safely into port Then a tall man of about thirty years of age who was smoking a cigar strolled up to her At his coming she moved a little as though to make room for him beside her and there was something in the motion which had anyone been there to observe it might have suggested that these two were upon terms of friendship or still greater intimacy For a moment he hesitated and while he did so an expression of doubt of distress even gathered on his face It was as though he understood that a great deal depended on whether he accepted or declined that gentle invitation and knew not which to do Indeed much did depend upon it no less than the destinies of both of them If Robert Seymour had gone by to finish his cigar in solitude why then this story would have had a very different ending or rather who can say how it might have ended The dread foredoomed event with which that night was big would have come to its awful birth leaving certain words unspoken Violent separation must have ensued and even if both of them had survived the terror what prospect was there that their lives would again have crossed each other in that wide Africa But it was not so fated for just as he put his foot forward to continue his march Benita spoke in her low and pleasant voice Are you going to the smoking room or to the saloon to dance Mr Seymour One of the officers just told me that there is to be a dance she added in explanation because it is so calm that we might fancy ourselves ashore Neither he answered The smoking room is stuffy and my dancing days are over No I proposed to take exercise after that big dinner and then to sit in a chair and fall asleep But he added and his voice grew interested how did you know that it was I You never turned your head
