Katherine E. Southwood,2017-03-24 In this book Katherine E Southwood offers a new approach to interpreting Judges 21 Breaking away from traditional interpretations of kingship feminism or comparisons with Greek or Roman mythology she explores the concepts of marriage ethnicity rape and power as means of ethnic preservation and exclusion She also exposes the many reasons why marriage by capture occurred during the post exilic period Judges 21 served as a warning against compromise submission to superficial unity between the Israelites and the Benjaminites Any such unity would result in drastic changes in the character culture and values of the ethnic group Israel The chapter encouraged post exilic audiences to socially construct those categorised as Benjaminites as foreigners who do not belong within the group thereby silencing doubts about the merits of unity A Companion to American Indian History Philip J. Deloria,Neal Salisbury,2008-04-15 A

Colonial Situations George W. Stocking,1991-10-01 As European colonies in Asia and Africa became independent nations as the United States engaged in war in Southeast Asia and in covert operations in South America anthropologists questioned their interactions with their subjects and worried about the political consequences of government supported research By 1970 some spoke of anthropology as the child of Western imperialism and as scientific colonialism Ironically as the link between anthropology and colonialism became more widely accepted within the discipline serious interest in examining the history of anthropology in colonial contexts diminished This volume is an effort to initiate a critical historical consideration of the varying colonial situations in which and out of which ethnographic knowledge essential to anthropology has been produced The essays comment on ethnographic work from the middle of the nineteenth century to nearly the end of the twentieth in regions from Oceania through southeast Asia the Andaman Islands and southern Africa to North and South America The colonial situations also cover a broad range from first contact through the establishment of colonial power from District Officer administrations through white settler regimes from internal colonialism to international mandates from early pacification to wars of colonial liberation from the expropriation of land to the defense of ecology The motivations and responses of the anthropologists discussed are equally varied the romantic resistance of Maclay and the complicity of Kubary in early colonialism Malinowski s salesmanship of academic anthropology Speck s advocacy of Indian land rights Schneider s grappling with the ambiguities of rapport and Turner s facilitation of Kaiapo cinematic activism Provides fresh insights for those who care about the history of science in general and that of anthropology in particular and a valuable reference for professionals and graduate students
