includes a section that discusses ethics and religion and another that examines prima facie duties and particularism Rather than include critics views following the various theoretical presentations he has instead decided to include more works of allied thinkers in order to provide readers with a more nuanced view of the particular view in question Selections from classic writers such as Aristotle Thomas Hobbes Immanuel Kant and Plato are accompanied by more contemporary writings Annotation 2007 Book News Inc Portland OR booknews com Distributed by Syndetic Solutions LLC The Concept of Identity Eli Hirsch,1992-02-20 A collection of the author s essays on various issues in philosophy which focuses on identity in particular and metaphysics in general The Conscious Stream Denise Ingebo-Barth,2000-12-01 The Conscious Stream describes a theory built on the idea that consciousness a stream of separate conscious instants like frames making up a reel of film is formed as trajectories circulate around the nervous system circuitry In this model a trajectory is a series of neuron groups energized in turn Picture it as a sequence of lights flashing around a marquee or perhaps as a comet blazing through a linked series of packed neuron groups through circuits of the nervous system When a trajectory passes through the thalamus a central area of the brain an instant of experience is inserted into our lifelong conscious stream This instant of experience can be a sensation thought or feeling The particular instant depends on the source of the trajectory When a trajectory is initiated by sound waves to the ear and passes through the thalamus for example a sensation in this case a sound enters the conscious stream As the description of this model progresses we see how a trajectory from the thalamus to the cortex is recorded and becomes a part of a network of records and how when concurrent trajectories in the cortical network converge and generate a trajectory back to the thalamus a thought enters the conscious stream In addition as trajectories evolve being repeated prolonged released or compounded emotional feelings enter the conscious stream Over time patterns of invigoration and relaxation stagnation and relief are generated forming our life s emotional quality Finally the model shows how links of activity form a cycle and how a pattern of cycles forms an activity Patterns of activities in turn form a lifestyle In this model then the character of circulation in the nervous system reflects emotional fitness Although designed primarily for students of neuroscience this proposed model may also be evaluated by those having an interest in the physical processes underlying emotional fitness Web-Based Education: Concepts, Methodologies, Tools and Applications Management Association, Information Resources,2010-02-28 This comprehensive collection offers a compendium of research on the design implementation and evaluation of online learning technologies addressing the challenges and opportunities associated with the creation and management of Web based applications and communities instructional design personalized learning environments and effective educational delivery Provided by publisher The Making of Human Concepts Denis Mareschal,Paul C. Quinn,S. E. G. Lea,2010 Human adults appear different from other animals in their ability to form abstract mental representations that go beyond perceptual similarity In short they can conceptualize the world This apparent uniqueness leads to an immediate puzzle WHEN and HOW does this abstract system come into being To answer this question we need to explore the origins of adult concepts both developmentally and phylogenetically When does the developing child acquire the ability to use abstract concepts does the transition occur around 2 years with the onset of symbolic representation and language Or is it independent of the emergence of language when in evolutionary history did an abstract representational system emerge is there something unique about the human brain How would a computational system operating on the basis of perceptual associations develop into a system operating on the basis of abstract relations is this ability present in other species but masked by their inability to verbalise abstractions Perhaps the very notion of concepts is empty and should be done away with altogether This book tackles the age old puzzle of what might be unique about human concepts Intuitively we have a sense that our thoughts are somehow different from those of animals and young children such as infants Yet if true this raises the question of where and how this uniqueness arises What are the factors that have played out during the life course of the individual and over the evolution of humans that have contributed to the emergence of this apparently unique ability This volume brings together a collection of world specialists who have grappled with these questions from different perspectives to try to resolve the issue It includes contributions from leading psychologists neuroscientists child and infant specialists and animal cognition specialists Taken together this story leads to the idea that there is no unique ingredient in the emergence of human concepts but rather a powerful and potentially unique mix of biological abilities and personal and social history that has led to where the human mind now stands A must read for students and researchers in the cognitive sciences

Aesthetic Concepts Emily Brady, Jerrold Levinson, 2001 Aesthetic Concepts is an exploration of key topics in contemporary aesthetics that arise from the seminal work of Frank Sibley 1923 1996 Sibley developed a distinctive aesthetic theory through a number of papers published between 1955 and 1995 a selection of which entitled Approach to Aesthetics is also published by OUP Sibley's theory is grounded in the important and influential distinction he made between aesthetic and non aesthetic concepts in his ground breaking paper Aesthetic Concepts Thirteen specially written essays by British and American philosophical aestheticians bring Sibley's insight into a contemporary framework exploring the ways his ideas give rise to important new discussion about issues in aesthetics that greatly interested him These include the differences and relationships between aesthetic concepts and other types of concepts aesthetic realism and objectivity methods of aesthetic evaluation in practice and in theory the boundaries of aesthetics and aesthetics of nature versus aesthetics of art This collection will be of interest to scholars in philosophy art theory and art criticism

Logic: A History of its Central Concepts Dov M. Gabbay, Francis Jeffrey Pelletier, John Woods, 2012-12-31 The Handbook of the History of Logic is a multi volume research instrument that brings to the development of logic the best in modern techniques of historical and interpretative scholarship It is the first work in English in which the history of logic is presented so extensively The volumes are numerous and large Authors have been given considerable latitude to produce chapters of a length and a level of detail that would lay fair claim on the ambitions of the project to be a definitive research work Authors have been carefully selected with this aim in mind They and the Editors join in the conviction that a knowledge of the history of logic is nothing but beneficial to the subject s present day research programmes One of the attractions of the Handbook s several volumes is the emphasis they give to the enduring relevance of developments in logic throughout the ages including some of the earliest manifestations of the subject Covers in depth the notion of logical consequence Discusses the central concept in logic of modality Includes the use of diagrams in logical reasoning
