First Do No Unjust Harm Recognizing And Confronting Evil:

First, Do No Unjust Harm John Pletz, 2003-06-04 First Do No Unjust Harm begins from the premise that one of our primary moral duties is to avoid doing wrong and from the observation that people seem to violate that duty not infrequently in their quest to oppose evil in the pursuit of some ostensibly higher good Since many of these ethical problems appear to be caused by faulty or insufficient analysis of what is wrong Pletz has worked out some more rigorous guidelines for such analyses The recognition of evil begins with the proposition that its three main elements are a harm which has been inflicted on another b responsibility for its resting with one or more persons who have caused it and c the unjust nature of the harm The author also provides a framework for considering how we can confirm or refute our tentative conclusions about evil and how we can ascertain their relative degrees of intensity First Do No Unjust Harm then proceeds to address the question of how to confront the temptations that we face and the inclinations that we have to do wrong things Pletz also discusses strategies for actions designed to thwart the evil that others may be doing or intending to do for even though opposing evil may constitute one of our most dangerous undertakings we must sometimes do precisely that if we want the world to be a more moral place Critical to the success of such efforts however is the accurate application of our powers of judgment for we must be as sure as we can possibly be that what we are opposing is in fact wrong and in need of redress Confronting

Whiteness Boswell, W. Benjamin, 2024-02-21 Engaging intellectual works by Black authors to help readers identify and dismantle Whiteness Confronting War Ronald J. Glossop, 2012-07-24 This immensely successful textbook is broken into four parts Part One Introduction to the War Problem discusses the nature of the war problem the conceptual framework and the historical framework Part Two Causes of War talks about the cause of war group competition and group identification other views about causes of war and the value of war In Part Three The Contemporary Situation the reader will learn about ideological aspects national historical aspects military aspects institutional aspects and legal aspects of the contemporary situation Part Four Proposals for Solving the War Problem discusses reforming the attitudes of individuals reforming the internal operation of national governments reforming the policies of national governments and reforming the international system It also includes maps tables and charts which will be especially helpful to the reader Instructors considering this book for use in a course may request an examination copy here Distant Markets, Distant Harms Daniel Finn, 2014-03-19

Does a consumer who bought a shirt made in another nation bear any moral responsibility when the women who sewed that shirt die in a factory fire or in the collapse of the building Many have asserted without explanation that because markets cause harms to distant others consumers bear moral responsibility for those harms But traditional moral analysis of individual decisions is unable to sustain this argument Distant Harms Distant Markets presents a careful analysis of moral complicity in markets employing resources from sociology Christian history feminism legal theory and Catholic moral theology today Because of its individualistic methods mainstream economics as a discipline is not equipped to understand the causality entailed in the long chains of social relationships that make up the market Critical realist sociology however has addressed the character and functioning of social structures an analysis that can helpfully be applied to the market The True Wealth of Nations research project of the Institute for Advanced Catholic Studies brought together an international group of sociologists economists moral theologians and others to describe these causal relationships and articulate how Catholic social thought can use these insights to more fully address issues of economic ethics in the twenty first century The result was this interdisciplinary volume of essays which explores the causal and moral responsibilities that consumers bear for the harms that markets cause to distant others Books In Print 2004-2005 Ed Bowker Staff,Staff Bowker, Ed,2004 The Political Soul Josh Wilburn,2021-11-11 This book examines the relationship between Plato s views on psychology and his political philosophy focusing on his reflections on the spirited part of the tripartite soul or thumos and spirited motivation over the course of his career Spirit is the distinctively social or political part of the human soul for Plato in the sense that it is the source of the desires emotions and sensitivities that make it possible for people to form relationships with one another interact politically and cooperate together in and protect their communities Such emotions prominently include not only the aggressive or competitive qualities for which thumos is well known but also the feelings of attachment love friendship and civic fellowship that bind families and communities together and make cities possible in the first place Moreover as spirit is the political part of the soul in this sense two social and political challenges that occupy Plato throughout his works namely how to educate citizens properly in virtue and how to maintain unity and stability in political communities cannot be addressed and resolved on his view without proper attention to the spirited aspects of human psychology The

Rewilding and Ecological Justice Cristian Moyano-Fernández, 2025-04-18 This book presents rewilding as a matter of ecological justice To date most books and articles on rewilding have viewed this concept through the lens of environmental science while others have analyzed it from a political ethical and philosophical perspective However little attention has so far been paid to the justice angle of rewilding Why and how should justice for rewilding be articulated In order to address this question Rewilding and Ecological Justice delves into the capabilities approach extended to nonhumans distributive theories of ecological justice welfare biology strategies applied to wildlife environmental virtues philosophies of recognition and identity and decolonial studies By discussing these narratives this book is able to outline a roadmap indicating the key factors which should be considered in a justice approach to wildlife regeneration Given the current and worsening socioecological crisis rewilding initiatives are likely to increase so this book explores how to ensure that their development is just for all inclusive of both humans and nonhumans drawing on examples from across the globe This book will be of great interest to students and scholars of rewilding ecological ethics and justice environmental philosophy biodiversity conservation and ecological restoration
