"Femme" Fatale in Brazilian Cinema Antônio Márcio da Silva, 2014-05-01 In film the femme fatale has long been constructed as a beautiful heterosexual Caucasian woman Da Silva shows the need to incorporate diverse ethnic groups and male homosexuals into the range of femmes fatales and examines how the Brazilian representations cross gender race and class and offer alternatives to the dominant Hollywood model Theorizing Twilight Maggie Parke, Natalie

Wilson, 2014-01-10 Since the publication of Twilight in 2005 Stephenie Meyer's four book saga about the tortured relationship between human heroine Bella Swan and her vampire love Edward Cullen has become a world wide sensation inciting screams of delight sighs of derision and fervent pronouncements Those looking deeper into its pages and on screen can find intriguing subtexts about everything from gender race sexuality and religion The 15 essays in this book examine the texts the films and the fandom exploring the series cultural reach and offering one of the first thorough analyses of the saga

The End of Straight Supremacy Shannon Gilreath, 2011-09-19 Rooted in the politics and theories of early gay liberation and radical feminism Shannon Gilreath's The End of Straight Supremacy presents a cohesive theory of gay life under straight domination Beginning with a critique of formal equality law centering on the like straight demands of liberal equality theory as highlighted in Lawrence v Texas Gilreath moves to criticize the gay movement itself challenging the assimilation politics behind the movement's blithe acceptance of discrimination in the guise of free speech and pornography in the name of sexual liberation as well as same sex marriage and transsexuality as tools of straight hegemony Ultimately Gilreath rejects both the liberal demand for gay erasure in exchange for meager legal progress and the gay establishment agenda In The End of Straight Supremacy Gilreath calls gays and their allies to the difficult task of rethinking what liberation and equality really mean Aimer et mourir Eilene Hoft-March, Judith Holland Sarnecki, 2009-01-23 Aimer et Mourir offers a wide ranging selection of essays that collectively address how from the Middle Ages to the present the notions of love and death get inextricably associated with the narratives that are women's lives Some of the essays tackle male writers representations that link women and in particular women's sexuality with death resulting in the figures of the femme fatale the woman in parturition and the desiring vampire A number of essays reiterate that women's hypersexualized bodies have been used as a social construct and a psychological screen upon which to project a fear of death The challenges to this pat reduction of woman's domain come from the mostly women writers represented here and they span from Marguerite de

Navarre to Am lie Nothomb These women writers rework the old formulae giving us instead death defying memories of love love regenerative of language as of bodies love forcing the frontiers of death or love creatively redefined within the parameters of death Nor are these new narratives imagined as belonging to women alone but rather as attesting to a richer more varied and greatly sensitized human experience

The wounds of nations Linnie Blake, 2013-07-19 The wounds of nations Horror cinema historical trauma and national identity explores the ways in which the unashamedly disturbing conventions of international horror cinema allow audiences to engage with the traumatic legacy of the recent past in a manner that has serious implications for the ways in which we conceive of ourselves both as gendered individuals and as members of a particular nation state Exploring a wide range of stylistically distinctive and generically diverse film texts its analysis ranges from the body horror of the American 1970s to the avant garde proclivities of German Reunification horror from the vengeful supernaturalism of recent Japanese chillers and their American remakes to the post Thatcherite masculinity horror of the UK and the resurgence of hillbilly horror in the period following September 11th 2001 In each case it is argued horror cinema forces us to look again at the wounds inflicted on individuals families communities and nations by traumatic events such as genocide and war terrorist outrage and seismic political change wounds that are all too often concealed beneath ideologically expedient discourses of national cohesion By proffering a radical critique of the nation state and the ideologies of identity it promulgates horror cinema is seen to offer us a disturbing yet perversely life affirming means of working through the traumatic legacy of recent times

Bearing the weight of the world Exploring Maternal Embodiment Alys Einion, 2018-10-01 The maternal body is a site of contested dynamics of power identity experience autonomy occupation and control Representations of the maternal body can mis represent the childbearing and mothering form variously often as monstrous idealized limited scrutinized or occupied whilst dominant discourses limit motherhood through social devaluation The maternal body has long been a hypervisible artifact at once bracketed out in the interest of elevating the contributions of sperm carriers or fetal status and regarded with hostility and suspicion as out of control Such arguments are deployed to justify surveillance mechanisms medical scrutiny and expectation of self discipline
