Early Hominid Activities at Olduvai Richard Potts, 2017-07-28 The earliest sites at Olduvai Gorge in Tanzania are among the best documented and most important for studies of human evolution This book investigates the behavior of hominids at Olduvai using data of stone tools and animal bones as well as the results of work in taphonomy how animals become fossils the behavior of mammals and a wide range of ecological theory and data By illustrating the ways in which modern and prehistoric evidence is used in making interpretations the author guides the reader through the geological ecological and archeological areas involved in the study of humans Based on his study of the Olduvai excavations animal life and stone tools the author carefully examines conventional views and proposals about the early Olduvai sites First the evidence of site geology tool cut marks and other clues to the formation of the Olduvai sites are explored On this basis the large mammal communities in which early hominids lived are investigated using methods which compare sites produced mainly by hominids with others made by carnivores Questions about hominid hunting scavenging and the importance of eating meat are then scrutinized The leading alternative positions on each issue are discussed providing a basis for understanding some of the most contentious debates in paleo anthropology today The dominant interpretive model for the artifact and bone accumulations at Olduvai and other Plio Pleistocene sites has been that they represent home bases social foci similar to the campsites of hunter gatherers Based on paleo ecological evidence and ecological models the author critically analyzes the home base interpretation and proposes alternative views A new view of the Olduvai sites that they

Text Comprehension José Otero,José A. León,Arthur C. Graesser,2014-04-04 This volume s goal is to provide readers with up to date information on the research and theory of scientific text comprehension It is widely acknowledged that the comprehension of science and technological artifacts is very difficult for both children and adults The material is conceptually complex there is very little background knowledge for most individuals and the materials are often poorly written Therefore it is no surprise that students are turned off from learning science and technology Given these challenges it is important to design scientific text in a fashion that fits the cognitive constraints of the learner The enterprise of textbook design needs to be effectively integrated with research in discourse processing educational technology and cognitive science This book takes a major step in promoting such an integration This volume provides an important integration of research and theory with theoretical methodological and educational applications includes a number of chapters that cover how science text information affects mental representations and strategies introduces important suggestions about how text design and new technologies can be thought of as pedagogical features and establishes academic text taxonomies and a consensus of the criteria to organize inferences and other mental mechanisms Heritage Studies Marie Louise Stig Sørensen,John Carman,2009-09-18 This is the first volume specifically dedicated to the consolidation and clarification of Heritage Studies as a distinct field with its own means of investigation It presents the range of methods that can be used and illustrates their application through case studies from different parts of the world including the UK and USA The challenge that the collection makes explicit is that Heritage Studies must develop a stronger recognition of the scope and nature of its data and a concise yet explorative understanding of its analytical methods The methods considered fall within three broad categories textual discourse analysis methods for investigating people s attitudes and behaviour and methods for exploring the material qualities of heritage The methods discussed and illustrated range from techniques such as text analysis interviews participant observation to semiotic analysis of heritage sites and the use of GIS Each paper discusses the ways in which methods used in social analysis generally are explored and adapted to the specific demands that arise when applied to the investigation of heritage in its many forms Heritage Studies is a seminal volume that will help to define the field The global perspective and the shared focus upon the development of reflexive methodologies ensure that the volume explores these central issues in a manner that is simultaneously case specific and of general relevance Internetworking Technologies Handbook ,2004 bull Concise overviews of technologies essential to networking professionals at all levels from novice to
