In the Shadow of History Andrew Davidson, 2018-01-16 The spread of modernity throughout the non Western world has had transformative effects not only on governments and economies but on the lives of individuals as well The constraints and opportunities of modernization inevitably lead to the breakdown and supplanting of older social relations and livelihoods In this volume Andrew P Davidson examines the Nuba Mountain region of western Sudan to show how individuals and families struggle to maintain or expand their well being in the face of continuous uncertainty when control of their destinies is increasingly slipping out of the comforting confines of the village As in many third world regions changes in agriculture and market activity have occurred in the Nuba mountains in a far more compressed time frame than in Europe Davidson charts the social effects of the rationalization process by concentrating on the household as a mediating structure between the individual and the larger society In his analysis the livelihood strategies of households act as a microcosm for the unevenness of development that is characteristic of modernizing economies Davidson offers a comparative and historical examination of economic life in three villages in order to better understand the capacities and limitations that ultimately condition what people can and cannot do He shows how the older lineage system based on communalism kinship and age based hierarchy is being displaced by new forces of social organization and individual orientation which have eroded village cohesion and left the Nuba vulnerable to the Islamic dominated government in Khartoum and the ravages of the continuing Sudanese civil war In its combination of empirical analysis ethnographic fieldwork and theoretical inquiry In the Shadow of History reconceptualizes development in such a way that the dynamics of historical transformation are made clear This study like the classic anthropological tradition will be a valuable resource for anthropologists economists historians and Africa area specialists

Despite much having been written about what mediation is direct observations of commercial mediations are limited This book grants an opportunity to observe mediation in action and also provides external commentary about the actions observed The book approaches Mediation ethnographically as a social process that is informed by structures rules and norms that colour the environment within which it operates Through the ethnographic method a process leading to negotiated order is examined baring its elements identifying its influences and studying the movement to order The result is the reconceptualization of mediation The mediator is invited into the negotiation as third party intervener He creates the process of mediation defining the process by his actions which ultimately merges mediator with process This book provides a window to the lived experience of participants to mediation it explores their understandings of and interactions within a process they have experienced together and demonstrates how mediation is a process inextricably linked to negotiation The Fugitive Identity of Mediation will be of interest to scholars mediators parties who participate in the process and to those active in public policy discourse The Elements of Negotiation Keld Jensen,2024-08-27 Comprehensive guide to mastering

Resolving Development Disputes Through Negotiations Timothy J. Sullivan,2012-12-06 In the last decade disputes between developers and local communities over proposed construction projects have led to increasing litigation Environmental legislation in particular has greatly enhanced the rights and powers of organized groups that desire to participate in local development decisions These powers have allowed citizen groups to block undesired and socially unacceptable projects such as highways through urban areas and sprawling suburban developments At the same time these powers have produced a collective inability to construct many needed projects that produce adverse local impacts Prisons airports hospitals waste treatment plants and energy facilities all face years of litigation before a final decision At times prolonged litigation has produced especially high costs to all participants Despite these new powers citizen action has often been limited to participation in public hearings or adjudicatory proceedings Typically this occurs so late in the decision process that citizen input has very little affect in shaping a project s design Those who dislike some element of a project often have little choice other than to oppose the entire project through litigation ADR and the Law - 22nd Edition ,2008 ADR the Law is the flagship publication of the American Arbitration Association AAA It is a one stop reference for attorneys business executives scholars and anyone who needs to track worldwide developments in alternative dispute resolution Each consecutive volume presents a review of the year s most influential domestic and international ADR case law and legislation along with expert commentary The book includes significant court decisions analysis of current trends highlights of important domestic and foreign legislation and new ADR rules and procedures Each volume is an essential addition to a professional library Each Volume Contains Significant Decisions by Federal and State Courts Articles on Such Topics as Employment Labor Mediation Judicial Review Domestic Alternative Dispute Resolution Legislation Significant Decisions by U S Courts Concerning International Alternative Dispute Resolution International Alternative Dispute Resolution Developments International Arbitration in Specific Countries Mind ,1892 A quarterly review of philosophy Trauma Informed Support and Supervision for Child Protection Professionals Fiona Oates,2022-08-19 This book presents a narrative approach to creating a supportive environment for health and human service practitioners who work with vulnerable children and their families one of the most difficult and complex areas of practice People working in these environments are routinely exposed to violence and trauma and commonly experience symptoms of traumatic stress as a result Traditionally human service and health care service organisations have struggled to support practitioners who experience primary and secondary trauma in either a preventative context or post exposure Using contemporary trauma theory this book provides a trauma informed support and supervision framework for supervisors and managers of practitioners that recognises the uniqueness of the practice field the diversity of practitioners who undertake the work and the diversity of contexts in which they work It will be required reading for all human service and health professionals including social workers psychologists and nurses as well as teachers counsellors and youth workers Signs in Society Richard J.
