backdrop of innovation with care which is seen as a phenomenon that takes place among many actors with different perspectives ideas and cultures that must be carefully woven together in order to achieve the benefits of innovation The new perspectives presented by the contributors will be important in encouraging successful innovation across sectors organizations and people They examine how people and organizations deal with the tensions and paradoxes in the innovative process between creativity and innovation variation and selection and sense and strategy making The book also includes a sociological approach to innovation as a complement to economic perspectives in order to better understand how people can benefit from innovation in a number of interesting private and public cases To benefit from innovation it concludes people depend less on formal roles and formal organization than on a caring approach that enables them to deal with and interpret evolutions across people organizations and sectors This highly original innovative book will provide fascinating reading for a diverse audience including academics researchers policymakers and managers with an interest in innovation organization studies institutional theory and more generally business and management

Digital Library Use Ann Peterson-Kemp, Nancy A. Van House, Barbara P. Buttenfield, 2003-10-10 Viewing digital libraries as sociotechnical systems networks of people and technology interacting with society The contributors to this volume view digital libraries DLs from a social as well as technological perspective They see DLs as sociotechnical systems networks of technology information artifacts and people and practices interacting with the larger world of work and society As Bruce Schatz observes in his foreword for a digital library to be useful the users the documents and the information system must be in harmony The contributors begin by asking how we evaluate DLs how we can understand them in order to build better DLs but they move beyond these basic concerns to explore how DLs make a difference in people s lives and their social worlds and what studying DLs might tell us about information knowledge and social and cognitive processes The chapters using both empirical and analytical methods examine the social impact of DLs and also the web of social and material relations in which DLs are embedded these far ranging social worlds include such disparate groups as community activists environmental researchers middle school children and computer system designers Topics Documents and society the real boundaries of a library without walls the ecologies of digital libraries usability and evaluation information and institutional change transparency as a product of the convergence of social practices and information artifacts and collaborative knowledge construction in digital libraries of User Experience Phil Turner, 2017-12-02 It is well established that while cognitive psychology provides a sound foundation for an understanding of our interactions with digital technology this is no longer sufficient to make sense of how we use and experience the personal relational and ubiquitous technologies that pervade everyday life This book begins with a consideration of the nature of experience itself and the user experience UX of digital technology in particular offering a new broader definition of the term This is elaborated through a wide ranging and rigorous review of what are argued to be the three core UX elements These are involvement including shared sense making familiarity appropriation and being with technologies affect including emotions with and about technology impressions feelings and mood and aesthetics including embodied aesthetics and neuroaesthetics Alongside this new insights are introduced into how and why much of our current use of digital technology is simply idling or killing time A particular feature of the book is a thorough treatment of parallel and sometimes competing accounts from differing academic traditions Overall the discussion considers both foundational and more recent theoretical and applied perspectives from social psychology evolutionary psychology folk psychology neuroaesthetics neuropsychology the philosophy of technology design and the fine arts This broad scope will be enlightening and stimulating for anyone concerned in understanding UX A Psychology of User Experience stands as a companion text to the author's HCI Redux text which discusses the contemporary treatment of cognition in human computer interaction

Ana-Maria Herman, 2023-02-10 Digital media technologies have provided an occasion not only for novel ways to display and exhibit collections but also for new politics to arise as museums and urban settings change While some believe these changes are driven by humans others see digital media technologies at the heart of these changes Reconfiguring the Museum offers a third explanation that considers both the social and technical together and thereby captures the experimental nature of introducing novel digital media technologies to museums and the uncertainty messiness contingency and complexity involved In this sociotechnical case study of a novel augmented reality app first designed to exhibit collections from the Museum of London across the sprawling capital city and later remade for the McCord Museum to display collections throughout Montreal Ana Maria Herman reveals how the app introduced unexpected new relations between the museums their collections advertising agencies sponsors technology companies corporations urban spaces and end users She shows how museum practices related to curating designing building visiting and modifying exhibitions were transformed and how in such unsettled arrangements what we think of as old cultural politics can unexpectedly re emerge while new digital politics related to big data surveillance and automated processes may not necessarily materialize A detailed account of emerging actors and practices involved in making digital exhibitions Reconfiguring the Museum offers practical considerations for museum culture and heritage practitioners charged with creating digital displays and accounting for their success or failure
