Madness Triumphant Lee Fratantuono 2, 2012-06-28 Madness Triumphant A Reading of Lucan s Pharsalia offers the most detailed and comprehensive analysis of Lucan s epic poem of the civil war between Caesar and Pompey to have appeared in English In the manner of his previous books on Virgil and Ovid Professor Fratantuono considers the Pharsalia as an epic investigation of the nature of fury and madness in Rome this time during the increasing insanity of Nero s reign The volume proceeds chapter by chapter book by book through Lucan s poem as it unfolds the thesis that the poet Lucan crafted an epic response to both Virgil and Ovid the closing movement in a three act tragedy of madness In response to the Aeneid Lucan raises the idea that the final ethnographic settlement of Trojans and Italians may not have been for the best while in response to the Metamorphoses he explores the idea that the immortality achieved by the poet may not after all prove to be a blessing An introduction and bibliography provide additional direction for the study of this greatest surviving work of literature from the so called Silver Age of Neronian literature while the individual chapters offer in depth bibliographical citations and extensive annotation as a guide to further study of the poem Lucan s poem is revealed to be the consummate hymn to fury as the poet offers a return to the opening of Homer s Iliad and the wrath of Achilles which is now viewed as part of an unending cycle of madness that will end only in the flames of a global conflagration that will consume all things The pervasive intertext of Lucan s epic poem with his predecessor Manilius Astronomica is also investigated as the nature of Lucan s response to both Stoic and Epicurean antecedents is explored Manilius stars are virtually sprinkled through the Pharsalia as the heavens offer a celestial canvas for the poet of fury to illustrate the beautiful lies that may ultimately be shown to conceal even more seductive truths Julia Kristeva and Literary Theory Megan Becker-Leckrone, 2017-09-16 Engaged debate among feminist political and psychoanalytic thinkers has secured Julia Kristeva's status as one of the most formidable figures in twentieth century critical theory. Nevertheless her precise relevance to the study of literature the extent to which her theory is specifically a literary theory can be hard for new readers to fathom. This approachable volume explores Kristeva's definition of literature her methods for analyzing it and the theoretical ground on which those endeavors are based. Megan Becker Leckrone argues that Kristeva's signature concepts such as abjection and intertextuality lose much of their force when readers extract them from the specific complex theoretical context in which Kristeva produces them. Early chapters situate her theory in a broader conversation with Roland Barthes Sigmund Freud Jacques Lacan and others around the issues of reading textuality and subjectivity. Subsequent chapters look at Kristeva's actual engagements with literary texts specifically her challenging highly performative reading of French novelist Louis Ferdinand Celine in Powers of Horror: An Essay on Abjection and her career long preoccupation with James Joyce. A final chapter of the book looks at the way contemporary literary critics have marshaled her ideas in re-reading the poetry of William Wordsworth while a helpful glossary identifies Kristeva's most pertinently literary theoretical concepts by way of synopses of the texts in which she presents them.

The Minnie Years and Julia Town ANNE COSTON-BAGBY,2010-04-01 My Aunt Minnie was a tyrant Nothing gave her more pleasure than to rear back on the hocks of her legs arms akimbo and Bellow at people in such a belligerent voice they were reduced to a state of nothingness Cunning greed and deceit were parts of her outward character discernible at all times but her strong filial tendencies were known only to those in close contact with her Aunt Minnie was a tall woman close to five feet ten inches in height weighing somewhere in the two hundreds A wide face small eyes spaced close together gave her the look of a pouncing hawk Needless to say we stood in communal awe of her We being my nine brothers and sisters entrusted into her care by my well meaning misguided father whose only fault laid in his pride as sole provider of a family the size of ours Father looked on the acceptance of charily in any form as a cardinal sin Therefore when times became hard we were packed up and shipped off to a small rural parish in North Carolina under the auspices of Minnie Although we were forced to submit to her absolute rule there were times to give the Devil his due when she was most kind to us As time passed we learned to mistrust these moments of kindness They seemed to precede Aunt Minnie at her worst Now that I am grown and know something of Aunt Minnie s history I am more given to understand her whole character She was according to my grandmother never satisfied with her status in their small family which consisted of herself my grandmother and their mother Born some months after the death of my great grandfather she was never sure she could rightfully claim the legitimacy that fell naturally to my grandmother who enjoyed the safety of being born during the lifetime of their father Consequently she was a difficult child who grew to womanhood with a warped sense of love hate toward her mother sister and the whole world This too would explain her late marriage Having developed a tongue and temper akin to razor sharpness it was a complete surprise when at the old age of twenty nine she married a ships hang about in Newport News Virginia and brought him home to the small house she rented on Charles Street in Norfolk Virginia Her husband Samuel Bell was born of a dying mother in the early eighteen nineties His birth date was never officially recorded After the death of his mother with no one claiming relationship and still an infant he was sent by the authority in place to Suffolk Foundling the County Home for orphaned Negro children There he remained until he reached the age of eighteen At age thirty two Sam a loner with a heavy drinking problem attended a June Nineteenth Masonic Picnic There he met an unattached spinster Miss Minnie DeComtessa Louisiana Blount my Aunt Minnie After the marriage she supplied him with a push cart work card and a contract to sell bushels of wood from a local lumber yard and promptly set about making this poor spineless creature s life a living hell for the next five years When my mother was ten years old Aunt Minnie gave birth to twin daughters She was thirty four years old at the time and the combined facts of not being a younger woman a difficult pregnancy and a growing realization that she had married a lazy shiftless man whose sole ambition was jist to git by for today drove her to extreme fits of temper Each week during her pregnancy no matter how inclement the weather or morning sickness she would trudge the twelve blocks or so in front of or beside never behind her husband s push cart haranguing him all the way with foul words and name calling When they reached the lumber yard it was she who would sign for the amount of wood to be sold that week her husband being completely illiterate Each week the amount would be increased On the day she gave birth despite her labor pains she made him get up earlier than usual
