Autopsy of an Unwinnable War: Vietnam William C. Haponski, Jerry J. Burcham, 2019-06-11. A military studies professor and former combatant rationally dissects the strategies and mindsets on both sides of this thirty-year conflict. New York Journal of Books. Since the fall of Saigon in 1975, there have been much discussion of why and whether America lost the war in Vietnam. The common belief is that the war was lost not on the battlefield but in Washington DC. The stark facts though are that the Vietnam War was lost before the first American shot was fired. In fact, it was lost before the first French Expeditionary Corps shot almost two decades earlier and was finally lost when the South Vietnamese fought, partly then entirely on their own. Offering an informed narrative of the entire thirty-year war, this book seeks to explain why. Written by a combatant in six large battles and many smaller firefights, who was also a leader with a full range of pacification duties, a commander who lost forty-three wonderful young men, Autopsy of an Unwinnable War is the result of a quest for answers by one who, after decades of wondering what it was all about, turned to a years-long search of French, American, and Vietnamese sources. This is a story lived and revealed mainly by the people inside Vietnam who were directly involved in the war, from leaders in high positions down to the jungle boots and sandals level of the fighters, and among the Vietnamese who were living it. Because of what was happening inside Vietnam itself, no matter what policies and directives came out of Paris or Washington or the influences in Moscow or Beijing, it is about a Vietnamese idea that would eventually triumph over bullets. Includes photographs.

The Malayan Emergency & Indonesian Confrontation Robert Jackson, 2011-05-18. A military history of the two campaigns. British and Commonwealth forces fought against Communist terrorists in Malaya during the mid-twentieth century. The struggle with Communist terrorists in Malaya, known as The Emergency, became a textbook example of how to fight a guerrilla war based on political as much as military means. This book deals with both the campaign fought by British Commonwealth and other security forces in Malaya against Communist insurgents between 1948 and 1960, and also the security action in North Borneo during the period of Confrontation with Indonesia from 1962 to 1966. Both campaigns provided invaluable experience in the development of anti-guerrilla tactics and are relevant to the conduct of similar actions which have been fought against insurgent elements since then. The book, written with the full co-operation of various departments of the UK Ministry of Defence, contains material that until recently remained classified. This is the first full study to cover the role of airpower in these conflicts. It will be of relevance to students at military colleges and those studying military history, as well as having a more general appeal, particularly to those servicemen and women who were involved in both campaigns.
