The Apocalypse of the Reluctant Gnostics Stuart Douglas,2018-04-19 This book presents a comparison of the Gnostic worldviews of Carl G Jung and science fiction author Philip K Dick two figures who have done far more than most to revive an interest in the Gnostic tradition in the modern world Despite profoundly different approaches one was a depth psychologist whose unique insights and approach to psychology forced him to explore the depths of the unconscious in a way that inevitably led him to touch frequently on metaphysical or spiritual matters the other was an author of science fiction there are some striking parallels between their unique Gnostic visions With the relatively recent publication of both Jung's and Dick's personal journals The Red Book 2009 and The Exegesis of Philip K Dick 2011 respectively in which they articulate their Gnostic visions it seems timely to make this comparison

Gnosis and Hermeticism from Antiquity to Modern Times R. van den Broek, Wouter J. Hanegraaff, 1998-01-01 This volume introduces what has sometimes been called the third component of western culture It traces the historical development of those religious traditions which have rejected a world view based on the primacy of pure rationality or doctrinal faith emphasizing instead the importance of inner enlightenment or gnosis a revelatory experience which was typically believed to entail an encounter with one's true self as well as with the ground of being God The contributors to this book demonstrate this perspective as fundamental to a variety of interconnected traditions In Antiquity one finds the gnostics and hermetics in the Middle Ages several Christian sects The medieval Cathars can to a certain extent be considered part of the same tradition Starting with the Italian humanist Renaissance hermetic philosophy became of central importance to a new religious synthesis that can be referred to as Western Esotericism The development of this tradition is described from Renaissance hermeticists and practitioners of spiritual alchemy to the emergence of Rosicrucianism and Christian theosophy in the seventeenth century and from post enlightenment aspects of Romanticism and occultism to the present day New Age movement
