Reframing the Leadership Landscape Roger Hayes, Reginald Watts, 2016-03-03 In an uncertain and complex world leaders should not merely respond to the speed of change but attempt to anticipate it Sometimes it is unexpected sometimes the signs are there but the dots are not joined together The NEW normal must be navigated negotiated networked and a narrative built around it Leaders need to adapt to a changing ecosystem in which the biggest challenges cross the boundaries of the public private and non profit sectors requiring much closer collaboration Aggressive individualism is no longer a sustainable basis for companies needing to deliver social and economic value now enterprises must move beyond narrow self interest and short termism to balance stakeholder expectations In Reframing the Leadership Landscape Dr Roger Hayes and Dr Reginald Watts argue that the interconnected and interdependent world requires leaders to adopt a more holistic and inclusive approach Despite global business education advances business mostly fails to make cross disciplinary connections or interpret weak signals and is ill prepared for changes in cultural and technical demands The tool kit is here ready to be unpacked The only question is whether aspirant leaders are sensitive enough to read the signals and develop the skills needed to create an essential collaborative paradigm which they must do if they wish to regain trust fill the leadership void and help reshape a sustainable future

We showcase innovative approaches from countries like Norway, Iceland, the United States and Australia, including science-based quotas, marine protected areas and eco-certification schemes. Adopting a holistic perspective, we consider the biological, social, economic and cultural dimensions of fishing communities, advocating for equity and inclusivity in decision-making. Business Ethics in Africa, Volume I Silk Ugwu Ogbu, Rose Ogbechie, 2024-10-18. There is a false assumption that the systemic corruption that exists in significant parts of sub-Saharan Africa is crippling enough to dominate any discussion of business ethics in the region. However, African companies that engage in positive ethical practices are more successful at creating value for society and remaining socially relevant in the long run, which improves their economic outlook. This edited two-volume collection contributes to the growing discussion of business ethics and doing business in Africa. It offers invaluable insights into practical ways of integrating ethics with business operations to enhance corporate values, responsibility and profitability. This first volume interrogates the intricate relationship between business success, ethics and stakeholders' well-being within the nuances and evolving shifts that underpin business in Africa. It restates the significance of business ethics in Africa by providing necessary contexts to the global conversation on integrating business performance with ethical obligations, social responsibilities and sustainability principles. The ideas espoused in the chapters and recommendations offered therein aim to guide academics and practitioners towards finding solutions to the ethical challenges they face in their fields of practice or daily interactions in and out of the workplace. Illuminating key concepts and theories with the help of detailed case studies, this collection will be of great use to scholars and students of business ethics as well as practitioners and policymakers interested in or working in Africa.
