Eleven More American Women Poets in the 21st Century Claudia Rankine, Lisa Sewell, 2012-01-01 A fine and selective anthology that's also a critical introduction to some of the most provocative and some of the most original poetry out there Stephanie Burt author of Don't Read Poetry: A Book About How to Read Poems The American Poets in the 21st Century series continues with another anthology focused on female poets Like the earlier books this volume includes generous selections of poetry by some of the best poets of our time as well as illuminating poetics statements and incisive essays on their work This unique organization makes these books invaluable teaching tools Broadening the lens through which we look at contemporary poetry this new volume extends its geographical net by including Caribbean and Canadian poets Representing three generations of women writers among the insightful pieces included in this volume are essays by Karla Kelsey on Mary Jo Bang's modes of artifice Christine Hume on Carla Harryman's kinds of listening Dawn Lundy Martin on M NourbeSe Phillip for whom English is a foreign anguish and Sina Queyras on Lisa Robertson's confoundingly beautiful surfaces In addition a companion website presents audio of each poet's work

Memnoir Joan Retallack, 2004 Poetry MEMNOIR is a high speed chase through intersections of chance and consciousness in the experience of experiencing our lives Movies and memory swap visceral visual thrill with mathematics and philosophy as Retallack plays with our reliance on symbols and cultural frames of reference to get to the point of a given moment Joan Retallack's marvelous Memnoir is so much more than what one can say about it The unforgettable words she offers look back on one of those periods when life seems superficially friendly or is this the hot majestic interlude of a film version of the same John Ashbery

Mongrelisme Joan Retallack, 1999 Poetry According to Joan Retallack Poetry and poetics is for me the lively practice of positioning oneself as imaginative agent in the world It has been the moving principle of my intellectual and cultural life for the past two decades I am searching for a way for my experience of mongrelism a word that I know can strike the ear with a kind of barren ugliness to attain a textual transvaluation of values a reality that arrives on the page out of a practice of writing that is both investigative and meditative involving longing and humor attempting to find discernible pattern in complex intersecting realities The Little Door Slides Back Jeff Clark, 1997 Winner of the 1997 National Poetry Series As this past year's judge for the National Poetry Series Ray DiPalma wrote the poems collected here represent far more than a finely articulated gathering of poems The wide ranging and imaginatively animated expressions of self revelation at work in these texts establish an original and confident presence that takes it step by step in part from the visionary writing of such poets as Trakl Desnos and Michaux This is a book that asks some valuable new questions the very nature of whose answers offers the perplexing consolations that bring us to the poem in the first place A rare achievement State of Mind Martha Clare Ronk, 1995 The poems in State of mind are in transit from one state of mind to another as geographies especially Californian slide into states of mind statements of fact into memory or metaphor Just as one necessarily defines oneself against the surrounding world of objects so in Ronk's poetry landscape do words find meaning as they work against and in conjunction with each other The poems of this journey through the poet's state of mind build by accretion just as the jumble of Los Angeles's famed Pico Boulevard on any afternoon defines the city's essence so does this collection in its linguistic construction attempt to define its author and her world

The Book of who are was Benjamin Hollander, 1997 Poetry San Francisco poet Benjamin Hollander explores through a negotiation with poets of the past and present such as Paul Celan Edmond Jabes and Anne Marie Albiach how to project memory on stage Recognizing poetry as a theatrical field a performance so to speak THE BOOK OF WHO ARE WAS contemplates the process of poetic creation in which it is actually the reader's or spectator's memory that is projected upon the stage or text Opening his book with an imaginary dialogue with Celan Hollander develops a poetics of translation in which letters and words appear or disappear while remembering and crossing over each other The result is a startlingly original poetry a series of mysterious transformative encounters among figures occasions and voices of the past of the poet of the reader creating and re-creating the conversation of a book in which poetry becomes a gift a thing to refuse you challenges the very possibility of true belief by submitting even the shards of narrative coherence in the poetry to further fracturing until meaning itself becomes a blur of criss-crossing associations Instead of leaving the reader with a sense of emptiness however Phillips' brilliant poem demonstrates how the very recognition of linguistic rupture can enrich meaning can allow for a whole new range of possibilities of significance Ultimately credence is reestablished not for a belief in a univocal world but in a social construct of many voices and tongues Subject Guide to Children's Books in Print 1997

Classic Teachings on the Nature of God R. C Sproul, 2010 R C Sproul has committed his life to clearly communicating deep practical truths from God s Word to students and laypeople His lucid teaching style brings clarity to the most difficult and often contentious biblical and theological questions Gathered here in one volume are three of his best selling books over 40 worth of reading at a great low price From Rudolf Otto s mysterium tremendum to Martin Luther s insanity and Jonathan Edwards s fiery sermons Sproul s classic The Holiness of God illuminates history and Scripture to help readers understand and live with the tension that exists between God s terrifying holiness and his inexplicable grace In Chosen by God Sproul tackles the divisive subject of predestination and discusses God s sovereignty and the problem of evil human freedom and the task of evangelism He explains that there is a mystery in God s ways but not contradiction and paints a picture of a loving not spiteful or whimsical God who provides redemption for radically corrupt people Pleasing God explores the topic of sanctification how we satisfy God by pursuing righteousness Sproul examines the constant battle Christians wage against sin pride slothfulness dishonesty He reveals how many Christians have tragically abandoned the struggle but that God delights in those who press on Although Sproul brings a Reformed background and approach to topics his work is not just for Calvinists but for all Christians who want to understand and build on the foundations of their faith
