International Trade An Introduction To Theory And Policy Hb:

International Trade Theories and the Evolving International Economy Richard Anthony Johns, 2013-11-07 International Trade Theories and the Evolving International Economy provides a much needed from which to approach this topic offering a self contained introduction to the subject of international trade theory Drawing on a broad range of material this book provides the students with a well rounded and more broadly informed view of the subject A Selected and Annotated Bibliography of International Trade Henry Hans Schloss, William N. Breswick, 1951 International Books in Print, 1995 Barbara Hopkinson, [Anonymus AC01401231], 1995 The African Continental Free Trade Area Benjamin Ofori-Amoah, 2024-06-13 In March of 2018 44 African countries signed the African Continental Free Trade Area agreement AfCFTA to launch what is considered as the largest free trade area in the world The signing of the agreement has been hailed as a major breakthrough for African development by African countries and organizations as well as external observers of African affairs This is not the first time African countries have proposed a new organizational and institutional structure for development African countries have signed at least 13 regional trade agreements RTAs for intraregional trade since 1959 However the track record of these groups has been relatively mediocre compared to RTAs elsewhere Thus Africa has the lowest percentage of intracontinental trade in the world This volume evaluates the prospects and challenges for the AfCFTA through a deep dive assessment of previous trade blocs on the African continent and of regional free trade areas in other parts of the world The central question of the book is this If pre AfCFTA trade blocs in Africa did not encourage more intracontinental trade what guarantees that the AfCFTA will The formation of the AfCFTA will definitely remove overlapping membership that existed with previous trading blocs on the continent but what is different about the AfCFTA that will get rid of cumbersome regulation boost manufacturing and create jobs This book argues that the dreams of AfCFTA will not be realized unless African countries make efforts to address the industry mix of their economies and to enforce the rules and regulations they set down on paper International Organizations and the Analysis of Economic Policy, 1919-1950 Anthony M. Endres, Grant A. Fleming, 2002-06-24 This 2002 book expands our understanding of the distinctive policy analysis produced between 1919 and 1950 by economists and other social scientists for four major international organizations the League of Nations the International Labor Organization the Bank for International Settlements and the United Nations These practitioners included some of the twentieth century s eminent economists including Cassel Haberler Kalecki Meade Morgenstern Nurkse Ohlin Tinbergen and Viner Irving Fisher and John Maynard Keynes also influenced the work of these organizations Topics covered include the relationship between economics and policy analysis in international organizations business cycle research the role and conduct of monetary policy public investment trade policy social and labor economics international finance the coordination problem in international macroeconomic policy full employment economics and the rich country poor country debate Normative agendas underlying international political economy are made explicit and lessons are distilled for today's debates on international economic integration      Theorizing International Trade Somesh K. Mathur, Rahul Arora, Sarbjit Singh, 2017-11-28 This book discusses the developments in trade theories including new trade models that account for firm level trade flows trade growth accounting using inverse gravity models including distortions in gravity models the impact of trade liberalization under the aegis of regional and multilateral liberalization efforts of economies using partial and general equilibrium analysis methodologies of constructing ad valorem equivalents of non tariff barriers volatility spillover effects of financial and exchange rate markets The main purpose of the book is to guide researchers working in the area of international trade especially focused on empirical analysis of trade policy issues by updating their knowledge on issues related to trade theory empirical methods and their applications The book would prove useful for policy makers academicians and researchers      Comparative Advantage in International Trade Andrea Maneschi, 1998-01-01 Historians of international trade and trade theory intellectual historians and students of trade theory will all benefit from Andrea Maneschi's masterful work which takes the reader through a considerable amount of the primary literature and presents technical models of international trade with great clarity Sandra Peart The International History Review      Handbook of International Economics G.M. Grossman, Kenneth Rogoff, 1997-10-24 Handbook of International Economics      The Mathematica Journal, 1990      International Trade. Pomfret, 1991-03      Global Constitutionalism and the Path of International Law Surendra R. Bhandari, 2016-04-26 In Global Constitutionalism and the Path of International Law Surendra Bhandari succinctly offers an account of the most important growth and features of international law from the perspectives of global constitutionalism The author examines the concept from its constitutive features and the operative standards or modus operandi These two aspects offer a new and innovative methodology in explicating the theory of global constitutionalism By examining three cases international trade WTO human rights and the role of Security Council the author demonstrates how the idea of global constitutionalism is shaping and deepening the path of international law in the 21st century and elucidates the development of international law as a body of positive rules      Lectures on International Trade, second edition Jagdish N. Bhagwati, Arvind Panagariya, T. N. Srinivasan, 1998-09-28 The greatest strength of this thoroughly revised and expanded edition of Lectures on International Trade is its rigorous algebraic and geometric treatment of the various models and results of trade theory The authors who now include Arvind Panagariya offer both policy insights and empirical applications They have added nine entirely new chapters as well as new sections to several existing chapters e g a greatly expanded treatment of the growing theory of preferential trade agreements      The Cumulative Book Index, 1992 A world list of books in the English language      University of California Union Catalog of Monographs Cataloged by the Nine Campuses from 1963 Through 1967: Subjects University of California (System). Institute of Library Research, University of California, Berkeley, 1972      Unleashing Social Justice through EU Public Procurement Antoinette Calleja, 2015-10-05 The dramatic results of the 2014 European Parliament elections have highlighted the European Union's urgent need for a review of the scope and purpose of its social objectives and for a reordering of European priorities. This book advocates a radical and original alternative to the current philosophy that determines the set of rules for the awarding of EU public procurement contracts. It calls for a reordering of the EU's economic and social priorities. In doing so, it advocates for a social dimension to be placed at the core of public procurement which could elicit a social model of integration in the EU in which the European citizen is the key actor. This is achieved through an analytical approach as well as concise and contextualised explanations relating to free trade theories, poverty and public interest theories. This book will be of key interest to students and scholars of the European Union, political theory and EU law.

Exports, Foreign Direct Investment and Economic Development in China X. Fu, 2004-08-20. This volume, based on a series of analyses using up-to-date econometric techniques, systematically investigates the role that exports and foreign direct investment (FDI) have played in China's development process and questions the received wisdom that exports and FDI are always an unalloyed blessing. It focuses on the transmission mechanisms through which exports and FDI influence growth and economic development and investigates the impact of exports and FDIs on employment, development, financing and productivity growth amongst other issues in China.

The Newly Industrializing Economies of East Asia Anis Chowdhury, Iyanatul Islam, 2005-08-09. The phenomenal success of the East Asian Newly Industrializing Economies (NIEs) of Korea, Taiwan, Hong Kong and Singapore is now well known and documented. Their success has been discussed to such an extent that it has become entrenched as part of the folklore of development economics. The Newly Industrializing Economies of East Asia takes a fresh look at the relevant literature and sifts the rhetoric from the reality. In the course of surveying the vast range of writing, two competing paradigms become clear: the neo-classical approach which interprets the East Asian economic miracle as the predictable outcome of good policies, and the statist perspective which draws attention to the central role of the government in guiding East Asian economic development. Throughout the book, the authors mix country-specific experiences with broader trends.

The Newly Industrialising Economies of East Asia Anis Chowdhury, Iyanatul Islam, 1993. In surveying the vast range of writing on the East Asian NIEs and their development paths, this book evaluates the competing roles of neo-classical approaches and central government intervention in guiding economic development.

The Arms Trade and International Criminal Law Tomas Hamilton, 2025-02-27. Despite the establishment of UN embargoes, the Arms Trade Treaty (ATT) and the EU Common Position, arms export regulation suffers from significant legal and practical limitations. This book critically evaluates the existing body of Arms Trade Law, highlighting its inadequacies in preventing weapons from reaching perpetrators of mass violence. Drawing on interviews, participant observation and empirical research to assess the perspectives of judges and lawyers, it also explores the International Criminal Court's narrow focus on prosecuting political and military leaders. Arguing that institutional attitudes and commitments contribute to a legal culture that obscures the potential for an arms trader case, the book illustrates these dynamics through a case study of the UN Security Council's response to the Second Congo War.

and the ICC's investigations in the DRC Situation elucidating missed opportunities to enforce accountability against the entire spectrum of actors responsible for international crimes Through detailed examination of the arms trade's complexities The Arms Trade and International Criminal Law foregrounds the structural causes of atrocity and argues for broader accountability It investigates how individuals including corporate executives state officials and arms traffickers can be held directly accountable for atrocities under international law even when their actions are geographically or causally distant from the violence itself Furthermore by advancing a specific interpretation of the actus reus and mens rea elements of accomplice liability under Article 25 of the Rome Statute this book argues for a robust legal basis upon which the ICC can prosecute arms traders It therefore underscores how international criminal law can complement existing regulations by leveraging its expressive function to condemn all those who profit from atrocity

Facing Reality James M. Gillies, Institute for Research on Public Policy, 1986 In this book addressed primarily to business leaders politicians and public servants the author speculates about the economic problems that changing international conditions appear to be creating argues that existing policies no longer work and must be replaced with new ones based on a new national consensus about economic goals reviews the ways business and government have worked together in the past to formulate economic strategies and suggests ways the government can create a new consensus and the prospects for its success in doing so
