Regulating Policing Edward Cape, Richard Young, 2008-09-24 The Police and Criminal Evidence Act 1984 PACE was an innovative and controversial attempt to regulate the investigation of crime Two decades on it now operates in a very different context than in the mid 1980s Whilst legal advice has become established as a basic right of those arrested and detained by the police the police service has become increasingly professionalised but also increasingly driven by government objectives and targets The Crown Prosecution Service originally established to separate prosecution from investigation is now becoming involved in the investigative process with the power to make charge decisions Although the basic structure of PACE has survived almost continual revision and amendment has resulted in a markedly different creature than that which was originally enacted In 2007 the government embarked on a further review of PACE promising to re focus the investigation and evidence gathering processes to deliver 21st century policing powers to meet the demands of 21st century crime This collection brings together some of the leading academic experts police officers and defence lawyers who have a wealth of experience of researching and working with the PACE provisions They examine the critical questions and issues surrounding PACE providing unique and exciting insights into the demands and challenges of the regulation of policing Contributors David Dixon Professor of Law University of New South Wales Authorise and Regulate A Comparative Perspective on the Rise and Fall of a Regulatory Strategy Andrew Sanders Professor of Criminal Law and Criminology University of Manchester Can Coercive Powers be Effectively Controlled or Regulated John Coppen Police Federation spokesperson on police custody issues PACE A View From the Custody Suite John Long Assistant Chief Constable Avon and Somerset Constabulary Keeping PACE Some Front Line Policing Perspectives Barbara Wilding Chief Constable South Wales Police Tipping the Scales of Justice A Review of the Impact of PACE on the Police Due Process and the Search for the Truth 1984 2006 Richard Young Professor of Law and Policy Research University of Bristol Street Policing After PACE The Drift to Summary Justice Ed Cape Professor of Criminal Law and Practice University of the West of England PACE Then and Now 21

detained persons and in particular preventing torture is a key issue of international human rights protection. The authors explore various approaches to tackle this issue including the introduction of investigative non-coercive interviewing techniques as well as the implementation of fundamental safeguards such as the access to a lawyer and a doctor. Supported by case studies, they describe the special role of national preventive mechanisms and the efforts to improve the treatment of detainees in the context of capacity building activities. Police components of international peace missions face special legal and practical human rights challenges. Authors also ask how the positive potentials and strengths within police organisations could be mobilised for realising human rights and last but not least they seek to assess the prospects of how fair treatment of persons in police custody may be ensured in the future effectively.

Second Validation Compendium Report Great Britain: National Audit Office, 2006-03-23. Public Service Agreements (PSAs) are performance targets used to monitor departmental performance, improve service delivery and aid government accountability. Following on from a previous report HCP 476 session 2004/05 ISBN 010293259X published in March 2005, this NAO report examines the progress made by 18 government departments and the cross-cutting Sure Start programme to establish robust data systems to measure and report performance against their 2003/06 PSA targets. It also highlights successful practices which have wider applicability and can improve the management of data systems across government. The report finds that progress has been variable in developing sound systems and that difficulties must be overcome in order to realise the full benefits of PSA targets.

Effective Policing: Prevention-First Approaches Pasquale De Marco, 2025-05-14. Effective Policing: Prevention-First Approaches provides a comprehensive guide to modern policing strategies that prioritize crime prevention, community engagement and data-driven decision making. Drawing inspiration from successful policing initiatives implemented across the United States, this book offers a roadmap for creating safer communities through effective and ethical policing practices. influenced the Ocean View Police Department's goal to expand the agency toward proactive policing. This work encompasses the social, economic, political, and technical aspects that affected the design, implementation, and outcome. The central research question was: If the Ocean View Police Department increases proactive time from 67% to 75%, then how many officers do we need and what are the projected costs? The study offers a roadmap for agencies looking to expand their proactive policing efforts and understand the cost drivers associated with the patrol function. The book details the demands that police agencies face and the complexities of their work. The chapters that follow acknowledge the managerial and fiscal difficulties related to staffing and funding the police while simultaneously offering suggestions for increased community collaboration. The universal model presented here can be used by all police executives, elected and appointed city officials, academics, finance, and directors/analysts.

Policing Legitimacy Justin R. Ellis, 2021-07-31. This book critically analyses the impact of digital media technologies on police scandal. Using an in-depth analysis of a viral bystander video of police excessive force filmed at the 2013 Sydney Gay and Lesbian Mardi Gras Parade and uploaded to YouTube, the book addresses the ways social media video surveillance can shape operational and institutional police responses to police misconduct. The volume features new research on the immediate and longer-term impacts of social media-generated police scandal on police legitimacy and accountability and responds to inherent questions of procedural justice. It interrogates the technological, political, and legal frameworks that govern the relationships between the police and LGBTQI communities in Australia and beyond, through the social media test the police narratives created and contested through social media, mainstream media, and police media. In doing so, it considers the role of sexual citizenship discourse as a political, economic, and social organizing principle. A comprehensive and interdisciplinary understanding of digital and queer criminology; this is an essential read for those working at the intersection of criminology and the digital society, queer criminology, and critical criminology.

Fair Cop Christine Nixon, 2012-08-01. Christine Nixon became the first female Chief Commissioner of Police in Australia, appointed to head Victoria Police at a most crucial time: the underworld was in the midst of a bloody war, the spectre of terrorism was emerging as a powerful new threat, and there was a stench of internal corruption. In this frank and engaging memoir, Christine Nixon reflects on the journey of a woman deep into a man's world, describing the experiences that shaped her commitment to a model of policing as a community service committed to caring for society's most vulnerable. She explores the challenges of managing a police force through a period of profound social and cultural change, explains the hidden tensions at the front line of politics and policing, and exposes the poisonous culture war within police ranks. Fair Cop candidly shares the public and private stories of Christine Nixon, woman, spouse, citizen, constable, on a journey that encounters tragedy, corruption, ambition, and humility. In its final chapters, it takes readers inside the events of Black Saturday, the disaster that would so cruelly scar the state of Victoria, claim so many lives, and test Christine Nixon as nothing before. It tracks the intimate story of her days before the Bushfires Royal Commission and recounts her efforts as head of the Victorian Bushfires
