Exile And The Narrative Imagination:

Exile and the Narrative Imagination Michael Seidel, 1986 Exile and the Narrative/Poetic Imagination Agnieszka Gutthy, 2020-06-12 Exile and the Narrative Poetic Imagination is a collection of essays examining a variety of narrative and poetic responses to exile. Intended to complement existing scholarship on exile, these essays discuss works from very different parts of the world, some of them relatively rarely studied through the lens of exile, including Armenia, Egypt, Tibet, and Liberia. The book is divided into five parts, each discussing different aspects of this condition, such as feelings of loss and loneliness, memories of trauma, and the search for identity. The Dialectics of Exile Sophia A. McClennen, 2004 The history of exile literature is as old as the history of writing itself. Despite this vast and varied literary tradition, criticism of exile writing has tended to analyze these works according to a binary logic where exile either produces creative freedom or it traps the writer in restrictive nostalgia. The Dialectics of Exile: Nation, Time, Language, and Space in Hispanic Literatures offers a theory of exile writing that accounts for the persistence of these dual impulses and for the ways that they often co-exist within the same literary works. Focusing on writers working in the latter part of the twentieth century who were exiled during a historical moment of increasing globalization, transnational economics, and the theoretical shifts of postmodernism, Sophia A. McClennen proposes that exile literature is best understood as a series of dialectic tensions about cultural identity. Through comparative analysis of Juan Goytisolo (Spain), Ariel Dorfman (Chile), and Cristina Peri Rossi (Uruguay), this book explores how these writers represent exile identity. Each chapter addresses dilemmas central to debates over cultural identity, such as nationalism versus globalization, time as historical or cyclical, language as representationally accurate or disconnected from reality, and social space as utopic or dystopic. McClennen demonstrates how the complex writing of these three authors functions as an alternative discourse of cultural identity that not only challenges official versions imposed by authoritarian regimes but also tests the limits of much cultural criticism. Literature and Exile David Bevan, 1990 "For was I Not Born Here?" Anne Holden Rønning, 2010 As Lauris Edmond writes, du Fresne's work is a tapestry of the past and present, storying immigrant life. Flitting in and out of the past is shown to be one way of coming to terms with the present and of understanding the importance of home, as is evident in The Book of Ester and Frederique, both centering on the manifold, complex European cultural traditions that were often overlooked in settler countries. Another is to be an inquisitive spy on the land, like the child narrator Astrid Westergaard in du Fresne's magnificent stories, many of them originally radio broadcasts which depict life in a small Danish community in the Manawatu in the 1930s, often in a humorous and ironic manner.

Exiles Traveling, 2015-06-29 This volume presents for the first time a study of the interface between exile and travel within the context of exile from Nazi Germany. The nineteen essays share the overarching aim to compare the tropes of travel and exile as generators of a critical discourse and as central categories within German exile, in particular literature, music, and film. The essays are guided by powerful questions: How does travel compare to exile, and how much overlap is there between these two categories How do exiles travel as practitioners of displacement Or rather to what extent does the concept of travel apply to the exilic predicament Do the terms exile and travel still have validity in our postmodern era of cosmopolitanism ever increasing mobility the embrace of otherness and tourism How does exile literature in which travel is thematized compare to the traditions of travel writing And how are the critical moments of leavetaking remembering home and return imagined and narrated The essays feature numerous German and Austrian authors musicians and filmmakers and lend fresh insights into German Exile and the field of Exile Studies at large

José Martí's "Our America" Jeffrey Grant Belnap, Raul A. Fernandez, 1998 Considerable attention has been given to Cuban poet essayist and activist José Martí's 1891 essay Nuestra América but relatively little has been paid to the rest of the journalistic work that Martí produced during his fourteen year exile in the United States In José Martí's Our America Jeffrey Belnap and Raul Fernandez present essays from Latin American Caribbean and U S based scholars who consider Martí's rich and underexplored body of work and position Martí as an emblem of New American studies A Cuban exile from 1881 to 1895 Martí was a correspondent writing in New York for various Latin American newspapers Grasping the significance of rising U S imperial power he came to understand the Americas as a complex system of kindred but not equal national formations whose cultural and political integrity was threatened by the overbearing aggressiveness of the United States This collection explores how in his journalistic work Martí critiques U S racism imperialism and capitalism warns Latin America of impending U S geographical cultural and economic annexation and calls for recognition of the diversity of America's cultural voices Reinforcing Martí's hemispheric vision with essays by a wide range of scholars who investigate his analysis of the United States his significance as a Latino outsider and his analyses of Latin American cultural politics this volume explores the affinities between Martí's thought and current reexaminations of what it means to study America José Martí's Our America offers a new understanding of Martí's ambiguous and problematic relation with the United States and will engage scholars and students in American Latin American and Latino studies as well as those interested in cultural postcolonial gender and ethnic studies Contributors Jeffrey Belnap Raul Fernandez Ada Ferrer Susan Gillman George Lipsitz Oscar Martí David Noble Donald E Pease Beatrice Pita Brenda Gayle Plummer Susana Rotker Jos David Saldívar Rosaura Sánchez Enrico Mario Sant' Doris Sommer Brook Thomas
