Language, Discourse and Anxiety Luke Collins, Paul Baker, 2023-06-22 Why is language so important to the ways that we make sense of anxiety? This book uses corpus assisted discourse analysis to examine twenty three million words of text posted to a forum for people with anxiety. It shows how linguistic techniques like catastrophisation and anthropomorphisation can result in very different conceptualisations of anxiety, as well as how aspects of identity like age, sex, and cultural background can impact on understandings of anxiety and how it ought to be managed. It tracks the changing identities of posters from their first posts to their last and incorporates a range of corpus based techniques to examine the language data, enabling consideration of interaction between participants and features associated with online forms of communication like emoji. It ultimately provides a step towards a better understanding of different responses to anxiety and aims to promote further engagement with this topic in the field of applied linguistics.

Translanguaging in EFL Contexts Michael Rabbidge, 2019-03-26 The purpose of this book is to promote the value of translanguaging in EFL teaching contexts. To date, translanguaging has been discussed mostly in regards to US and European contexts. This book will examine the teaching beliefs and practices of teachers within a South Korean elementary school context to evaluate the practices of current teachers who use translanguaging strategies when teaching. This examination utilizes sociological theories of pedagogic discourse to discuss the consequences of language exclusion policies on the peninsula. Using these theories, it presents an argument for why EFL contexts like South Korea need to reevaluate their current policies and understandings of language learning and teaching. By embracing translanguaging as an approach, the author argues they will transform their traditional notions of language learning and teaching in order to view teachers as bilinguals and learners as emerging bilinguals rather than use terms of deficiency that have traditionally been in place for such contexts. This book's unique use of sociological theories of pedagogic discourse supports a need to promote the translanguaging ideology of language teaching.
