In The Field:

In the Field, Among the Feathered Thomas R. Dunlap, 2011-12-14 America is a nation of ardent knowledgeable birdwatchers But how did it become so And what role did the field guide play in our passion for spotting watching and describing birds In the Field Among the Feathered tells the history of field guides to birds in America from the Victorian era to the present relating changes in the guides to shifts in science the craft of field identification and new technologies for the mass reproduction of images Drawing on his experience as a passionate birder and on a wealth of archival research Thomas Dunlap shows how the twin pursuits of recreation and conservation have inspired birders and how field guides have served as the preferred method of informal education about nature for well over a century The book begins with the first generation of late 19th century birdwatchers who built the hobby when opera glasses were often the best available optics and bird identification was sketchy at best As America became increasingly urban birding became more attractive and with Roger Tory Peterson s first field guide in 1934 birding grew in both popularity and accuracy By the 1960s recreational birders were attaining new levels of expertise even as the environmental movement made birding s other pole conservation a matter of human health and planetary survival Dunlap concludes by showing how recreation and conservation have reached a new balance in the last 40 years as scientists have increasingly turned to amateurs whose expertise had been honed by the new guides to gather the data they need to support habitat preservation Putting nature lovers and citizen activists at the heart of his work Thomas Dunlap offers an entertaining history of America s long standing love affair with birds and with the books that have guided and informed their enthusiasm Rebels in the Field Alec Worsnop, Assistant Professor School of Public Policy Alec Worsnop, 2025-10-06 Insurgent movements around the world vary widely in their military efficacy from little known and short lived organizations to the Taliban which completed its takeover of Afghanistan in 2021 What accounts for this variation in insurgent military power and success on the battlefield Rebels in the Field answers this question by developing the cadre theory an insurgent organization s ability to conduct complex military activities like guerrilla warfare depends on its development of cadres that create strong links between the organization the environment and its members More complex forms of military power argues Alec Worsnop require organizations to develop effective small unit combat leaders military cadres Revising conventional wisdom Worsnop finds that strong social and political ties do not result in meaningful combat power on their own and can even detract from military potential After building the cadre theory through the lens of the Taliban 2001 2021 the book tests the theory by evaluating 17 organizations in Vietnam 1940 1975 and Iraq 2003 2016 reshaping our understanding of civil wars and military organization The Field of Chinese Language Education in the U.S. Vivian Ling, 2018-02-13 This book will be the first account of the development of Chinese as a foreign language in the U S as it interacts with the relevant entities in China and beyond There are virtually no systematic retrospective reflections on the field outside of the greater China region and yet over the past decades the field has grown by leaps and bounds and it is critical now that we pause to reflect on what has happened and what we can learn from the past The contributors are among some of the most influential pioneers in the field whose entire academic lives have been dedicated to its development The Field of Chinese Language Education in the U S A Retrospective of the 20th Century is aimed at those who are currently engaged in Chinese language education as teachers or as students Brigade drill, as established by order in the Field exercise and evolutions of infantry, as revised in 1859. Photospheric and Chromospheric Magnetic Fields and the Brightness of Faculae and Focculi T. T. Tsap, 1970

Photospheric and chromospheric longitudinal magnetic fields and the brightness of faculae and focculi are compared. The connection between the brightness distribution at different depths in active regions on the sun is investigated. The following results are obtained:

- 1 There is a close connection between the position of faculae observed in the light of the lines 5250 and 6102 Å and focculi observed in K3Ca lines and the H alpha nucleus as well as the position of the photospheric and chromospheric magnetic fields.
- 2 The correlation factors between the brightnesses of focculi in the K3 line and the H alpha nucleus are roughly identical with both photospheric and chromospheric fields.
- 3 The course of the brightness change in the case of a section through an active region in the lines 5250 Å, 6102 Å, K3 and the H alpha nucleus is approximately equal although there sometimes are small deviations.

The results obtained agree well with the fact that the distributions of the magnetic field in the photosphere and chromosphere are close. Severny 1966 and 1960.

Changes in the Field of Transport Studies J.B. Polak, J.B. van der Kamp, 2012-12-06. This liber amicorum honours Professor Jan Tissot van Patot as a scholar referring in particular to his concern with transport economics. The significance of his work grew out of his influence within Netherlands Railways as with the passage of the years he dedicated himself increasingly to the vastly wider field of transport economics. I would emphasize however that his theoretical knowledge and views in wider contexts have also been of great value to Netherlands Railways and I greatly appreciate this opportunity of referring to this aspect in a few personal words. It is characteristic both of his person and his attitude that his work was often the occasion for contacts of a more personal nature, contacts which were profoundly marked by his philosophy and convictions. Our relations date from more than thirty seven years ago when he asked me for a contribution for a magazine which he helped to edit at that time and which was concerned with the same field as I was. We became colleagues when he entered the service of NS, the Netherlands Railways. His sphere of work at that time was such that he was consulted more and more frequently by others. His particular value to NS has been the increased dimension of transport policy and decision making he added to the company's existing policy and decision making.

Fields and Streams Rebecca Lave, 2012-11-01. Examining the science of stream restoration, Rebecca Lave argues that the neoliberal emphasis on the privatization and commercialization of knowledge has fundamentally changed the way that science is funded, organized and viewed in the United States. Stream restoration science and practice is in a startling state. The most widely respected expert in the field, Dave Rosgen, is a private consultant with relatively little formal scientific training. Since the mid 1990s many academic and federal agency based scientists have denounced Rosgen as a charlatan and a hack. Despite this, Rosgen's Natural Channel Design approach, classification system and short course series are not only accepted but are viewed as more legitimate than academically produced knowledge and training. Rosgen's methods are now promoted by federal agencies including the Environmental Protection Agency, the U.S. Forest Service, the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service and the Natural Resources Conservation Service as well as by resource agencies in dozens of states. Drawing on the work of Pierre Bourdieu Lave demonstrates that the primary cause of Rosgen's success is neither the method nor the man but is instead the assignment of a new legitimacy to scientific claims developed outside the academy concurrent with academic scientists decreasing ability to defend their turf What is at stake in the Rosgen wars argues Lave is not just the ecological health of our rivers and streams but the very future of environmental science     They Leave Their Kidneys in the Fields Sarah Bronwen Horton, 2016-07-19 They Leave Their Kidneys in the Fields takes the reader on an ethnographic tour of the melon and corn harvesting fields of California's Central Valley to understand why farmworkers suffer heatstroke and chronic illness at rates higher than workers in any other industry Through captivating accounts of the daily lives of a core group of farmworkers over nearly a decade Sarah Bronwen Horton documents in startling detail how a tightly interwoven web of public policies and private interests creates exceptional and needless suffering     Atoms and Molecules in Strong

Meso America Two chapters which illustrate religious paradigms and political action explore in detail the confrontation between Henry II and Thomas Becket and between Hidalgo the Mexican liberator and his former friends Other essays deal with long term religious processes such as the Christian pilgrimage in Europe and the emergence of anti caste movements in India Finally he directs his attention to other social phenomena such as transitional and marginal groups hippies and dissident religious sects showing that in the very process of dying they give rise to new forms of social structure or revitalized versions of the old order Official Gazette of the United States Patent and Trademark Office ,2004
