Philip Hider, Ross Harvey, 2008-06-01 Organising Knowledge in a Global Society updates the successful first edition which has been widely used as an introduction to the field of information organisation both in Australia and overseas The work reflects current practice and trends paying particular attention to how libraries and other information services provide intellectual access to digital information resources through metadata In this revision the various information organisation components of the Web 2.0 phenomenon are discussed including social tagging and folksonomies. The new edition also covers the latest developments in metadata standards such as Resource Description and Access and information retrieval systems such as the increasing support for faceted navigation. Examples and case studies have been updated throughout. Federal Software Exchange Catalog, 1986 China Exchange News, 1983 International Exchange in the Early Modern Book World Matthew McLean, Sara K. Barker, 2016-07-11. International Exchange in the Early Modern Book World presents new research on several aspects of the movement and exchange of books between countries, languages and confessions. It considers elements of the international book trade: the circulation and collection of texts; the practice of translation and the diffusion and exchange of technical and cultural knowledge. Commercial and logistical aspects of the early modern book trade are considered as are the relationships between local markets and the internationally minded firms which sought to meet their expectations. The barriers to the movement of books across borders: political, linguistic, confessional, cultural, are explored as are the means by which these barriers were surmounted. Handbook on the International Exchange of Publications Kirsti Ekonen, Päivi Paloposki, Pentti Vattulainen, 2006. Annotation: International exchange of publications continues to be an important mode of collection building and is practiced by almost all major libraries. The 5th edition of the Handbook offers all changes in three parts: Practices, History and Contemporary Examples, and a Directory. Relationships in the Organization of Knowledge A. Bean, R. Green, 2013-04-17. Relationships abound in the library and information science LIS world. Those relationships may be social in nature as for instance when we deal with human relationships among library personnel or relationships i.e. public relations between an information center and its clientele. The relationships may be educational as for example when we examine the relationship between the curriculum of an accredited school and the needs of the work force it is preparing students to join. Or the relationships may be economic as when we investigate the relationship between the cost of journals and the frequency with which they are cited. Many of the relationships of concern to us reflect phenomena entirely internal to the field: the relationship between manuscript collections, archives and special collections; the relationship between end user search behavior and the effectiveness of searches; the relationship between access to and use of information resources; the relationship between recall and precision; the relationship between various bibliometric laws etc. The list of such relationships could go on and on. The relationships addressed in this volume are restricted to those involved in the organization of recorded knowledge which tend to have a conceptual or semantic basis although statistical means are sometimes used in their discovery.
