Experience, Explanation and Faith Anthony O'Hear, 2013-05-02 In this book Anthony O'Hear examines the reasons that are given for religious faith. His approach is firmly within the classical tradition of natural theology but an underlying theme is the differences between the personal Creator of the Bible or the Koran and a God conceived of as the indeterminate ground of everything determinate. Drawing on several religious traditions and on the resources of contemporary philosophy, specific chapters analyse the nature of religious faith and of religious experience. They examine connections between religion and morality and religion and human knowledge, the cosmological, teleological and ontological arguments, process thought and the problem that evil presents for religion. The final chapter returns to the inherently dogmatic nature of religious faith and concludes that rational people should look beyond religion for the fulfilment of their spiritual needs. A Companion to Intellectual History Richard Whatmore, Brian Young, 2015-10-27 A Companion to Intellectual History provides an in-depth survey of the practice of intellectual history as a discipline. Forty newly commissioned chapters showcase leading global research with broad coverage of every aspect of intellectual history as it is currently practiced. Presents an in-depth survey of recent research and practice of intellectual history. Written in a clear and accessible manner designed for an international audience. Surveys the various methodologies that have arisen and the main historiographical debates that concern intellectual historians. Pays special attention to contemporary controversies, providing readers with the most current overview of the field. Demonstrates the ways in which intellectual historians have contributed to the history of science and medicine, literary studies, art history and the history of political thought. Named Outstanding Academic Title of 2016 by Choice Magazine, a publication of the American Library Association. The Expository Times, 1897
